REBELS SHIFT OFFENSIVE TO ROAD SOUTH OF BILBAO

Mola's Men Attack Orduña Highway Along Nervion River, After Assaults North and East of Basque Capital.

ARTILLERY, PLANES IN ACTION AT DAWN
Prepare the Way for Operations of Infantry—Defenders Say They Inflicted Heavy Losses on Besieging Fascists.

REPEATED REBEL CHARGES.
Gen. Mola's infantrymen charged repeatedly at Basque defenders of Orduña-Bilbao road, which parallels the Nervion River, the Basque (Spanish Government) news agency said.

Despite the preparatory shelling, machine and mortar gunning by the rebels, the agency said, the Basque forces inflicted heavy losses on Gen. Mola's men.

The Basque high command last admitted it had "modified its positions" under the pressure of Gen. Mola's two-month-old offensive.

The fighting near Orduña yesterday took place in a triangular sector of which Orduña, Murguia, and 10 miles to the south, and Murguia, about three miles north of Orduña, were the points. The Basque forces retreated after what the agency called a "feeble resistance," leaving 50 dead and more than 100 wounded.

Gen. Mola sent his infantry across the hills and slopes in the area of tanks and machine guns, while field guns and mortars sent hundreds of shells into the Basque lines.

The red-banded Carlists, descendants of the political warriors who supported the ill-fated move for secession of Don Carlos to the throne a century ago, are among Gen. Mola's fiercest soldiers.

MRS. ROOSEVELT RESIGNS POST IN INDIAN ASSOCIATION

Does Not Think It Has Sufficient Evidence of Charges It Is Making.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Mrs. Otto Heinigke, president of the National Indian Association, said last night Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt had resigned as an honorary vice-president "because she felt the organization had insufficient evidence to support the charges it was making."

WOMAN DRIVER GETS 5 YEARS

Mrs. Flossie Hoffman Pleads Guilty to Manslaughter in Crash Case.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 27.—Mrs. Flossie Sullens Hoffman, 23 years old, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary today by Circuit Judge N. G. Sevier after pleading guilty to charges of manslaughter in connection with the death of Virgil Schaeuwer of Westphalia in an automobile accident May 19.

Schaeuwer was fatally injured when his car was struck by a car driven by Mrs. Hoffman.

MOSCOW, May 27.—The second supply plane of the Soviet Union's North Pole expedition reached the main base today, after a flight of 32 miles from the floe on which it landed yesterday.

Pilot A. D. Alexiev and his crew joined the main party at 4:10 p. m. He took off from Rudolf Island yesterday.

There was no word to indicate that the third plane from Rudolf Island, which landed yesterday about 35 miles behind the pole, had joined the others as yet. It was unreported for 24 hours, but Pilot I. P. Mazuruk announced the safe landing by radio early today.

The first supply plane flew direct from Rudolf Island to the polar camp. Pilot Vassily Molokov covered the 560 miles in seven hours and 24 minutes.

The three supply planes carry eight tons of supplies for the polar party.

Last Friday the pathfinding plane, carrying Pilot Mikhail Vodyanov, Prof. Otto J. Schmidt, the expedition's leader, and 11 others, flew over the pole and landed near it.

Lacked Skilled Radio Men.
Director Schmidt attributed Mazuruk's failure to communicate his whereabouts sooner to the fact that none of the six men aboard his plane was a skilled radio operator.

Schmidt reported the base camp heard Mazuruk's signals at 5:30 and 5:43 this morning and they indicated all was well with the Mazuruk group.

Mazuruk then radioed: "We're behind the North Pole airplane all right. Crew safe. Busy preparing runway for takeoff when ice is thickest. We await orders. Radio batteries weak. Where are other planes?"

The planes have ample provisions for a long stay, including special food for the winter campers.

The ice floe on which the pathfinding plane landed last Friday has been drifting away from the pole at the rate of about 12 miles a day.

Last night Schmidt gave his position as 89.03 north and about 50 west or near 70 miles from the pole. Alexiev reported he was at about 89.50 north and 58.30 west, close to where Schmidt and the others first landed.

The planes have ample provisions for a long stay, including special food for winter campers.

All the planes are in west longitude, that is, beyond the pole from the viewpoint of their Rudolf Island base, which is about 80 degrees east. The general direction of drift is toward the American continent.

Weather at the Pole.

It was 19 above zero (Fahrenheit) at the polar base today, it was reported by radio. The sky was overcast and visibility was about six miles.

The temperature had risen from 17.6 degrees above zero earlier in the day. At that time the wind was northeasterly from Moscow, the sky was completely overcast and visibility was only two and one-half miles.

Four men are to remain at the polar base for a year's scientific observations, in preparation for the Soviet's plan to establish regular flights over the Arctic to the United States.

BRIDGE CROSSING GOLDEN GATE OPEN TO PEDESTRIANS

100,000 Expected to Try $35,000,000 Structure on First Day — Wheel Traffic Tomorrow.

WORLD'S LONGEST SUSPENSION SPAN

San Francisco Starts Week's Celebration of Completion of Work Begun 5 Years Ago.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 27.—A hundred thousand persons started out today to walk across the Golden Gate as San Francisco's new $35,000,000 bridge, world's longest suspension span, was opened to the public after nearly five years of work.

The pathway lay across 4200 feet of concrete and steel which join San Francisco to Marin County, southern section of Northern California's redwood empire.

This was "Pedestrian day." Tomorrow the bridge will be opened to automobile traffic.

San Francisco began yesterday a week-long celebration of the bridge opening.

Only a few miles away from the new structure is the transbay bridge, which opened Nov. 12. That bridge, completed at a cost of $77,200,000, supplements the ferry boats that ply between San Francisco, Oakland and other East Bay cities.

Until 1938, only automobiles were permitted on the transbay bridge. The Golden Gate bridge, however, is open to pedestrians as well as machines. Its suspension towers are even larger than those of the transbay bridge, which extend 500 feet above and 200 feet below the water.

The swastika flag of Germany still fluttered from the festoons of national emblems in the street decorations despite the threat of the maritime Federation to withdraw from the celebration unless the flag were taken down.

Acting Consul General August Ponschag of Germany called on Mayor Rossi today and protested against the action of six men who tore the Nazi emblem yesterday.

A citizens' "Emergency Committee" called upon Mayor Rossi seeking to a "fiesta true" in the strike of 4400 workers which has tied up the city's 16 largest hotels.

Pickets left their beats at the hotels and also visited the Mayor's office. Representatives of both sides met in a final effort to arrange a temporary peace but the conference broke up.

Delegations all the way from Canada to Guatemala began pouring into the city yesterday, Oregon sent several thousand, including its Governor, Charles F. Brannan. A Washington State delegation headed by Gov. Clarence Martin is on the way.

HEAVIEST RAIN IN 5 YEARS IN SOUTHWESTERN DUST AREA

Precipitation Up to 2.64 Inches Over Strip 50 Miles Wide in Texas and Oklahoma.

AMARILLO, Tex., May 27.—The "Dust Bowl" biggest rain in five years fell last night in a 5000 square mile area. Rain up to 2.64 inches was reported over a strip 50 miles wide, east and west from Southern Kansas through Oklahoma's Panhandle and into the Texas plains. Dalhart, Tex., reported the heaviest fall.

Rains of an inch and a half or better were reported from Etter, Tex., and Boise City, Ok., Guymon, Texhoma, Mallett, in Oklahoma, and Texline, Rehmi, in Texas.

The wheat sector in the Texas Panhandle was expected to benefit from the bridge. The precipitation extended into New Mexico, Tucuman reporting light showers. Liberal, Kan., had a heavy rain.

UNION CHARGES FORD CO. POLICE BEAT ORGANIZERS

Says "Deliberate and Malicious" Attack on CIO Men and Others Was Not Made by the Workers.

COMPLAINT FILED WITH LABOR BOARD

It Accuses Concern of Interfering With Employees in Exercising Right to Organize.

DETROIT, May 27.—The United Automobile Workers of America said today it intended to prosecute "in every possible way" those responsible for the beating of two union organizers and 16 other persons at the gates of the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Co. yesterday afternoon.

Within a short time after the assault, which took place in suburban Dearborn, the union attorney, Maurice Sugar, filed charges against the company with the National Labor Relations Board.

There was dispute over identity of the assailants. Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director in charge of the company's police force, said they were men waiting to go to work. He did not identify them. The unionists said they recognized some as members of the Ford service department which polices the plant.

Reports on the affair were sent by the union to Gov. Frank Murphy and to Senator La Follette's Civil Liberties Committee, which had investigators on the scene. The Michigan Legislature received proposals for an investigation and to censure the Ford company.

The union was informed today that Albert Mooradian, chief steward of the Chrysler Corporation's Highland Park plant, and a companion, James Kelly, 20, had been beaten with blackjacks near the Rouge plant this morning by men in three automobiles who forced them to get into a car.

Statement by Union.
"The deliberate and malicious attack by Ford service men on UAWA organizers and members completely destroys the Ford myth of benevolence and philanthropy," the union said in a statement.

"The UAWA intends to prosecute this case in every possible way and with all vigor and energy. The world has seen the true character of the Ford Motor Co. We don't intend that it shall forget it."

The management of the plant said it operated without interruption during the disturbance. The company's factory at Richmond, Cal., is closed because of labor troubles.

Charges Against Company.
"We charge the Ford Motor Co.," said the allegations placed before the Labor Board, "with interfering with, restraining and coercing employees in the exercise of their right, guaranteed to them by the National Labor Relations Act, to have the privilege of organizing, forming, joining and assisting labor organizations and to bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing, and to engage in concerted activities for the purpose of collective bargaining or other mutual aid and protection."

We charge further that the Ford Motor Co. by discriminating in regard to hire, tenure or employment, terms and conditions of employment, discourages membership in any labor organization."

The trouble broke out on an overhead bridge leading from the main plant to a street car loop. Four union organizers had gone to the bridge preparatory to distributing handbills for Ford employees at the change of shifts.

Thrown Down Stairs.
Richard T. Frankenstein, UAWA organizational director, and Walter Reuther, president of the large west side local, were beaten, kicked and thrown down the stairs from the bridge. They said that about 150 men were loitering about and that 20 or 25 attacked each of them.

The union listed eight other men and eight women as among the injured. One man, Tony Marinovich, who said he had been a truck driver at Ford for seven years, was taken to the University of Michigan Hospital at Ann Arbor after Dr. Eugene Schafferman said he might have a skull fracture.

The entire group of assailants followed the organizers to the ground, and chased them along the tracks. Frankenstein, knocked down repeatedly, would get to his feet and renew the fight. Reuther and the others were less badly battered. Women members of the U. A. W. A. "emergency brigade" wearing INCIDENT in today's clash between workers and pickets at Roberta Jill Dress Factory, New Albany, Ind.

500 REPORTED KILLED IN COLLAPSE OF DAM

Third of Town in State of Michoacan, Mexico, Reported Destroyed.

MEXICO, D. F., May 27.—Residents of El Oro, in the State of Mexico, in telephone messages said about 500 persons were thought to have been killed when the collapse of a dam buried the nearby town of Tlalpujahua, in mud and sand.

Tlalpujahua is in the State of Michoacan.

The dam, high in the mountains of the Tlalpujahua Sierra, was used in metal processing operations carried on by the Dos Estrellas Mining Co. Recent heavy rains had so increased the pressure that the dam went out at 3 a. m. today while most of the residents of Tlalpujahua, situated in a deep ravine below, were asleep.

Employees of the mining company, which is controlled by American and British capital, said 29 bodies had been removed. They said it was estimated 700 houses had been destroyed, about one-third of the town.

The Red Cross sent all available ambulances from Mexico, D. F., to the scene of the disaster, about 85 miles northwest of the capital.

WOMAN WORKERS FIGHT WITH PICKETS IN INDIANA STRIKE

Pull Hair and Tear at Each Other's Clothing at Dress Factory in New Albany.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., May 27.—Women pulled hair and tore at each others' clothes today as five workers attempted to pass through the picket lines at the Roberta Jill Dress Factory here. A strike for more pay and union recognition has been in progress seven weeks. Police guards were withdrawn yesterday.

The workers finally gave up attempts to enter and Louis J. Sopkin, factory president, closed the plant but said it would be reopened tomorrow or Saturday. The firm's plant in Chicago also is involved in a strike. About 100 women were at work in the local plant prior to the strike.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER BURIED IN CLEVELAND

Brief Ceremony Held at Grave at Lake View Cemetery.

CLEVELAND, O., May 27.—John D. Rockefeller was buried today between the graves of his wife and his mother after a short ceremony in Lake View Cemetery.

The body arrived today, escorted by relatives and members of his household, and was taken almost immediately to the cemetery, not far from the Forest Hills estate where he lived for many years.

The funeral party traveled in special cars from Tarrytown, N. Y., where funeral services were held yesterday. The Rev. Willard S. Richardson of New York, a college classmate of John D. Rockefeller Jr., accompanied the party from New York and officiated at the brief committal ceremony.

A short funeral procession from the East Cleveland railroad station, through the Forest Hills estate, preceded the service.

Following the burial, members of the family went to the homes of Cleveland relatives. They will return to their homes tonight.

The relatives making the trip were John D. Rockefeller Jr. and his five sons, Mr. and Mrs. E. Parmelee Prentice, son-in-law and daughter of John D. Sr.; Miss Mary Adeine Prentice, John Rockefeller Prentice, Mr. and Mrs. Spelman Prentice, Mrs. E. Dyer Hubbard, Fowler McCormick and Max Oser, whose wife, the former Matilda McCormick, is in Europe.

Also with the party were John Yardi, companion and nurse of the elder Rockefeller, and three other employees.

INDIANS FIND MISSING GIRL, 7

Companion Still Sought in Saskatchewan Wilds.
PELLEY, Saskatchewan, May 27.—Seven-year-old Hazel Machican, one of two little girls missing from their farm home since Sunday when they set out to look for stray cattle, was found alive by a band of Indians in a dense bush country yesterday, 20 miles from where the two had last been seen.

PICKETS THROWN ABOUT REPUBLIC, YOUNGSTOWN AND INLAND CO. MILLS

Three Independent Concerns Employing 80,000 in Five States, One Seventh of the Industry's Roll, Affected.

SOME FACTORIES CONTINUE TO RUN

Foreman Shot Trying to Enter Works at Canton, O.—Three Union Men Slugged by Company Police at Warren.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 27.—An orderly strike of more than 70,000 workers, called by the Committee for Industrial Organization to enforce its demand for bargaining contracts, crippled steel operations today in five states.

In Ohio's Mahoning Valley 32,000 workers are idle, and the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee said the strike was a "100 per cent tie-up" of plants of Republic Steel Corporation and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., independent steel producers which have expressed willingness to bargain with the CIO affiliate but have insisted signing of a contract would lead to a closed shop.

In the Chicago area, where 25,000 were affected, the strike shut down plants of the Inland Steel Co., third of the three independents affected by the strike order. Fifteen thousand more men are idle in Ohio plants outside the Mahoning Valley.

Some Men in the Plants.
Republic spokesmen said several of its mills were operating, but union leaders insisted only a few men remained in the plants. In the Buffalo area CIO leaders reported a two-thirds shut-down; the companies said most men were working.

Philip Murray, John L. Lewis' lieutenant in organizing the steel industry, sent a telegram to Tom L. Girdler, Republic's chairman, asking for a meeting with Girdler to discuss Republic's refusal to meet the CIO demand for a bargaining contract.

"You still have an opportunity to meet with and negotiate a signed agreement upon the basis of the standard wage agreements negotiated and signed by 140 steel companies and the representatives of the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee. What do you propose to do about it? We are ready," the telegram said.

Murray denied the union demanded a closed shop and asserted the strike "was precipitated by you and your associates" through refusal to sign a labor agreement.

At Pittsburgh the union filed complaints with the Regional Labor Relations Board, charging Republic with "coercion" and "intimidation" against union members. The complaint charged "the company has been following a definite policy of interference with and defeating the rights of employees to join the union."

An earlier complaint was filed at Cleveland, May 21.

Little Disorder in Stoppage.
The first test of the strike's effectiveness came at 11 o'clock last night, when the shifts changed. The second test was at 7 a. m. today, time for another shift change. There was little disorder.

Picket lines were thrown around 37 plants, employing a seventh of the steel industry's workers, in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, New York and Pennsylvania. Plants in the Pittsburgh district continued to operate.

Work was halted at three of Republic's four Cleveland units—each employing several thousand workers—and picket lines quickly mobilized around the three concerns' plants in the Chicago district. Police broke up a picket line around Republic's South Chicago plant. A spokesman said Republic had

MAQUES POSTPONE GERMANS' EXECUTIONS

Bilbao Government Acts to "Facilitate Calmer Discussion of Spanish Situation."

By the Associated Press.

BILBAO, May 27.—The Basque Government announced last night it had postponed the execution of three German aviators captured while serving with the insurgent forces besieging Bilbao and condemned to death.

The announcement said that "after long and careful consideration the Basque Government has postponed these executions in order to facilitate calmer discussion about the Spanish situation and to prevent operation of motives which could serve to prolong the intervention of Fascist states in our civil war."

The three under sentence of death were Capt. Walter Kienzel and Lieut. Gunther Schulze, captured and sentenced last week, and Hans Joachim Waddel, sentenced by Basque court Tuesday night. Waddel was taken when he landed by parachute in Basque territory from his disabled warplane.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 27.—The Basque Government's announcement it had postponed the execution of three German aviators was received here with gratification.

Official sources pointed out that Germany's warm approval of the insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's action releasing 48 foreign volunteers in the Spanish civil war indicated the German attitude toward the war. The move toward every move in the direction of humanization of the war. Pending negotiations for a general truce in the war during the which all foreign volunteers might be withdrawn from Spain, the German man press has been instructed to cease attacks on the Spanish Government.

HELD FOR SHOOTING BOY, Under $1000 Bond.

By the Associated Press.

EUREKA, Ill., May 27.—Michael Donovan, 67 years old, of La Salle, Ill., a special agent for the Illinois Central Railroad, was held for a September grand jury under $1000 bond today on a charge of shooting a 9-year-old boy playing on a railroad boxcar. The specific charge is assault and battery with a deadly weapon.

The boy, John Sissinger of Milwaukee, was shot yesterday in the head and back when he and other boys refused to leave a string of boxcars occupied by a carnival show. Donovan said he fired a .25-caliber pistol to frighten the boys.

CONTRACTOR GOES ON THE STAND IN PLASTERING TRIAL

Frank P. Rowan, One of Five Business Defendants, Tells About Checking Committee.

OFF DENIAL BY UNION AGENTS

William Anderson Gives Testimony Similar to That of Three Others in Conspiracy Case.

Frank P. Rowan, president of P. Rowan & Sons Plastering Co., one of five contractors on trial in United States District Court for conspiracy to defraud the United States on a contract, took the witness stand in his own behalf this afternoon. He is secretary of the Contracting Plasterers' Association and a member of that organization's "checking committee," which Government alleges dished out excessive prices to member contractors.

Rowan identified the minutes of the association in De-France's action releasing 48 foreign volunteers in the Spanish civil war. The move toward every move in the direction of humanization of the war. Pending negotiations for a general truce in the war during the which all foreign volunteers might be withdrawn from Spain, the German man press has been instructed to cease attacks on the Spanish Government.

Rowan said he was not instructed to supervise construction under N. R. A. Lee also was asked to join in the conspiracy to defraud the United States. He was not instructed to supervise construction under N. R. A. Lee also was asked to join in the conspiracy to defraud the United States.

Rowan testified that the company's only function was to "authenticate" sheets submitted by contractors and ascertain if error occurred had been made which prevented the work from being done profitably completed. Submission of bids.

Charged With Attempted Murder

THOMAS E. ELDER

ment charges as a witness for himself.

Turning to the jury when he was asked if it was true, as his cousin William Lee had testified for the Government, that contractors had made "pay-offs," Irving Lee said in dramatic fashion: "Gentlemen of the jury, that is the biggest lie that was ever told."

Denies Arbitrary Methods. He denied, as had his brother, that he had used arbitrary methods in putting into effect or enforcing union regulations.

On cross-examination, he said that he was engaged in the "saloon and handbook business," and had 63 employees. He admitted that he had not worked as a journeyman plasterer for about 12 years before he was reinstated in the local union in December, 1934, shortly prior, the Government alleges, to the beginning of a conspiracy to defraud the United States.

"Why did you go back then," the Government counsel asked. "To re-enter the plastering contracting business," the witness replied. He explained that he decided first to join in the conspiracy to get new rules which would eliminate shoddy work, and that within a year's time I could go into the contracting business, profitably."

Why Terms Were Extended. Eight members of the Plasterers' Local Union No. 3 followed Lee to the stand, each testifying that neither the Lee brothers nor other members of the "Big Four" labor leaders had intimidated or coerced them or other workmen to inaugurate, or enforce regulations.

Most of them said that the union plan extending the terms of officers to five years had been discussed at length before it was adopted, and one witness asserted that it was necessary so that the business agents could devote their time to matters of concern to the men without having their efficiency impaired by worry over an annual election.

The plan whereby contractors had to employ men supplied them by business agents was necessary, the witnesses said, because some of the journeymen plasterers were accepting wages below the union scale, and others were not getting work at all.

The Government charges in the indictment that this rule was put in effect so that the labor leaders could discipline contractors, not members of the alleged combine, by sending them "wooden-legged," that is, incompetent, plasterers.

Judge Suggests Question. In the course of the cross-examination, Judge George H. Moore went to the aid of Special Assistant Attorney-General James E. Ruffin with a suggestion to "Go ahead and ask him by what authority he inspected jobs in which his group had no interest."

Lee had testified he inspected all plastering jobs in St. Louis, regardless of whether they were done by union or nonunion workmen, or whether the contractors were members of his association.

RETIRED DEAN HELD FOR SHOTGUN DISPLAY

Accused of Accosting Ex-Cashier of School, Whose Headmaster Was Killed in 1934.

By the Associated Press.

GREENFIELD, Mass., May 27.—Thomas E. Elder, 60 years old, retired dean of Mount Hermon School for Boys, at Northfield, was held in $10,000 bail today for June 3, charged with the attempted murder of a former colleague, Elder, arrested at his Alton (N. H.) home on complaint of F. Allan Norton, former cashier at the school, was brought from Holden Barracks of the State Police, 54 miles eastward.

Norton told police that a man he identified as Elder, accosted him with a shotgun here late Tuesday night. Elder denied this in a statement to newspapermen.

School Scene of Murder in 1934. The Mount Hermon School was the scene of an unsolved murder, less than three years ago. Dr. Elliot Speer, 36-year-old headmaster, was killed by a shotgun blast fired through the window of his study, but both the identity of the murderer and the location of the murder weapon have remained an outstanding New England mystery.

At his farm house in Alton, Elder told newspapermen that he had spent Tuesday night in Keene, N. H., some 40 miles from Greenfield. He said he had retired early because of a heart condition, which caused him to tire easily.

Capt. John F. Stokes, Chief of Massachusetts Detectives, who had ordered a search for Elder as soon as he heard Norton's statement, said the latter told him he was confronted outside the garage of his Greenfield home. Stokes said Norton declared that Elder stepped from the shadows brandishing a shotgun, pulled it out from under his coat, and said: "Norton, I want to see you."

Norton related that he fled into his house and notified police and that meanwhile the man who accosted him fled.

Daniel E. O'Neill, manager of the Keene Hotel, said Mr. and Mrs. Elder registered between 6 and 7 o'clock Tuesday night and left a call for 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Elder told newspapermen that he had breakfast after arising at 7 and set out for Alton soon afterward. He said he had not left his room during the night.

Spent Most of Life at School. Elder, son of a country doctor of Hillydale, Va., spent most of his life at the Mount Hermon School. He first went there as a student in 1903, worked his way through and was graduated from the Northfield Institute in 1907. He then went to Cornell, graduating in 1911, and returned to Northfield in the same year, where he became assistant superintendent.

He was appointed dean of the school in 1926 by Dr. Speer's predecessor, Headmaster Henry F. Cutler. He is known as an authority on Holstein-Friesian cattle and bred one of the best herds in New England at the school during his years there.

GOVERNMENT NEAR END OF VOTE FRAUD TRIAL

Woman Defendant, Who Pleaded No Contest, Says Democratic Judges Marked Ballots.

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 27.—The Government prepared to rest its case in the eighth vote fraud trial in United States District Court today by introducing its final direct witness, Mrs. May Bartlett, a Republican judge, who pleaded nolo contendere.

Testifying in barely audible tones, Mrs. Bartlett said that all the votes in the Eighteenth Precinct of the Third Ward were not counted at the last national election, but that she herself counted more than 16 Republican ballots.

The Republican were credited with only 16 votes and her testimony was given after more than 60 voters had testified they voted the Republican ticket and others told of names registered from vacant lots and unoccupied houses.

Mrs. Bartlett asserted she saw the defendant, James Callahan, a Democratic judge, mark and cast ballots as names were called off by Mike Cummings, a Democratic worker, another defendant.

The other two women who pleaded "no contest" testified Tuesday. Three Democratic election officials and two party workers are on trial.

Earlier testimony today showed ballots were cast in the names of mythical voters registered from vacant lots and unoccupied houses in the Third Ward precinct.

More than a dozen residents of the neighborhood told of the "pads" after a tedious series of more than 60 witnesses who stated they voted the Republican ticket which was only credited officially with 16 votes.

Some witnesses testified they didn't vote at all, although ballots were recorded in their names. Others, all Democratic, had two ballots credited to them.

The Federal grand jury was in session today investigating election practices throughout the city.

Indictments returned thus far involve five of the 16 wards in this machine-controlled city.

Defense Motion for Mistrial Denied Yesterday.

Typical of testimony was that of Litch M. Mitchell, Negro, who said he was registered to vote but was out of the city on election day. Assistant District Attorney Thomas Costlow produced a ballot, corresponding in number with Mitchell's name in the poll book showing that he had voted.

"Did you cast that ballot?" Costlow asked. "No, sir, I did not."

A defense motion for mistrial was overruled by Judge Reeves yesterday.

After Julius Shapiro had asked several witnesses if they knew whether their vote was counted, those counted and each time drew negative replies, S. C. Blair, Assistant United States Attorney interrupted with the query: "Isn't that a useless question when it is evident to everyone that the witnesses were not present when the votes were counted?"

Shapiro demanded that Blair be reprimanded. Judge Reeves answered: "Well, isn't it evident that the witness could not know? You know, the jury knows, and I know in advance the answer the witness will give."

"Because of the remarks of the Court and the District Attorney," Shapiro answered, "I ask that a mistrial be declared."

JURY GETS CASE OF YOUTH AND GIRL TRIED FOR MURDER

State Demands Death for Two Accused of Murder of Mother of Gladys MacKnight in Jersey City.

By the Associated Press.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 27.—The murder case against Gladys MacKnight, 17 years old, and her 19-year-old former sweetheart, Donald Wightman, went to a jury at 5:05 p. m. today after the State demanded the death penalty.

Counsel for the defendants, each of whom accused the other of the actual killing with a hatchet of the girl's mother, asked for the acquittal of both on the ground of self-defense.

They had separate attorneys and on the witness stand told conflicting stories of the killing, but agreed on the one point, that Mrs. Helen MacKnight threatened them with a knife.

Prosecutor Daniel T. O'Regan, in his closing statement to the jury, declared they were guilty of "cold blooded, willful, premeditated" murder and asked for a verdict of first degree murder without mercy.

Defense Plea. R. Lewis Kennedy, attorney for the girl, urged the jurors to acquit her and "send her back home to her father."

Kennedy said: "It is not my desire to prove Gladys innocent by proving Donald guilty."

"If you believe that either this boy or girl acted in self-defense, you should acquit both defendants," Kennedy said. He said the girl's testimony, that Wightman, swinging the hatchet while she struggled with her mother over a knife, had been complete and "without discrepancies."

He said the girl had not really "put the blame on Donald."

"She said he did it, but that he told her he did it because he thought she (Mrs. Helen MacKnight) was going to kill us."

Kennedy also argued "the hatchet blows were struck over Gladys' head."

One of the wounds on Mrs. MacKnight's head was below the hair line, he said. "Gladys was 5 feet 2 inches. The mother was 5 feet 6 inches with her shoes on."

"How could Gladys strike those blows with the hatchet from the position Donald said she did, and not inflict any wounds on the face?" he asked. "It is entirely possible that Donald, 6 feet 1, could have reached over Gladys' head and shoulders and struck Mrs. MacKnight without Gladys knowing what had been done."

Testimony was concluded yesterday.

Wightman accused the girl of hacking Mrs. MacKnight to death after an argument over who should prepare dinner.

Long cross-examination yesterday to shake the boy's story that he grabbed Mrs. MacKnight to prevent her from attacking the girl with a knife and that the daughter without his knowledge, wielded the hatchet.

He insisted the girl's version, that he killed Mrs. MacKnight while mother and daughter wrestled, was one she persuaded him to tell first "to prove my love" for her, but that it was not true.

DIONNE QUINTUPLETS 3 YEARS OLD TOMORROW

Sisters Will Speak on Radio as Part of Celebration; 5 Trees to Be Planted.

CALLANDER, Ontario, May 27.—The Dionne quintuplets will celebrate their third birthday tomorrow.

Marie has been the weakest of the five little girls since they were born on May 28, 1934. She even had an operation to remove a tumor from her thigh. But today, statistics announced by Dr. Allan Roy Dufosse showed she had 18 teeth, more than Cecile and two more than Yvonne, Emilie and Annette.

Annette is the heaviest. She weighs 31½ pounds. Cecile and Yvonne are the runners-up at 31 pounds each. Emilie tips the scales at 30. All grew taller during the month. Annette, Yvonne, Cecile and Marie each registered a quarter of an inch and Emilie one-half an inch. Their heights: Annette, 34½ inches; Yvonne, 34½; Cecile, 34½; Emilie, 34½, and Marie, 34.

There will be an international radio broadcast tomorrow with the quintuplets trying their French on the microphone. They speak almost no English. There will be big crowds to see them and five oak trees sent from a royal forest in England will be planted here in honor of the day.

'AUNT BESSIE' IS BOSS FOR DUKE'S WEDDING

She Takes Complete Charge of Arrangements for Event June 3.

By the Associated Press.

MONTS, France, May 27.—Mrs. D. Buchanan Merryman, Mrs. Simpson's "Aunt Bessie," took over the job of superintending the final preparations for the marriage of her niece and the Duke of Windsor.

Attendants at the Chateau de Cande, where the former King and the woman for whose love he abdicated the British throne will be wed June 3, said the American relative of the bride-elect "rolled up her sleeves and went to work." "She's boss!" they added in no uncertain terms.

Mrs. Merryman, whose home is in Washington, D. C., has taken charge of the servants, calling them by their first names as she supervises their work in the ancient castle. She moved through the rooms at Cande, seeing to it that they were prepared for the first wedding breakfast, who is expected to arrive Monday.

Herman L. Rogers, American spokesman for the Duke and Mrs. Simpson, indicated none of the 16 who accepted—from a list of 30 invited—were expected over the week-end.

Maj. E. R. Metcalfe, who will be Windsor's best man, and Lady Alexandra Metcalfe, it was thought, would be the first arrivals. Maj. Metcalfe was one of the few persons holding court or Government positions to accept invitations. He is an equestrian to the Duke.

Among "Aunt Bessie's" duties are directing preparation of approximately 10 rooms, planning the wedding breakfast and decorations, and deciding on the seating arrangements for the ceremony in the Chateau music room.

Mrs. Simpson went to the assistance of the Duke's secretary, who was swamped with a pile of mail. The prospective bride tackled correspondence which the secretary had not found time to read, opened the envelopes and sorted the letters into neat groups.

Mayor Charles Mercier of Monts, who will perform the ceremony, went through another rehearsal of the 15-minute ceremony today. The Mayor spent an hour going over the service with Edward and Mrs. Simpson in the music-room of the Chateau de Cande.

When he got there Mrs. Simpson, gay and smiling, already had taken her place. She and the Duke peered the Mayor with questions, especially about who would say "oui" first.

The Duke will say the first "oui," the Mayor replied.

Rogers said Sir Walter T. Monckton, Attorney-General of the Duchy of Cornwall, would arrive soon by plane for a "business visit" with the Duke. (This might deal with financial arrangements—the Duke gets no Government pension from Britain.) Sir Walter also is to be a wedding guest.

CONFERENCES ON HEINZ PITTSBURGH STRIKE RESUMED
 Mayor and Labor Board Said to Have Approached a "Hopeful Formula."
 By the Associated Press.
 PITTSBURGH, May 27.—Mayor Cornelius D. Scully and representatives of the Regional Labor Board office today resumed conferences with company and employee leaders in an attempt to end the strike that has kept more than 2000 workers out of the H. J. Heinz Co.'s north side plant since Tuesday.
 Pickets, members of the Canning and Pickle Workers' Union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, milled about the plant entrances while the conferences failed to bring a settlement yesterday. The Mayor's secretary, John P. Robin, said the negotiators had approached a "hopeful formula for settlement."

Frank Kracik, strike leader, said he would keep his followers out until the company recognized the union as the exclusive collective bargaining agency for all the workers in the company's main plant. He said: "Wages are unsatisfactory but the main point is recognition and the company won't give it unless we prove that most of the employees want it. Well, we proved it with this walkout."

13-Year-Old Girl a Mother.
 BINGER, Ok., May 27.—Mrs. R. L. Beach, 13 years old, was reported doing well today after the birth Tuesday of a five-and-one-half pound son. Mrs. Beach and her 13-year-old husband live seven and one-half miles northeast of here.

GIRL TAKEN OFF STATE PAYROLL AFTER EXPOSE
 Name of Dorothy Schroer, Who Did No Work and Received No Pay, Is Dropped by Officials.

McKITTRICK ORDERS TAKING OF ACTION
 Speaker Christy Says No House Inquiry Is Planned Into Cashing of Salary Warrants.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
 JEFFERSON CITY, May 27.—The name of Miss Dorothy Schroer of St. Louis was struck from the clerical payroll of the House of Representatives today by State Auditor Smith on advice of Attorney-General McKittrick. Miss Schroer said yesterday she did not know she was listed as a State employee, had performed no duties as a legislative clerk and had not received the proceeds of $475 in pay warrants cashed in her name.

A pay warrant for $80, prepared for the period ending May 31, in the name of Miss Schroer, was ordered canceled by Smith. He said these steps were taken because he had been informed that Miss Schroer had not been in Jefferson City and had not worked for the State. No other instance of the sort, Smith said, had come to his attention.

The name of Dorothy Schroer was certified for a clerkship, effective from last Feb. 9, by Representatives Edwin G. Foerst and Michael R. Kennedy, both of St. Louis, according to Joseph A. Bauer, chief clerk of the House. Speaker John U. Christy of the House announced that House officers contemplated no investigation of the circumstances under which pay warrants were issued and cashed in Miss Schroer's name.

"I plan no investigation," Christy said. "The records here apparently show no irregularities on their face. There is nothing that I can do. It appears to be a legal question, and if the facts call for action it should be taken by the proper legal authorities."

Affidavits Sent to McKittrick.
 Attorney-General McKittrick said that he had not ordered an investigation by his department but that he would consider any facts presented to him and take action if the facts justified it. However, he instructed Assistant Attorney-General Joseph A. Lamm of St. Louis "to get busy and get some affidavits."

Affidavits of Miss Schroer and Henry C. Menden, manager of the tailoring company which employs her in St. Louis, were received here today from Lamm. In her affidavit Miss Schroer said that not only had she received none of the proceeds of the warrants but that she never had done any work for the State or any subdivision of the State government. Menden's affidavit said she had not been absent from her work in St. Louis since her name was put on the House payroll in February.

McKittrick turned the affidavits over to Prosecuting Attorney Carl F. Wymore of Cole County together with photographic copies of the warrants issued in Miss Schroer's name.

Wymore said he would compare the signatures and examine payroll records in the capitol. He added that if the comparison and examination justified it he would take "proper action." However, before taking any action, he said, he would ask Foerst to appear before him.

Employed by Tailoring Firm.
 Miss Schroer, 18 years old, 1827 Benton street, made a statement yesterday that she had not been in Jefferson City during the session of the Legislature, and, in fact, had not been in the capitol for several years. She said she had been employed for more than two years by the National Tailoring Co., 410 North Jefferson avenue, St. Louis, that she had not known previously that her name was on the House clerical payroll, and that she had received none of the money.

Bauer said that after the certification was made Miss Schroer was listed as assigned to duty as personal clerk to Foerst and Kennedy, at Foerst's request. Bauer said he did not know Miss Schroer and did not know whether she had been here, as his office is not charged with making any check on the work of personal clerks. The clerks are paid $5 a day.

The seven warrants payable to Dorothy Schroer are indorsed with that name, with no other indorsements, and all of them were cashed at the cashier's cage in the State Treasurer's department. The indorsed signatures appear to be similar. Each of the warrant stubs in the chief clerk's records bears a notation that the warrant was turned over to Dorothy Schroer, under the pretense of noting on the stub the name of the person to whom a warrant is delivered. Employees in the chief clerk's office said they did not know all of the persons who regularly receive House warrants, and said they did not know Miss Schroer.

CLEAN-UP MORE SUCCESSFUL THAN DRIVE OF YEAR AGO
 Central High Will Be Awarded Plaque for Being Best in City Campaign.

More odd jobs were performed during the recent clean-up, paint-up, plant-up and fix-up campaign than in the drive last year which won for the city the national trophy for the most successful drive, Frank E. Lawrence Jr., director, said. The city won in four previous years also.

15 KILLED IN TRIBAL FIGHT STARTED BY JEALOUS MAN Husband Shoots Wife, Seven Other Filipinos; Her Relatives Kill Seven in Retaliation.

By the Associated Press.
 MANILA, May 27.—Fifteen killings were attributed today to the jealousy of Kalinga Boli, Filipino tribesman.
 Constabulary authorities said Boli believed his wife unfaithful and killed her and five others in the village of Tagan, Cagayan province, last Tuesday. He fled shouting he would kill at least 24.

WOMAN HIT BY BICYCLE, SUFFERS FRACTURED LEG
 Boy, 12, Booked for Failure to Have License for Wheel, Released to Parents.

Miss Lelia Paplanus suffered a fractured left leg when knocked down by a bicycle operated by John Rast Jr., 12 years old, while crossing the street near her home, 5561 Enright avenue, at 6:15 p. m., yesterday. She was taken to St. Luke's Hospital.

The boy, who resides at 5824 Westminster place, was booked for failure to have a bicycle license, and was released to his parents.

several months ago about working for him in Jefferson City, but said she paid no attention to it because she thought he was joking.

Each house of the Legislature is limited to not more than 75 employees under a constitutional provision. In the House, after excluding several employees elected by the House members, two clerkships are allotted to each of the 24 State senatorial districts, and the Representatives from counties within those districts are required to agree on the selections and certify them to the chief clerk.

Foerst, seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday at his package delivery service, 1827 Hogan street, denied his identity at first, but acknowledged it after an acquaintance addressed him by name. He declined to comment on Miss Schroer's statement.

At Kennedy's home, 3945 Page boulevard, a woman who said she was his sister, told the reporter Kennedy was out of the city. She said she did not know where he was or when he would return.

ROSENDAHL SAYS SPARK HARDLY SET HINDENBURG FIRE

U. S. Commander Testifies Meter Was Some Distance From Seepage, Which Was Small.

WOULD GIVE THEORY,
IF ANY, IN PRIVATE

Hearing at Lakehurst Ends —German Thinks St. Elmo's Fire or Lightning
May Have Been Cause.

By the Associated Press.

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 27.—Department of Commerce investigators completed their hearing at the Naval Air Station on the Hindenburg disaster last night after Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, the commandant of the air station, where the German dirigible crashed in flames on May 6, told the board his theories, "if any," should be presented to the board in private sessions. He appeared as the final Lakehurst witness in the nearly three weeks of hearings.

A leading American authority on lighter-than-air craft, Rosendahl praised the commander and crew of the Hindenburg for their handling of the dirigible before the disaster, which took 36 lives.

Questions Helium Theory.
After noting that possible causes for the tragedy have been qualified by the experts who advanced them, Rosendahl questioned the theory by Lieutenant-Commander Anton Heinen that a spark from an electric hydrogen pressure meter might have ignited gas constantly seeping from gas cells. Rosendahl said seepage, at most, was one-fortieth of one per cent of the volume of the central corridor and added that wind at the landing time kept the corridor well ventilated.

"The actual amount of hydrogen liberated through this (seepage) action was a very small amount," he said. The pressure indicator, he added, was "quite a distance" from seepage points and its power was not very high.

Turning to the possibility of a shear wire breaking—a suggestion offered by Dr. Hugo Eckener—Rosendahl said such a breakage was possible without tearing a gas cell.

"The ship was in an entirely satisfactory material condition and operating properly," he said. Reviewing airship records of travel and citing the Hindenburg tragedy as "the first time in the history of rigid, commercial, lighter-than-air craft when a passenger was as much as scratched," Rosendahl estimated the more than 300,000 passengers had been carried by dirigibles.

"German design is not infallible but this ship was built by the most experienced people in the world," he testified.

If helium had been used, he told the board, the Hindenburg fire would have brought no loss of life although it would have damaged the ship.

German Expert's Theory.
Dr. Gunther Bock, director of the German Institute of Aviation Research and member of German Observers' Commission, expressed opinion that St. Elmo's fire, an electrical glow often seen on ships at sea, or ball lightning might have caused the fire.

Bock, who said he investigated aerial accidents for 15 years, suggested breakage of a wire inside the ship was the "least improbable cause" for producing an explosive mixture of hydrogen and air. He said electrical phenomena should not be eliminated as a possible cause for ignition.

New tests of a recently developed gas cell fabric on the Hindenburg were promised by the German experts observing the inquiry. The fabric, about which little is known in this country, will be studied to determine whether the "fluttering" observed on the airship's outer cover might have caused a friction spark by rubbing against the gas cells.

C. E. Earle, hydrogen expert of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, said he could not tell whether such a spark would be set up unless he could examine the fabric. The Germans then announced through the board they would send the results of their tests, as well as a piece of the material, to this country.

Used First Time on Hindenburg.
Lieutenant-Commander Joachim Breithaupt of the German Air Ministry said later the new fabric was used on a few cells in the Graf Zeppelin but was used completely for the first time in the Hindenburg.

Earle said hydrogen mixed with air in the center walk-way of the ship might have caused a dangerous condition, depending on the speed and valving velocity of the ship. He said hydrogen valved from the top might have raged down the side of the ship if weather conditions favored it. Rips in a gas cell might also have created a static spark through a rush of hydrogen, he declared.

created by its rheostat mechanism. Prof. R. W. Woods of Johns Hopkins University, an explosive expert who investigated the Wall Street bombing case, observed the hearing but said he had found no evidence of explosives in the wreckage or exhibits. Pieces found some distance from the ship were probably carried by the wind after being tossed in the air, he said.

He said the German experts, and American technical advisers were expected to hold an executive session today and proceed to New York tomorrow to interview Capt. Albert Sammt in a New York hospital.

Eckener Says Helium Export Would Have No Military Significance.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, German Zeppelin authority, assured the House Military Committee today that release of American helium to foreign nations for commercial aviation would have no military significance.

He said it was "quite impossible" to use airships for military operations in Europe because of airplane armaments.

Repeating his appeal for relaxation of this country's laws prohibiting export of helium—on which the United States has a practical monopoly—Eckener said the German government did not own a lighter-than-air craft of any kind.

He declared it was "clearly apparent" to him and his associates at the end of the World War that lighter-than-air ships could be suitable only for commercial development.

He conceded, under questioning, that German Zeppelins were very effective during the early years of the war but said every one used for attack toward the end of the conflict was lost. He said that was due to the development of defense aircraft.

Eckener said he felt certain that, if the United States demanded guarantees its exported helium would be used only commercially, Germany would furnish them.

He told the committee his company and the American Zeppelin Transport Co., of which he is chairman of the board, contemplated placing two airships in operation across the North Atlantic next spring and extending their service to Rio de Janeiro if sufficient helium could be obtained.

STATE MOTOR VEHICLE CHIEFS

URGE SAFETY EQUIPMENT

Want Three-Color Speedometers and Reflector Buttons on Front of Autos.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., May 27.—Governing bodies of Eastern states and automobile manufacturers were urged today to adopt highway safety proposals approved by the Eastern Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators.

A 14-point program was offered to state officials in resolutions adopted at the concluding session last night of the meeting of motor vehicle chiefs of 13 states and one Canadian province, Ontario.

Automobile manufacturers were called on to put reflector buttons on new models in order to outline the front of the automobile in the event of headlight failure. Manufacturers were urged also to install speedometers with three-colored faces as "psychological deterrent against speeders."

The colors would flash green when the car was traveling from 1 to 30 miles an hour, amber from 31 to 50, and red from 51 upwards.

3 BURNED IN OIL PLANT FIRE

Man, Wife and Girl Injured Near Lincoln, Ill.

By the Associated Press.
LINCOLN, Ill., May 27.—Three persons were burned, one seriously, when fire, thought to have been caused by an electric spark, destroyed a bulk plant of the Illinois Independent Oil Co. at New Holland, nine miles west of Lincoln, yesterday. M. A. Bach, general manager, estimated the property damage at from $10,000 to $15,000. Henry Post, 41 years old, operator of the plant, suffered burns on his arms, face and legs. His wife was burned about the hands while attempting to remove her husband's burning clothing. Vernetta Mangold, 13, suffered burns on her arms, body and legs. She was visiting the plant.

Strike at G. M. C. Subsidiary.

WARREN, O., May 27.—Seeking a closed shop for their Committee for Industrial Organization Union, nearly 800 employees of the Sunlight Electric Co., a General Motors subsidiary, went on strike yesterday.

green berets and arm bands and carrying bundles of leaflets entitled "Unionism, not Fordism," arrived on street cars, only to be pushed back on the same cars by men guarding the loading platforms.

The women then alighted at nearby stops and stood in safety zones, throwing the handbills into automobiles that carried Ford workers home.

Union Lists Its Demands.
Naming part of the union program as a six-hour day with $8 minimum pay, the leaflets urged Ford workers: "Now is the time to organize! The Wagner bill is behind you! Now get behind yourselves. General Motors workers, Chrysler workers, Briggs workers have won higher wages and better working conditions."

Police Chief Carl A. Brooks of Dearborn, said his men did everything possible to prevent injury to any one. "It was our men who put the women back on the street cars so as to get them out of trouble," he said. "The fighting was on private property. All of these people were liable for arrest for trespassing, but no one has seen fit to make a complaint against them. Our men were out to prevent trouble and they did it."

Assistant Prosecutor Martin Paulino took statements from a number of the victims at the order of Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea. McCrea said warrants would be sought if the assailants could be identified.

"We have evidence of unprovoked assault by Ford men," he said. "It comes from impartial witnesses. The difficulty is that we do not yet have the names of the Ford men. When we get them, there will be recommendations for warrants."

Homer Martin, international president of the UAW, left El Paso, Tex., for Detroit after learning of the disorder.

Lewis' Telegram to Organizer.
Frankenstein received a telegram today from John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization. It read: "Sorry Dick. Keep your poise. It's just an instance. The union had opened two offices on the Detroit side of the Dearborn city limits to direct its campaign to organize the 90,000 Ford employees here. Frankenstein and Reuther are leaders in the campaign.

The police made no comment on statements by Frankenstein, Reuther and others that mounted officers were at the scene of the fighting but did not interfere.

Frankenstein appealed to the Committee for Industrial Organization, of which the UAW is an affiliate, to "co-operate in simultaneous nationwide demonstrations before Ford salesrooms to protest brutality at Ford's and establish the right to organize."

The Michigan House of Representatives declined last night to suspend the rules so it could act immediately on two resolutions concerning the violence.

One, presented by Representative John F. Hamilton, Detroit Democrat, called for appointment of a committee to investigate the disturbance, with the power of subpoenaing witnesses and examining books and records of any person, corporation or other organization involved.

The other bill, by Representative Joseph C. Murphy, also a Detroit Democrat, called upon the House to "censure" the Ford Co. for the fracas.

(A series of photographs showing the attack at the Ford Plant, and its beginning, will be found on today's picture page.)

Civil Liberties Union Protests to Dearborn Mayor.
NEW YORK, May 27.—The American Civil Liberties Union last night termed the attack on union members distributing leaflets before the Ford plant in Dearborn, Mich., a "shocking" violation of civil rights.

In a telegram to Mayor John L. Carey of Dearborn, Mich., the Rev. Harry F. Ward, chairman of the Civil Liberties Union, and Arthur Garfield Hays, counsel, said: "Every defender of civil rights is shocked by the attack of thugs upon members of the auto workers' union distributing leaflets before the Ford plant under authority of a police permit issued by the city of Dearborn."

"Reports state your police made no effort whatever to prevent assaults. Is it expecting too much that disciplinary action be taken against police for failure to protect citizens' rights and that you will give assurance of police protection when the next such violations of civil liberties take place?"

A. F. of L. Calls Meeting of Ford Workers at Richmond, Cal.

RICHMOND, Cal., May 27.—The American Federation of Labor has called a mass meeting tomorrow night of employees at the Ford assembly plant here, where a walk-out was called by the Committee for Industrial Organization, to vote on the question of affiliation with the Federation's Automobile Mechanic's Union, an A. F. of L. leader said members of the Automotive Employees of Richmond, a company union, had asked that the membership be admitted to the A. F. of L.

BILL TO AID FLORIDA G. O. P.

Democratic State Senate Votes to Ease Ballot Requirement.

By the Associated Press.
TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 27.—The solidly-Democratic Florida Senate today approved a bill to prevent loss of the Republican party's official standing in the State.

The bill declares a recognized political party shall be one that polls at least 15 per cent of the vote in either of the two preceding general elections. The present law requires that a party poll 30 per cent to keep its place on the ballot, which Republican candidates failed to do in the last two elections.

JOPLIN BOY, 8, ELECTROCUTED WHEN HE CLIMBS LINE TOWER

Orphan Lad Killed in Slight of Brother and Two Others 60 Feet from Ground.

JOPLIN, Mo., May 27.—Richard Johnson, 8-year-old ward of the Juvenile Court, was electrocuted yesterday when he climbed a 60-foot high-tension power line tower near a boarding home for orphans and delinquents six miles west of Joplin.

Richard's brother, Robert Johnson, 11, and two other boys at the home saw the child killed by 33,000 volts of electricity. The body fell into a steel brace where linemen removed it. "We had been playing hide and seek," Leo Bryson, one of the other boys explained, "and maybe Richard climbed the pole to hide from us." Parents of the two Johnson boys are separated. They live in Joplin.

MAN'S STRING OF MISFORTUNES

From Auto to Tree to Truck, Motorist Is Uninjured.
By the Associated Press.
CHESTERSTOWN, N. Y., May 27.—Leo S. Parks of St. Regis Falls was uninjured today after a series of accidents.

A tire on Parks' automobile blew out, throwing the car against a culvert and demolishing it. The impact threw Parks into a tree. The branches bent under his weight and he landed on a truck parked underneath. The jar caused the truck to back down an incline and strike another truck. Both trucks were damaged.

WPA administration officials, on the other hand, estimated the number at 892. There was no disorder.

ED MAY'S BANKRUPTCY SUIT IS THROWN OUT

U. S. Judge Davis Dismisses Action for Failure of Creditors to Prosecute.

An involuntary bankruptcy action, pending in United States District Court since July 10, 1934, against Ed Mays, former president of the Grand National Bank and Continental Life Insurance Co., was dismissed by Judge Charles B. Davis today, for failure of the petitioning creditors to prosecute.
The action was taken at the request of Ernest A. Green, attorney for the petitioning creditors, who said that two of the creditors had turned over the assets formerly in their hands to the Kansas City Life Insurance Co., and that the latter company refused to join in the bankruptcy action.

The petition filed in 1934 was in the names of R. Emmet O'Malley, Superintendent of Insurance, then in charge of the Continental Life Insurance Co.; O. H. Moberly, State Finance Commissioner, in charge of the liquidation of the Wellston Trust Co.; and the Rahmberg Motor Co. The petition alleged that Mays committed an act of bankruptcy by transferring 4000 acres of Texas land to Buchanan Mays of Marshall, Ark. O'Malley and the Rahmberg Co., were the creditors whose interests, Attorney Green said, have been turned over to the Kansas City Life Insurance Co.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

UNION TO DROP SOME WAGNER CO. CHARGES

Concern Agrees to Re-Employ 16 of 17 Men, 11 of Them With Back Pay.

Charges of unfair labor practices against the Wagner Electric Corporation, filed nearly two months ago with the Regional Labor Board here by the United Electrical and Radio Workers, Local 1104, affiliated with C. I. O., and based on the allegation that 17 employees were discharged for union activities, will be withdrawn, William Sentner,
C. I. O. organizer, announced today.

Another charge, however, based on allegations that the company refused to bargain collectively with the union, will not be withdrawn, it was stated. The union will agree to an election to be conducted by the Labor Board to determine if the union represents the majority of employees as collective bargaining agency, which likely will dispose of this charge also, Sentner said. The election is expected to be held within 12 days.

Disposition of the cases of the 17 employees was reached yesterday by agreement among the Labor Board, the union and the company management, Sentner said. By its terms, 11 employees will be returned to work with back pay from April 1 to last Monday. Four others will be returned to work without back pay. One other man who had been dropped already has been re-employed and the charge was withdrawn by the union in the remaining case.

Among the 17 employees were Elmer Hutchings, vice-president of Local 1104, and John Sellers, active in union organization, who was arrested a week ago by special deputy sheriffs, while distributing union literature outside the gates to the company property.
Sellers will receive pay for the day he spent in jail, Sentner said, having been unable to report for work.

Sentner said he expects the disposition of the charges will lead the way to a union agreement with the company, completing the union organization of the three big concerns in the electrical industry here. The others are the Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co. and the Century Electric Co.

40 A. F. L. Union Members Strike at Home Laundry.

Union employees of the Home Laundry, 4300 Finney avenue, went on strike this morning for recognition and adjustments in wages and hours.

The strikers are members of the Laundry Workers' Union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. William M. Brandt, secretary of the Central Trades & Labor Union, estimated that about 40 workers, representing about 90 per cent of the plant force, were on strike. A strike vote was taken Tuesday night after a negotiating committee reported it was unable to reach an agreement with the management. A representative of the company declined to comment.

Garage Workers to Vote Tonight
On Issue: A. F. L. or C. I. O.

A mass meeting of garage workers, called by Elmer Walker, business agent of the International Association of Machinists, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at Carpenter's Hall. A proposal to choose between the Automobile Mechanics, Local No. 777, A.
F. L., and the garage mechanics union of the Committee for Industrial Organization, which also is organizing garage workers, will be submitted at the meeting for a vote, Walker said.

A proposed agreement between the A. F. L. union and members of the Greater St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, which was approved by the union membership last Sunday, will be signed today before the meeting. About 755 garage employees are affected by the agreement, Walker said. It includes 78 garage owners in St. Louis and St. Louis County.

The agreement recognizes Local
No. 777 as the bargaining agent for its members, provides for the 44-hour week with time and a half for overtime, hourly wage scales of 75 cents for mechanics and 85 cents for body workers, with weekly guarantees of $28.85 for mechanics and $32.50 for body workers.

Several Shoe Repair Shops Sign
With Striking Workers.

Leaders of the strike of union shoe repairers, called yesterday, reported this morning that several independent shop operators had signed a union agreement and resumed operations.

The strike was still in effect at chain shoe repair shops including A. Golub, the Nine-Cent System and the White-Way Eight Cent System.
The union, which is seeking a charter from the C. I. O., demanded recognition, a 9-hour day and $25 weekly minimum salary for repair men.

the union yesterday at 3745 West Pine boulevard. He was not opposed.

CHARGES MALONE TOOK CORPORATIONS' GIFTS

Government Says Ex-Illinois Official Got $330,000 and Evaded Income Tax.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 27. — The Federal Government called its first witnesses yesterday in an attempt to prove a charge that William M.
Malone, former chairman of the Illinois State Tax Commission, collected $330,000 from large corporations to "influence him" in assessment of capital stock taxes. Malone is on trial on charges of evading income tax payments for 1929 and 1930.

In his opening argument, Austin Hall, Assistant United States District Attorney, first accused Malone of accepting large sums of money from corporations and then said
Malone in one instance issued a $50,000 certificate of deposit in the name of a William F. McCaughey "for the sole and only purpose of concealing his money as income and to evade the payment of income taxes on it."

The Government's accusation is confined to 1929 and 1930.

Charles W. Arndt, chief of the Chicago Income Tax Division of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, was the first Government witness. He identified Malone's income tax returns for 1929 showing a tax of $523. Malone paid no tax in 1930.

Rodney D. Andrews, comptroller of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in Washington, D. C., testified that Malone had deposited $123,000 in the Jefferson Park National Bank in 1929. Andrews was a former vice-president and cashier of the bank. He said the deposits were made personally by Malone in bills of denominations up to $1000.

In outlining Malone's defense, his attorney, Charles F. Rathbun, said,

"Malone did not receive the big amounts the Government alleges he did. The money mentioned by Mr.
Hall represents accumulations of years gone by which he used in his building operations."

"For 30 years his life has been an open book. At one time he was wealthy and he will tell you about that. Then the crash came and he suffered losses like everyone else, and he'll tell you about that."

DISCUSSES SPANISH REBELS

Webster College President Says Conflict May Cause World Trouble.

President George F. Donovan of Webster College, speaking on "The Rebel Cause in Spain" at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. last night,

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

expressed the opinion that the conflict might result in international complications leading to another world war.

Both sides of the conflict should be considered without prejudice, he said. "Discussions of the Spanish situation," he said, "have overlooked some important facts, such as the Spanish civil war as a final blow to Spanish civilization and as a definite suffocation of Christianity as a force in the society of Southwestern Europe."

A. F. L. TO FIGHT C. I. O. IN SHIPPING, AUTO INDUSTRIES

Council to Form New Maritime Department — Machinists Issue Charter to Union in Chevrolet Plant

THREE INSURGENT GROUPS SUMMONED

Progressive Miners Await Invitation to Present Request for Charter Before Executive Body.

By the Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, May 27. — The executive council of the American Federation of Labor decided yesterday to fight the Committee for Industrial Organization on the water front and in the automobile industry.

William Green, A. F. of L. president, said the council would unite all loyal maritime unions in a new maritime department to combat a growing C. I. O. movement in shipping centers.

With the council's approval, Arthur Wharton, president of the Machinists' Union, decided to issue a charter to a small union, rival to the United Automobile Workers in the Chevrolet truck body plant at Indianapolis. This new local would be open to all crafts employed in the plant.

In another move against the C. I. O., the council summoned the Battery Workers of Philadelphia, the Aluminum Workers of New Kensington, Pa., and Steve Mance's Georgia Federation of Labor to answer insurance charges. All three have gone over to C. I. O.

Basis of Complaints.
The aluminum workers at New Kensington voted to join the C. I. O. several months ago. The Philadelphia battery workers affiliated with the United Radio and Electrical Workers, a union never affiliated with the A. F. of L.

The Federation organized a new Federation of Labor in Georgia after the C. I. O. took over the Nance organization. Nance had become an organizer for the Textile Workers' Organizing Committee, a C. I. O. unit.

The council heard representatives of the Georgia factions today and deferred its decision.

A local union of machinists employed by the Interborough Subway in New York bolted the A. F. of L. craft union and then was chartered as the United Transport Workers of America by the C. I. O.

Green said the Aluminum Workers had taken with them $27,000 that belonged to the Federation. Green also announced he had discharged Don Stevens of Chicago, A. F. of L. organizer working with the American Newspaper Guild, for "promoting the C. I. O."

The Guild, Green said, was "out of the Federation although it pretends to be in."

The Guild is an A. F. of L. union, though President Heywood Brown is a C. I. O. member.

Charges Against Stage Employees.
The council held a long hearing on charges by unions affiliated with the striking Federation Motion Picture Crafts that the International Alliance of Stage and Theatrical Employees had blocked an agreement between the crafts and the producers.

Green said the council would get in touch with George E. Browne, president of the Theatrical Employees and Stage Hands, before it made a decision on the jurisdictional issue.

The council received applications for charters from the Welders' Union at Bremerton, Wash., and from a union of special delivery letter carriers. Decisions were reserved.

Meantime, officers of the Progressive Miners of America, rival to the United Mine Workers in Illinois, waited for an expected invitation to appear before the council to ask for a charter. Joseph Ozanic, president; John Fancier, vice-president, and C. E. Peary, secretary-treasurer, said they expected to go before the council within a few days.

Green said that he still was trying to settle the oldest craft-industrial union fight in the Federation—between the teamsters (truck drivers) and the brewery workers. This fight ever which union should take in beer truck drivers has been on practically since the Federation started.

"After all these years, I don't like to say that it's just about over," Green said. "But I think it looks better than ever before."

Discharged Organizer to File Complaint With Labor Board.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 27. — Don Stevens, discharged organizer for the American Federation of Labor, announced last night he would file charges with the National Labor Relations Board against William Green, president of the A. F. of L. as a result of his dismissal.

Stevens, who had been an organizer for the American Newspaper Guild since August, 1936, was notified of his discharge in a telegram from Green.

Green wired a reply yesterday to Stevens' request for a cause of dismissal. The telegram said in part:

"I dispensed with your services first because Organizer (William) Schoenberg reported you had proudly proclaimed to him you had supported the dual movement to the American Federation of Labor

ATTEMPT TO CLIMB MOUNT LUCANIA IN YUKON TERRITORY

Expedition Prepares to Tackle 17,150-Foot Peak, Hitherto Unexplored.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, May 27. — The plans of an expedition to ascend the hitherto unexplored Mount Lucania were disclosed last night by the backers of the project. Mount Lucania, 17,150 feet high, is in the southwest corner of the Yukon territory, about 35 miles east of the Canadian-Alaskan boundary.

The New England Museum of Natural History in Boston and the Institute of Geographical Exploration, Harvard University, announced the expedition project at a testimonial dinner for Bradford Washburn of Cambridge, leader of the party and veteran explorer of Alaska.

By following a new means of approach, disclosed in an aerial picture taken in 1935 by Washburn, the expedition hopes to scale the icy cliffs which turned back the Wood expedition of the American Geographical Society in 1935.

Using a ski-equipped airplane and special photographic maps, two members of the expedition, Russell Dow of Woodville, N. H., and Robert Reeve of Valdez, Alaska, the expedition's pilot, already have cached supplies on the Walsh glacier at the 8500-foot level.

Arriving at Valdez June 11, Washburn expects he and Dow will establish the base camp before the two other members of the expedition, Robert H. Bates of Philadelphia, Pa., and Norman Bright of Sunnyvale, Cal., reach there seven days later.

THIS WEEK'S U. S. BORROWING TO BE LAST UNTIL JUNE 15

$50,000,000 in Discount Bills to Be Issued Tomorrow; Seventh Consecutive Week.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 27. — Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau reported today a $50,000,000 discount bill issue tomorrow will be the last Treasury borrowing until its quarterly financing June 15.

The bills will be the seventh consecutive weekly issue, bringing to $350,000,000 such obligations issued in anticipation of third-quarter tax receipts next September.

At $483,503,204, the Treasury's cash working balance now is at the lowest level in more than four years. Morgenthau told his press conference, however, he felt this provided "plenty of margin of safety" until additional money is obtained through borrowing and second-quarter tax collections next month.

When you attended a meeting of the Chicago Newspaper Guild Sunday, May 23, when the local voted unanimously in favor of C. I. O. Furthermore, newspaper guild of which you are an officer has publicly announced its support of Committee for Industrial Organization.

The phrase "dual movement" used in Green's telegram was a technical one. Stevens said, used by labor organizations when they referred to rival groups in the same field.

Stevens said he had urged Chicago delegates to vote support of the C. I. O. at the national convention of the guild.

Stevens said he would file the charges against Green under the section of the Wagner law which prohibits interference with an employee in his right to form, join or assist labor organizations.

INQUEST TOMORROW IN R. D. MOORE DEATH

Attorney Killed by Truck
When Walking Near Sanatorium.

An inquest will be held tomorrow in the death of Roger D. Moore, St. Louis attorney and defeated candidate for Mayor of University City at the election April 6, who was fatally injured by a truck yesterday morning when walking on Grant road near the Glenwood Sanatorium, where he had been a patient for a month with a nervous ailment.

Moore, who was 35 years old, was with an attendant, Alfred P. Meyer, and another patient. The three were walking single file on the west side of the road. Meyer said that as the truck approached them from the front, the driver sounded the horn. When it was within a few feet, Moore jumped in front of it, the attendant told deputy sheriffs. He grabbed Moore's belt, he said, but the impact, as the fender struck Moore jarred the attorney loose, and he fell against the side of the truck.

The driver, Alfred Von Taelge, employed by a produce dealer at Lemay, Mo., also declared that Moore jumped in front of the truck. Von Taelge said he was driving slowly, and was on the opposite side of the road to give the pedestrians room. Moore died of a fractured skull at the sanatorium an hour and a half after being struck.

The attorney's brother, Randolph Moore, ascribed his condition to business worries, recent deaths in the family, and the strain of the campaign, in which Moore finished third among three candidates. In the last four years Moore's father, mother and wife died. His mother, Mrs. Ethel Moore, was killed in an automobile accident near Hannibal in June. His father, John A. Moore, an attorney, was drowned in a bathtub in 1933. His wife, Mrs. Vera Louise Moore, died of natural causes in Washington three years ago, Randolph Moore said.

Moore lived at 6835 Pershing avenue, University City, and had offices in the Title Guaranty Building. He was honorary consul in St. Louis for Peru for the last year. Formerly a first lieutenant in the 306th Infantry, he was a captain in the Judge Advocate General's Department of the United States Army Reserve at the time of his death. He was graduated from Mississippi State College in 1922, and took his law degree at Washington University in 1927, having spent his last year at the school as an assistant in political science.

Americans ought to know. We invented them!

Fleischmann's—the original American gin—is especially

MISSOURI CONGRESSMEN HOLD CAUCUS ON CONNERY PROPOSAL Amendment Would Bar Use of Relief Funds on State's Prison.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 27.—Democratic Representatives from Missouri caucused yesterday but took no action on the Connery amendment to the relief bill, which would prohibit the use of Federal funds in Missouri's prison rehabilitation program.

Gov. Lloyd C. Stark has appealed to the Missouri Representatives to oppose the Connery amendment, while the joint committee for Missouri on convict labor, headed by E. E. Murphy, has asked them to support it.

The amendment would prevent the use of Federal funds even though already allocated for construction or rebuilding of any penitentiary in any state not prohibiting the sale of prison-made goods in the open market. The amendment, Stark said, "would destroy our prison program and keep the Missouri penal system 50 years behind the times."

The Public Works Administration recently released funds to help Missouri rehabilitate its Jefferson City penitentiary and to establish a farm colony near there.

Quarrel Settled in Bloodless Duel.
BUDAPEST, May 27.—A Hungarian political quarrel was settled with pistols yesterday. Steven Fay, Lord-Lieutenant of one of Hungary's counties, shot at and missed Luis Dinnyes, a member of Parliament. Dinnyes refused to shoot.
The two were reconciled. They had quarrelled over a remark about Lord Lieutenants which Dinnyes made in Parliament.

PARKEES DENY PLOT, THROUGH COUNSEL
Defense Lawyer Places Blame for Wendel Abduction on 3 Already Convicted.
By the Associated Press.
NEWARK, N. J., May 27.—The Ellis H. Parkers, father and son, disavowed yesterday through counsel any connection with or knowledge of the alleged plot to kidnap Paul H. Wendel and placed full blame for the abduction on the three men who already have confessed their guilt.

Opening their defense to Federal charges of conspiracy growing out of the Wendel abduction, the Parkers through their counsel alleged that if a conspiracy existed Wend-del himself "perhaps" participated in it.

In his opening address, J. Mercer Davis, their lawyer, assailed Wendel and the men who pleaded guilty, Murray Bleefeld, Harry Weiss and Martin Schlossman, and attacked their testimony. Evidence would be offered, he said, to support a general denial of the testimony linking the senior Parker, chief of Burlington County detectives, and his son, Ellis Jr., to the conspiracy.

Says Parker Watched Wendel.
It would be shown, he said, that Detective Parker from the early days of the Lindbergh kidnaping investigation suspected Wendel of being the kidnaper or in contact with the kidnappers and that Parker kept him under almost constant surveillance.

It would be admitted, he disclosed, that Parker talked to Ble-efeld about Wendel and asked him to check on his activities and associates in New York. Bleefeld's "fertile mind turned this little conversation into what he thought was a big advantage," Davis asserted.
The defense attorney spoke less than an hour. After he had finished, 29 witnesses—bankers, county officials, business men and housewives of Burlington County —testified the reputation of the Parkers in their community was "good," "very good" or "excellent."
More character witnesses were to testify today.

Confession in Mail.
Flatly denying that the Parkers were involved in the alleged conspiracy, Davis said the first knowledge they had of his "confession" to the Lindbergh kidnaping was the receipt of the statement in the mail Feb. 24, 1936, 10 days after the seizure. Not until then, he added, did they know Wendel was to be delivered to the senior Parker that day at his home in Mount Holly, N. J.

Wendel is alleged to have been imprisoned in Brooklyn between Feb. 14 and 24 and tortured into writing the false Lindbergh confession. Bleefeld and Weiss, both of whom appeared as Government witnesses, testified Parker Jr. directed the seizure and the "third degree."

The senior Parker, Bleefeld declared, recruited him for the task of picking up Wendel and visited
New York often during Wendel's imprisonment to look over the "confession" and direct changes to be made in it.

Assails Government Witnesses.
"We will show you," said Davis,
"the criminal character and untrustworthiness of Government witnesses. We will show you Ble-efeld is a colossal liar. We will show you Paul Wendel is absolutely unworthy of belief."

"We will show that a week before Wendel was even picked up these men tried to sell the story that they had in the custody of a former Trenton lawyer who had confessed to the Lindbergh kidnaping."

"If there was any conspiracy, it existed between these men and perhaps included Paul Wendel himself."

Wendel was subsequently absolved of the Lindbergh charges, but an investigation of his "confession" caused a three-day delay in the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

STRIKE AT TWO LIME PLANTS SETTLED AT STE. GENEVIEVE
New Union Recognized; Tieup Continues at Two Other Concerns.
By the Associated Press.
STE. GENEVIEVE, Mo., May 27.—
Two of the four lime manufacturing companies in Ste. Genevieve, the Bluff City Lime Co., and the Peerless White Lime Co., ended a strike of their 350 employees today by agreeing to recognize the newly-formed Lime Workers' Union.

The Ste. Genevieve Lime and Quarry Co. and the Western Lime Works, the other two companies affected by a strike called by union organizers yesterday, have not reached an agreement with the union, which is an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

Francis Krueger, president of the union, said a meeting would be held this afternoon with officers of the Ste. Genevieve Lime Co., and another meeting would be held sometime later with executives of the Western Lime Works.

Picketing of the plants of the two companies continued, with no disturbances reported.

COVADONGA STRICKEN AGAIN
Former Spanish Heir-Apparent Bleeds Internally.
By the Associated Press.
HAVANA, May 27.—The Count of Covadonga, former heir apparent to the Spanish throne, yesterday suffered his second internal hemorrhage in two days.

His Cuban commoner fiancée,
María Rocafort, was at his bedside.
She said they would be married "in the first days of June." The Secretary of Justice has eliminated the legal requirement of a 15-day wait after publication of banns. The Count, afflicted with haemophilia, suffered an internal hemorrhage Monday night which necessitated a blood transfusion.

Vanderbilt May Escape Fine.
By the Associated Press.
HONOLULU, May 27.—George Vanderbilt may escape payment of a $500 fine imposed by Collector of Customs Walter Doyle for violation of customs laws. Vanderbilt told Doyle yesterday that shortage of fresh water forced his yacht party ashore without first clearing customs. Doyle said that in view of the circumstances and the fact the party brought no baggage he was not insisting that Vanderbilt post bond pending a Treasury decision on his appeal.

LOSES 'PERSONAL RIGHTS' SUIT

Louisville Professor Held to Be Open to Investigation.

By the Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 27. — A directed verdict for the five defendants was ordered returned yesterday by Circuit Judge Eugene Hubbard in the $100,000 "personal rights" damage suit filed by Dr. Ellis Freeman, psychology professor at the University of Louisville.

Dr. Freeman charged that his privacy had been violated and damaged by the report of an American Legion committee which reported that the professor received a check for $172.41 from the State Bank of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics and that he had been soliciting subscriptions for Communist literature. Dr. Freeman denied he was a member of the Communist party. Judge Hubbard said: "Dr. Freeman being employed by the public in a public institution, anyone had the right to inquire into his conduct and teachings and the defendants did not do any more than that."

East St. Louis Pays for Library.

The city of East St. Louis yesterday made the final payment of $135,375 on the purchase of the old Elks Lodge building at Ninth and State streets, which houses the Public Library. The lodge sold the building to the city in 1926 for $160,000.

BEAUTY SHOP HOURS DISCUSSED AT HEARING

Operators and Owners Give Aldermen Pros and Cons on Early Closing Bill.

Beauty shop workers and proprietors had their day before the Legislation Committee of the Board of Aldermen yesterday on the question whether the women of St. Louis could get their finger waves, facials and manicures after 7 o'clock at night or whether they must adhere to the rule for men, whose barbers lay down their razor and clipper promptly at that hour.

What was sauce for the gander should be sauce for the goose, proponents of the measure argued, declaring that long hours for the beauty operators, cosmetologists and plain ladies' hairdressers should be abolished.

Opponents, however, insisted that the best business of neighborhood shops was in the evening and that it would be ruinous to force them to close then.

The measure providing for 7 o'clock closing was taken under advisement. It was introduced by Chairman Allan E. Petersen at the request of the St. Louis National Hairdressers' Association, following the death of a similar bill in the last aldermanic session.

Opposing Arguments.

Arguments of about 15 speakers against the bill were summarized by Frank J. Vanek, 3637 South Grand boulevard, one of 100 members of the St. Louis State Cosmeticians' Association, which, he said, was opposed to the closing plan. He declared it would be better to close the shops in the morning rather than the evening, as the bulk of business on which they depended came at night. Employees were not overworked, he asserted, charging that the bill was in the interest of the larger downtown establishments.

Wives cannot visit beauty shops until husbands get home in the evening to mind the children, he continued; working girls who board have to eat dinner at a fixed time and cannot attend to their beauty needs until afterward. In his own case, he said, he would lose the trade of nurses from St. Anthony's and Lutheran hospitals if forced to close at night. Other opponents maintained that "bootlegging" of beauty at cut prices in private homes would be encouraged by passage of the bill.

Proprietors of shops for Negroes related that much of their trade came from housemaids, who have to call late. They ridiculed the suggestion that mistresses would excuse domestics early sometimes for beauty's sake.

Complaints of Long Hours.

There were more complaints of long hours for beauty shop employees than in any other work. Mrs. Lottie Walsh, Deputy State Labor Commissioner, told the committee. As an extreme example, she cited the recent case of a young woman reported to be working from 9 a. m. to 11:45 p. m. for $6 a week. She showed a telegram received yesterday with the news that Attorney General Roy McKittick had held the State's nine-hour law for women did not apply to beauty operators.

Miss Della Cox, business agent of the Bldy Women's Union, representing Central Trades & Labor Union, asserted that many of the beauty operators had to work 11 or 12 hours daily and that they were not present to speak for the bill for fear of losing their jobs.

H. L. Gerding, executive secretary, spoke for the St. Louis National Hairdressers' Association, which, he said, had 700 members. He favored the bill to end prevalent long hours, in the belief that women could be "educated" to call earlier, and on the theory that beauticians could have their hair fixed before 7 if men could be shaved before 7. Several others made similar arguments.

The bill would make 7 p. m. the closing time daily except Friday and the nights before New Year's, Memorial day, Independence day, Thanksgiving and Christmas, when the shops would be open until 8 o'clock.

MILWAUKEE SIT-DOWN STRIKE ENDS IN RULING OF COURT

Judge Declares It Violates Wisconsin Constitution; CIO Affiliate Members Leave Restaurant.

MILWAUKEE, May 27.—Circuit Judge Charles L. Aaron ruled sit-down strikes were in violation of the Wisconsin State Constitution yesterday in the State's first court decision on the subject.

Judge Aaron's ruling was in the suit of Wrigley's Restaurant for an injunction to restrain the United Catering Workers' Union, a Committee for Industrial Organization affiliate, from continuing a sit-down strike begun May 17.

One hundred and eight strikers at the restaurant obeyed his order and peacefully withdrew when informed of the decision.

FOUR KILLED IN PLANE CRASH AFTER TAKE-OFF

Two Women, Los Angeles Oil Operator and Pilot Die in California Accident.

By the Associated Press. SANTA MARIA, Cal., May 27. — A chartered monoplane, faltering on the take-off, carried two men and two women to their deaths in a crash in an alfalfa field near Santa Maria Airport last night.

Burned beyond recognition, the victims were identified as Mrs. C. W. Whitney and Mrs. D. B. Fautleroy, both of Carmel, Cal.; Harry F. Emme, Los Angeles oil operator, and Rod Keenan, pilot for the Joe Lewis Air Service, Burbank, Cal.

An eyewitness, L. Ball, said the high-wing cabin Lockheed stalled about 100 feet in the air. Slipping off on one wing, the plane burst into flames and exploded when it struck the ground.

The pilot, decapitated and enveloped in flames, was flung forward over the engine. The other bodies were not recovered from the blazing fuselage for an hour and a half.

Emme, a brother of Otto J. Emme, former exalted ruler of Los Angeles Elks, was reported to have invited the women, family friends, to accompany him to Los Angeles.

Keenan, a few hours earlier, had flown an eloping pair to Las Vegas (Nev.) "marrying judge."

MINE UNION MEETING APPROVES STAYDOWN

Strike at Wilsonville, Ill., Enters Second Week With Local Support.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WILSONVILLE, Ill., May 27. — Stay-down strikers in No. 4 mine of the Superior Coal Co. went into their second week today in a better strategic position than when they started, as the result of approval of the strike last night at the regular meeting of the No. 1 of the Progressive Miners of America, of which they are members.

"The strike will go on indefinitely," announced John Fisher, president of the local, who presided at last night's meeting at Gillespie, eight miles away, and heard 1600 of the 2200 members of the local who attended vote approval of the strike, which Joe Ozanic, national union president, has declared to be unauthorized.

The local is composed of employees of the company's four adjoining mines and only 540 of the members are employed at No. 4 mine. Older men were sent out to spare them the rigors of continued confinement in the 320-foot mine when the strike began and half the group occupying the mine, or about 200, attended the meeting.

Test of Solidarity.

By-laws required that the regular meeting be held at Gillespie last night and it constituted a test of solidarity when the strike was put up for the approval of workers in other mines. The No. 4 workers are demanding that the company immediately divide work there with local members at No. 1 mine, recently closed, instead of waiting 30 days as provided by the contract.

Daniel McGill of Springfield, a member of the union's State executive board, representing Ozanic, who was at Cincinnati seeking affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, spoke at the meeting and called on the strikers to "abide by your contract."

McGill was heckled during most of the three-hour meeting. When one striker persisted in interrupting McGill, Fisher ordered him ejected.

Visitors to Mine.

Among visitors to the mine yesterday were Rev. George H. Powell, Catholic priest of Bunker Hill, who has a chapel at Wilsonville.

"When poor men are willing to share their jobs," he told them, "the sympathy of the whole world is with them."

Another who went to the mine was Barney Hoppe, president of the Nokomis local. He said he would call a special meeting of his local to discuss the possibility of a sympathy strike.

The scene of the strike also was visited by Jack, a pet buzzard of Gildo Cellegri, who found the bird in the woods six years ago. Since then, the buzzard, Cellegri said, had roosted regularly on a shack in his back yard. He was found the top of a tree and after his master had held him for some time, took off to perch on the general store and then on the church roof.

One of those who obtains a brief leave each day is Chris Elsal, who says he must go home to feed his pet squirrels and rabbits.

PRESIDENT ASKS FOR MORE STUDY ON EDUCATIONAL NEEDS

He Requests Committee to Report Back Before Next Session of Congress.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The White House announced today President Roosevelt had requested an advisory committee to give "more extended consideration to the whole subject of Federal relationship to state and local conduct of education and to give him a report before the beginning of the next session of Congress."

The committee was appointed last September with Dr. Floyd Reeves, professor of education at the University of Chicago, as chairman. At that time the President said he wanted the program of Federal aid to the states for vocational education reviewed to determine the need for expanding it.

An act authorizing additional appropriations for this purpose will take effect July 1. Recommendations for actual appropriations are expected to be deferred until the study is completed.

W. A. Russell, Rail Man, Dies.

STRIKE OF 18,000 OIL WORKERS SET FOR TONIGHT IN MEXICO

Companies, However, Will Ask President Cardenas to Use Influence to Avert Walkout.

By the Associated Press. MEXICO, D. F., May 27.—Hope of averting a general strike of 18,000 oil workers was virtually abandoned today, despite an appeal to be made to President Lazaro Cardenas by the 17 companies that would be affected.

Labor Secretary Genaro Vazquez, returning from Cuernavaca after a conference with the President, said: "There is no hope of agreement."

The strike is set for midnight. Producing, processing and transporting companies have drafted an appeal to be telegraphed to President Cardenas, in the hope he will influence the workers to continue negotiations for a blanket contract.

The workers want a 40-hour week instead of 44 hours and a minimum daily wage of six pesos ($1.62) instead of 4.30 pesos ($1.16), which they say is the average.

INDICTED FOR KILLING CHILD

Woman Collapses When Arraigned in New York State.

By the Associated Press. RIVERHEAD, N. Y., May 27. — A Suffolk County grand jury indicted Mrs. Helen Tiernan of New York for first degree murder yesterday in the killing of her seven-year-old daughter, found stabbed and burned in the woods near Brookhaven, Long Island, May 16. Supreme Court Justice John H. McCoy set trial for June 14.

Mrs. Tiernan collapsed when she was taken into court for arraignment. A second indictment charged her with first degree assault on her son, Jimmy, 4.

Woman Sentenced for Killing.

By the Associated Press. ERIE, Pa., May 27.—Mrs. Elizabeth Sample was sentenced yesterday to an indefinite term in the Muncy Industrial Home for Women for the killing of John E. Hogan, a partner in the Townsend pension plan. She was convicted May 14 of manslaughter in the shooting which occurred several weeks ago in Hogan's apartment. She had been his housekeeper three years.

LAW OF MOSES CITED AS WAY OF PREVENTING DEPRESSION

Moderator of United Presbyterian Says Observance Would Avert Problem.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, May 27. — Dr. A. R. Robinson of Pittsburgh, Pa., was elected moderator of the United Presbyterian Church last night at the general assembly in Oak Park. Dr. Robinson is pastor of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh. He defeated Charles C. Proudfoot of Chicago, general secretary of the board of education.

The Rev. Dr. Robert W. Thompson, retiring moderator of the United Presbyterian Church, last night said a "Christian economy" was needed.

He said that "the law of Moses, the teachings of Christ and the example of the Apostolic Church" showed that Christian economy took account of material necessities.

"If the principles of the Mosaic precepts had been generally in operation there would be no problem of relief, or of soil conservation, or of restraint of financial corporation," Dr. Thompson said. "About every seventh year in America there is an economic collapse from topheavy wealth. Moses' law required that the land should have rest every seventh year, which would give people pause in the in-

3-CENT GASOLINE TAX BILL PASSED BY STATE SENATE

Measure Goes to House on Amendment to Insure 2-Cent Levy if Higher One Is Held Invalid.

INCREASE BACKED BY GOV. STARK

Vote Is 26 to 7—Collections Expected to Be Increased by $6,000,000 in 1939.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 27.—The 1 cent per gallon gasoline tax increase bill, effective Dec. 7 next year, was passed by the Senate yesterday afternoon by a vote of 26 to 7. Several minor amendments will require its return to the House for concurrence.

Amendments adopted by the Senate were designed chiefly to assure continuance of the 2-cent tax if the 3-cent tax is for any reason held invalid.

Those voting for the bill—Barbour, Briggs, Brogan, Casey, Clark, Cope, Cox, Dail, Donnelly, Ewen, Fieeland, Frost, Jones, Kinney, Lindsay, Mahee, McDowell, McCormick, Nelson, Peppoon, Quinn, Robertson, Rollins, Searcy, Seelig, Sexton.

Opposed—Clayton, Crouse, Doran, Lewis, Lockridge, McReynolds, Rozier.

Absent—Shea.

The debate on the bill occupied virtually the entire day, and the opposition appeared much stronger in debate than in the vote.

Though it had been apparent for several weeks that the bill would be passed, Gov. Stark, who had made it one of his principal administration measures, took no chances and during the past few days pressure had been exerted by the administration forces to line up Senate votes for it.

When the bill becomes effective, the State tax on gasoline, which never has been more than 2 cents per gallon, will be increased to 3 cents.

How Money Is Used.

Under the Constitution the money can be used only for construction of highways and their maintenance, and for the administration of the State Highway Department and for the collection of the automobile license fees and the gasoline tax.

Stark had made a determined effort to increase the tax because, by the time it will become effective, all of the $135,000,000 of bonds which were voted in 1921 and 1923 for highway purposes will have been issued and the money expended. By that time, also, the amount which will be required annually for interest on the bonds and to meet payment of principal will be so great that only about $4,000,000 annually will be available for construction work.

This amount, it might be expected, would be increased to $8,000,000 of Federal allotments to the State. For the past 10 years the Highway Department has expended an average of more than $31,000,000 a year, and the failure to have more than $8,000,000 would mean a sharp decrease in construction.

Amount to Be Available.

The additional 1-cent tax on gasoline will add approximately $6,000,000 a year to the amount available, and, with Federal funds, will provide more than $16,000,000 for construction purposes, according to Senator Cope of Salem, who handled the Governor's bill on the floor.

Cope produced figures supplied by the Highway Department to show that the primary and secondary road system was more than 99 per cent completed, and that the farm to market system was only 70 per cent completed. He said the funds expended after this year would be used principally on the farm to market roads, and on maintenance and rebuilding of the high-type roads.

Missouri has a total road mileage of about 105,000 miles, of which 17,193 miles is in the State system as at present designated.

The principal opposition to the bill came from Senator Lockridge of Fayette and Senator McReynolds of Carthage, who said that, as the tax would not become effective until a month before the Legislature convened for the 1939 session, there was no reason why the proposed increase should not be postponed until that time.

They said that there was now under way a complete survey of the State road system designed to determine what the requirements of the future would be, insisting that no plans should be proposed for future construction until that survey was completed.

Proponents' Argument.

The reply of proponents of the bill was that the Highway Department plans for construction had to be made about one and one-half years in advance of actual construction, and that, if the department did not know that far in advance the funds which would be available to it, it could make no plans, and construction work would be long delayed. Arguments for the bill, in addition to that of Senator Cope, were delivered by Senators Lewis of St. Louis, Clark of Richmond, Quinn of Lewis County, McCormick of Webster Groves, Donnelly of Lebanon, Rollins of Columbia and Kinney of St. Louis.

In opposition the only argument, in addition to those by McReynolds and Lockridge, was by Senator Crouse of St. Joseph.

HOLDER OPPOSES TRUSTEESHIP FOR RAILWAY SHARES

One of Buyers of Van Sweringen Lines Objects to Proposal for Eastern Lines of System.

PLAN SUGGESTED AT SENATE HEARING

Witness Declares He and Associates Want to Get Rid of Supercompanies as Soon as Possible.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—A Senate investigator proposed yesterday that securities of eastern railroads of the Van Sweringen system be deposited with a trustee pending elimination of holding company control.

The proposal was opposed by Robert R. Young, who with two associates recently acquired control of Alleghany Corporation, top holding company of the Van Sweringen rail and industrial empire. "I think a trusteeship would be most unfortunate," Young said.

He said such an arrangement would postpone for many years consolidation of the eastern roads of the Alleghany system as proposed in an application pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The application seeks to group the Erie and Nickel Plate under control of Chesapeake & Ohio, leading money maker of the system.

Cites I. C. C. Statute. The trusteeship was suggested by Max Lowenthal, counsel for the Senate subcommittee investigating railroad financing.

Lowenthal called attention to a statute empowering the I. C. C. to restrict the exercise of voting power by requiring the deposit of securities with a trustee. He contended a trusteeship would permit grouping of the roads, while preventing "thinly attenuated control" of the operating companies until "the holding company superstructure can be eliminated."

Young insisted, as he has on previous appearances before the committee, that he and his associates were anxious to get rid of the holding companies as soon as possible. He said they were working on a plan which he hoped would bring about before the end of the year elimination of Alleghany Corporation, merging it with Chesapeake Corporation, holding company directly above the C. & O. Railroad.

Suggests Dividend Tax Rise.

Young said the holding company evil could not exist under laws passed during the Roosevelt administration. He mentioned tax legislation and regulation by the Securities & Exchange Commission. "The quickest way to eliminate holding companies," Young said, "is to increase the tax on dividends."

He insisted the desired consolidations could not be brought about "unless we have control," and maintained that the I. C. C. had power to keep him from improperly operating the roads.

Senator Truman of Missouri told Young the committee believed that "the sooner the railroads can be returned to the operating companies the better it will be for the country."

Young agreed, but insisted that "I can bring it about quicker than you can."

Young said he did not favor legislating holding companies out of existence, as committee members frequently have suggested.

"Legislation sometimes injures the innocent as well as the guilty," he added.

He told Lowenthal he was "perfectly wrong" in contending that the same reasons existed today as in 1926 for refusing the application to group the eastern roads. A similar proposal was rejected by the I. C. C. 11 years ago.

Lowenthal contended that, while consolidation might be advantageous, the financing set-up to which the commission objected in 1926 still existed.

Control by Minority Groups. "If the same objection exists today, there can't be any railroad consolidations, with resultant lowering of rates and increase in wages," Young replied. He contended minority stockholders exercise control over a number of roads.

The New York Central, he said, was controlled by the Vanderbilts with only 5 per cent stock ownership.

"It is impossible for stockholders of the C. & O. to oust your control," Lowenthal replied, "whereas the New York Central stockholders can remove the Vanderbilts if they desire."

Young showed irritation when Lowenthal suggested that a few men with a "shoe-string" investment could control an empire as far flung as that of the late Van Sweringen brothers.

"It's no shoe-string with us," Young snapped. "Very few people would have been willing to come down here and face possible legislation wiping out $8,000,000."

He referred to the price he and his associates paid for control of the rail and industrial securities. "If there had been no Senate investigation or regulatory legislation," he added, "we could not have bought for $8,000,000. The price would probably have been closer to $50,000,000."

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, May 27.—Defending Champion Denny Shute of Boston came through with another of his characteristic finishing splurges this afternoon to overhaul Big Ed Dudley, Philadelphia, and win his third round match in the Professional Golfers' Association championship, 3 and 2.

Two down at the quarter-hole, Shute ran down a long putt for a birdie to draw level at 18. He matched Dudley's burning 34, two under par, on the first nine this afternoon, to stay with the Pennsylvanian, and then put the clincher on by shooting the last four holes in two under par.

Husky Jimmy Hines, Garden City, N. Y., surprised with a 2 and 1 triumph over Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., while Harry Cooper polished off a fellow Chicagoan, Jim Foulis, 5 and 4. Byron Nelson, Reading, Pa., defeated the veteran Johnny Farrell, Short Hills, N. J., by the same count. National Open Champion Tony Manero, Peabody, Mass., outpointed tall Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., 3 and 1, and Ky Laffoon, Chicago, came back strong this afternoon to take the measure of Jimmy Thomson, Shawnee-on-Deleware, Pa., runner-up last year, 4 and 3.

MAX BAER WINS OVER FOORD ON TECHNICAL K. O.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 27.—Max Baer, former world heavyweight boxing champion, scored a ninth-round technical knockout victory over Ben Foord of South Africa at the Harringay Stadium tonight. Baer weighed 212 pounds and Foord, former British titleholder, 208.

Baer, making his first start since dropping his debut in England to Tommy Farr, was out in front from the start. He handed the former Empire champion such a beating that the referee stepped in and stopped the bout in the ninth round of the 12-round bout.

Foord had lost his Empire crown to Farr in a previous fight.

PITTSBURGH, May 27.—Defending Champion Denny Shute of Boston came through with another of his characteristic finishing splurges this afternoon to overhaul Big Ed Dudley, Philadelphia, and win his third round match in the Professional Golfers' Association championship, 3 and 2.

Two down at the quarter-hole, Shute ran down a long putt for a birdie to draw level at 18. He matched Dudley's burning 34, two under par, on the first nine this afternoon, to stay with the Pennsylvanian, and then put the clincher on by shooting the last four holes in two under par.

Husky Jimmy Hines, Garden City, N. Y., surprised with a 2 and 1 triumph over Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., while Harry Cooper polished off a fellow Chicagoan, Jim Foulis, 5 and 4. Byron Nelson, Reading, Pa., defeated the veteran Johnny Farrell, Short Hills, N. J., by the same count.

National Open Champion Tony Manero, Peabody, Mass., outpointed tall Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., 3 and 1, and Ky Laffoon, Chicago, came back strong this afternoon to take the measure of Jimmy Thomson, Shawnee-on-Deleware, Pa., runner-up last year, 4 and 3.

MAX BAER WINS OVER FOORD ON TECHNICAL K. O.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 27.—Max Baer, former world heavyweight boxing champion, scored a ninth-round technical knockout victory over Ben Foord of South Africa at the Harringay Stadium tonight. Baer weighed 212 pounds and Foord, former British titleholder, 208.

Baer, making his first start since dropping his debut in England to Tommy Farr, was out in front from the start. He handed the former Empire champion such a beating that the referee stepped in and stopped the bout in the ninth round of the 12-round bout.

Foord had lost his Empire crown to Farr in a previous fight.

Browns' Final Game at Boston Postponed: In Detroit Tomorrow

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, May 27.—Today's series' final between the Browns and the Boston Red Sox was postponed because of rain. The Browns are scheduled to oppose the Tigers in Detroit, tomorrow.

Manager Rogers Hornsby stated that Oral Hildebrand and Earl Caldwell, usually effective against the Tigers, will pitch in the two games tomorrow against the charges of Acting Manager Del Baker. He may use Jim Walkup in the single game there Saturday.

"If they played today," said Hornsby, "I would not have been in the game. This damp weather sort of stiffens me up, and, then, you know, I never did plan to play steadily for the club this year."

Hornsby said he was not disappointed because he had made no deals during this disastrous Eastern swing.

Hornsby, after the postponement, took occasion to comment on the power wielded by Beau Bell with his busy bat.

"Bell hits a line drive as hard as any they're hitting in the American League," he declared.

"Jimmy Fox hits a ball higher and maybe farther than Bell," added the Rajah, "but when it comes to lining them out, that's right up Beau's street. That's the boulevard on which he has the first house."

Neither one of the drives which he homered on yesterday went particularly high. That one which hit half way upon the left center field screen would have gone farther than the one which Fox lofted into the center field bleachers.

The homer which Fox made off Julio Bonetti, with a 2 on in the third inning yesterday, landed 450 feet from home plate, and but for the barrier in left center the sock which Bell made off Ferrell, also with two on base, in the fifth, would have traveled close to 500 feet. However, in each case, the wind was behind the blow and helped the ride of the ball.

Hornsby was told by one of the local writers that his kid catcher, Henry Huffman, did not look as if he could hit big league pitching.

"If he's excited," Hornsby, "that's the thing Huffman does best. Don't make the mistake of trying to judge him by the way he failed to hit the ball out of the infield yesterday."

"The real trouble with us yesterday was that when the Sox were getting such sloppy pitching, our pitching was just as sloppy."

"That Ferrell is tough when he has his control. Then he pitches the ball right to the spots where you don't want to see it come and where you cannot get the fat of your hat on the ball. Boy, yesterday his control was off center quite a bit and we hit him hard enough to win nine out of 10 games."

Rogers has given up all hopes of making a deal for a Red Sox infielder. He has been dangling Sam West before the eyes of the Red Sox ownership. Rog would like to get Eric McNair or Frank Hig-

PITTSBURGH, May 27.—The final game of the Brooklyn Dodgers-Pittsburgh Pirates current series was rained out this afternoon after 3 1/2 innings of play. U. S. HAS THREE IN BRITISH GOLF QUARTERFINALS

By the Associated Press.
SANDWICH, Eng., May 27.—All three remaining American contenders marched today into the quarterfinals of the British amateur golf championship.

After Dick Chapman of Greenwich, Conn., chief hope of the Americans, had won his fifth round match from H. G. Harrison, London bookmaker, 2 and 1, Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., and Robert Sweeney of Newport, R. I., and London, also checked in with fifth round triumphs.

Wehrle eliminated J. H. Neal of Great Britain, 3 and 2, while Sweeney disposed of Dr. H. Gardiner-Hill, 2 up.

Unfortunately Wehrle and Sweeney will meet in the quarterfinals tomorrow morning, automatically making it certain that one of America's delegation will have to withdraw to the side-lines. The winner of their match will play the survivor of a match between Gordon Peters, Scottish Walker Cup star, and Charles Stowe, of Great Britain.

Chapman will play Count Alaric De Benden, with the winner facing either Lionel Munn, Irish player, or J. J. F. Pennik, English amateur champion, in the afternoon.

WRAY'S COLUMN

This Balmy Fight World.
JOHN BULL seems to have gone a wee bit balmy in the belfry, as concerns his boxing. John all his life has been highly technical about his ring men. His preference heretofore has been for skilled mechanics; but now he is going in for clowns.

It is difficult to imagine the meticulous English customer paying heavy prices for Kingfish Levinsky, a clowning fellow, at the end of his string, suspected of having a strong inclination, when the going is tough; Jack Doyle, more renowned for a tenor voice than for boxing; and Max Baer, king of ring clowns, thoroughly discredited in this country.

By the Associated Press.

Driving to Another Title?

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 27.—James J. Braddock chose to play host to the Illinois State Athletic Commission today instead of packing to accept an invitation to become the guest of the New York State Athletic Commission tomorrow.

The world heavyweight champion received the New York invitation yesterday, learning that his presence was required in the East to go into the final five days of training for the championship bout with Max Schmeling June 3.

His manager, Joe Gould, wired the New York commission, explaining patiently, politely and conciliatingly, that neither of them would be able to accept the invitation because Braddock "is in strict and serious training for his bout with Joe Louis in Chicago, June 22, and that such a trip would seriously impede his progress toward reaching first-class condition for the scheduled Chicago bout."

Cochrane's Condition Is Reported as "Improved"

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 27.—An official bulletin said today that Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, who was struck on the head by a pitched ball Tuesday, had passed "a good night" and that his condition "had improved."

Signed by Dr. R. Emmett Walsh, Yankee physician, the bulletin as issued at St. Elizabeth's Hospital at 7:55 a. m. read:

"Cochrane has passed a good night. His condition is improved."

"Outlook Fine."
Dr. Byron Stookey, brain specialist, said:

"The outlook is fine." The physicians said Cochrane slept well and received ice bag applications to his head during the night. Mrs. Cochrane also spent the night at the hospital.

Last night, just after three doctors had ended a consultation they bulletined Cochrane's condition as "slightly improved."

The bulletin said "signs of a cerebral concussion have diminished. The possibility of infection and secondary meningitis is still present." It was signed by Dr. Walsh, Dr. Stookey and Dr. Alexander Nicolai, a Fordham University surgeon.

One of the doctors expressed the belief the crisis would be reached within the next 24 hours. It he

Braddock Refuses Order To Return to New York To Box Max Schmeling

CHICAGO, May 27.—James J. Braddock chose to play host to the Illinois State Athletic Commission today instead of packing to accept an invitation to become the guest of the New York State Athletic Commission tomorrow.

The world heavyweight champion received the New York invitation yesterday, learning that his presence was required in the East to go into the final five days of training for the championship bout with Max Schmeling June 3.

His manager, Joe Gould, wired the New York commission, explaining patiently, politely and conciliatingly, that neither of them would be able to accept the invitation because Braddock "is in strict and serious training for his bout with Joe Louis in Chicago, June 22, and that such a trip would seriously impede his progress toward reaching first-class condition for the scheduled Chicago bout."

Braddock, the host, had a date to show Chairman Joe Triner and George Getz of the Illinois commission, and Dr. Frank Laito, commission physician, how much condition he has attained in his North woods and at Grand Beach, Mich., training maneuvers. His demonstration was to include six stiff rounds of boxing.

Louis, who took a day off yesterday, planned to resume firing at sparring partners in a six-round session.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, May 27.—St. Johnson, who defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers 11 to 2 in his recent start, pitched against the Boston Bees this afternoon in the second and final game of the series.

St. Johnson had trouble fooling the Boston batters and he had yielded eight hits in the first four innings, losing an early lead earned by Bordagaray's single and a home run by Gutteridge.

When Gene Moore knocked a home run to account for two more runs in the fifth, Johnson was practically on his way out. Jimmy Brown batted for him in the Cards' half of the inning and started a rally that netted two runs. Then Winford took up the pitching burden.

Jim Turner, a right-hander who lost to the Redbirds in a game at Boston, was Bill McKechnie's selection.

Bordagaray was again in right field in place of Pepper Martin and Tommy Thevenow replaced Warstler at short for the Bees. About 2000 persons attended.

Goetz, Reardon and Pinelli were the umpires.

FIRST INNING—BEES.—Garms singled to center. Di Maggio popped to Gutteridge. Johnson threw out Berger. Cuccinello walked. Gene Moore struck out.

CARDINALS.—Bordagaray beat out a grounder to Thevenow. Stuart Martin flied to Berger. Bordagaray stole second. Gutteridge hit the center field wall, 426 feet, from home plate for a home run inside the park, scoring behind Bordagaray. Turner threw out Medwick. Mize grounded to Cuccinello.

TWO RUNS.
SECOND.—BEES.—Gutteridge threw out Lopez. Fletcher doubled against the right field wall. Durocher threw out Thevenow, Fletcher moving to third. Turner singled to left, scoring Fletcher. Medwick tried for a shoe-string catch but Umpire Pinelli ruled he had trapped the ball. Garms forced Turner, Durocher, unassisted. ONE RUN.

CARDINALS.—Cuccinello threw out Padgett. Durocher grounded to Thevenow. Owen singled off Garms' shins. Johnson singled past Cuccinello, sending Owen to third. Bordagaray hit off Turner's glove to Cuccinello, who threw him out.

THIRD.—BEES.—Di Maggio singled off Durocher's glove. Berger struck out. Cuccinello hit to Durocher who stepped on second and threw to Mize for a double play.

CARDINALS.—Stuart Martin was called out on strikes. Gutteridge flied to Berger. Medwick walked. Mize flied to Di Maggio.

FOURTH.—BEES.—Gene Moore flied to Medwick. Lopez singled to center. Fletcher flied to Padgett. Lopez stole second. Thevenow singled to right, scoring Lopez with the tying run. Turner singled to right, Thevenow stopping at second. Garms singled to center, scoring Thevenow, and when Padgett's throw to third bounced past Gutteridge, Turner also scored and Garms reached third. Di Maggio popped to Durocher. THREE RUNS.

CARDINALS.—Padgett flied to Di Maggio. Thevenow threw out Durocher. Owen grounded to Cuccinello.

FIFTH.—BEES.—Berger flied to Medwick. Cuccinello singled to left. Gene Moore hit on the pavilion roof for a home run, and scored behind Cuccinello. It was the tenth Boston hit. Lopez struck out. Durocher threw out Fletcher. TWO RUNS.

CARDINALS.—Brown batted for Johnson and was safe on Fletchering. Padgett was purposely passed, again filling the bases. Durocher forced Padgett. Cuccinello, unassisted. TWO RUNS.

SIXTH.—BEES.—Winford went in to pitch for the Cardinals. Thevenow flied to Medwick. Turner flied to Padgett. Winford tossed out Garms.

Hubbell, in Relief Role, Wins No. 24

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, May 27.—The New York Giants defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 2, today on Mel Ott's homer in the ninth inning, after calling on Carl Hubbell to stop the Reds in a two-inning relief trick.

Hubbell was given credit for the victory, his twenty-fourth straight in the all-time run he started last July.

He came in with the score tied at the start of the eighth and held the Reds hitless through the last two innings. Although he did not strike out a batter, not a man reached first as the Giants gave him air-tight support afield.

Johnny Mize, Saved for Baseball By Surgeon's Knife, Wins a Game

By J. Roy Stockton

Paul Dean, nervous and with his recently repaired right arm and his pitching finger—as who wouldn't be with a $12,500 contract in the balance?—must have found his hopes reinforced and his morale bolstered today, after seeing the Cardinals win the first game of their series with the annoying Boston Bees.

For a man who was reclaimed from the discard, a man who was given up as a hopeless case, and told in so many words, that he never again could lead the life of an athlete, won that ball game. That discard of less than two seasons ago is now a highly important part of the Cardinal attack, as fine an athlete as you'll see on the baseball field, and if Paul Dean wants to be a pitcher, he ought to get Johnny Mize in a corner and talk to him.

Johnny Mize had important help, of course. After Lon Warneke, lacking his usual deceptive curve, retired from the contest, old Jess Haines took over the pitching. Jess was making his first appearance of his eighteenth season on the hill for the Redbirds. The score was against the Gas House Gang. But Haines pitched a businesslike inning of no hits and no runs and the Cardinals, by virtue of successive singles by Joe Medwick, Mize and Don Padgett, drove one run over the plate.

Ryha Follows Haines. Haines retired for a pinch batter and Mike Ryha became the pitcher. Mike followed with two scoreless frames, to hold the Boston total at four and meantime the Gas House Gang functioned. One was out in the eighth when Stuart Martin, just back at his old position at second base, whacked a single to right. Don Guttridge, hitless in three previous trips to the plate, doubled to left-center and Stuart Martin, a bit winded, scored from first to reduce the Boston lead to a single run.

For six innings Dean and Mize had held the Cards to three hits and one run, but the three seventh-inning safeties and the two in the eighth convinced Bill McCoskie that his veteran big right-hander had lost his cunning, and so he called Guy Bush, the Mississippi Mudcat from the bullpen.

There seemed to be some wisdom in the care with which Bush pitched to Medwick, for it wasn't considered a bad move when he finally walked the Jersey slugger. But that was where the reclaimed man stepped into the picture. Medwick had a 410-foot home run in the fourth inning, but in this eighth-inning emergency, with the Cardinals still a run behind, Johnny Mize hit one that was even longer. The reclaimed slugger boy from Georgia swung his club with a power that was a credit to the faraway center field corner of the pavilion, a drive of fully 420 feet, and as it ricocheted among the seats, Guttridge and Medwick crossed the plate ahead of Mize and an apparently lost ball game had been changed into a victory, 6 to 4, and moved the Cardinals to within two games of first place.

Told to Quit. Let Paul Dean consider that. It was less than two seasons ago that the Cincinnati Reds, after purchas-

INDIANAPOLIS, May 27.—Joe Thorne, the 22-year-old millionaire sportsman, had the distinction today of owning the fastest and the slowest speedsters to qualify so far for the 500-mile race here Monday.

Lanky Thorne, who towers six feet four inches, has entered six mounts in the speedway competition, and five already have qualified.

Jimmie Snyder of Chicago, one-time milkman, blazed his way to racing glory yesterday in a Thorne creation by averaging 125.287 miles an hour, a new record, for the 25 qualification miles.

Thorne, who has speedboats and airplanes galore in his stable, appeared happier over Snyder's showing than over qualifying himself later at 115.602 miles an hour.

Thorne's average was the slowest recorded in speedway tests this year, and the chances were that he might not get to start. The fastest 33 cars to qualify are permitted to participate.

Additional qualifications were on tap for this afternoon, and the tests will finish Saturday. The track will get a final scrub-down Sunday and the competition will begin at 10 a. m. Monday.

Railbirds believed today an average of 117 miles an hour or better would be necessary for eligibility. Twenty-eight mounts already have passed the tests, and there are almost a dozen drivers who will try to win the remaining five spots.

Five drivers have failed to reach 117 miles an hour in their qualification sprints. Including Thorne, they are Ronney Householder of Los Angeles, 116.464; Deacon Litz of Dubois, Pa., 116.372; Floyd Roberts of Vannoy, Cal., 116.996, and Lou Tomel of Portland, Ore., 116.437. Roberts qualified a Thorne car.

In addition to Snyder and Thorne eight other pilots went through the tests yesterday. They were Kelly Pettito, 1935 winner, 124.129; Bob Swanson of Los Angeles, 121.920; Harry MacQuinn of Indianapolis, 121.822; Roy Mays of Glendale, Cal., 119.968; Floyd Davis of Springfield, Ill., 118.942; Shorty Cantlon of Detroit, 118.555; Al Miller of Detroit, 118.518, and Tony William of Milwaukee, 118.242.

Ralph DePalma, villian who won the 1915 race, will drive the pace-making car this year.

One feels sorry for Hally, or almost any other fighter of his division that faces Armstrong, who has traveled higher and farther than any other ring product of St. Louis.

The fight is something more than just a good boxer. He has the most remarkable ring motor of any boxer in any class. The power and stamina required to keep throwing gloves without cessation for 15 rounds seems superhuman and with it Armstrong possesses the ability to direct that constant barrage of blows to vital spots.

Armstrong is no haphazard glove-thrower or club fighter. He is something new and better than the featherweight class has seen since the days of Johnny Kilbane and Abe Attell.

This Nestell continues to excite our coast contemporaries, who regard him as the outstanding heavyweight prospect of the U. S. He resembles Gene Tunney facially and is built in a stronger, harder-hitting mould than the retired head of the stock market.

He is described as courageous, game and aggressive.

Pastor, who may have the edge on Nestell in professional experience, we saw in one phase of his specialty when he fought Joe Louis in New York. We formed a respect for this young man on that occasion.

Although just a graduate college fighter with only preliminary experience, he faced the supposedly fearsome Brown Bomber resolutely, pursued a plan of battle, and he was not only victorious but earned the unexpected honor of staying 10 rounds with the heavier Negro.

We like boxers who have a method, and the courage to pursue it. We like Schmeling who, though not a great boxer, saw an opportunity, built a plan, and followed it on to victory by beating Louis. Gene Tunney was another fighter who fought and won planned battles. Ask Dempsey.

It takes brains, courage and ability to follow a plan, in the face of physical superiority. Pastor proved he could do that.

Whether he will follow a battle plan against Nestell we, of course, don't know.

W. Nestell beats Pastor, we will be ready to concede that our old pal Gus Wilson has developed some pretty good timber. Incidentally, Nestell is favored to win, but that, of course, may be due to the fact that he's fighting in his own country.

A Real Champion.

ANOTHER fight scheduled to-morrow will see Henry Armstrong, the perpetual motion featherweight king, in action. At Los Angeles, Armstrong will oppose Wally Hally, who is just a few steps away from being a champion.

ILLINOIS, UNDER ROETTER, SURE OF A TIE FOR BIG TEN TITLE

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

URBANA, Ill., May 27.—By defeating Northwestern on Illinois field, 3 to 2, yesterday afternoon, Coach Walter Roetter's University of Illinois baseball team, runner-up last season, is assured of at least a tie for the Big Ten conference championship this year. Illinois has a record of nine games won and one lost, Ohio State having handed Illinois its lone defeat when they won 5 to 1 here April 23.

To share in the title, Indiana must defeat Ohio State twice in their two-game series on Friday and Saturday, otherwise Illinois will have a clear title.

Franklin Safety. Murray Franklin, Illini second sacker, hit safely in the ninth after losing Northwestern scoring Fred Reinhart, left fielder, to give Illinois the victory yesterday. Northwestern took the lead in the initial inning when Ralph Mack, right fielder, tripled and scored Larson. Illinois tied the count in the seventh when Sisco came home after Reinhart had flied out.

The Wildcats again took the lead in the eighth when Harry Brookby tripled and scored Diehl who had doubled. Again Illinois tied it up in their half of the eighth when Frank Nickel, who batted in Calahan's place, hit safely and scored Franklin.

The winning run was brought in on Franklin's hit in the ninth after two were down and Reinhart crossed the plate which closed Illinois season.

End Their Careers. Nine Illini closed their collegiate baseball careers with the game. They are captain Hale Swanson, Chicago Heights; Murray Franklin and Frank Nickels, both of Chicago; August Sisco, Berwyn; Wilbur Henry, Champaign; Fred Reinhart, Deway, Ill.; Vic Hinze, Beecher, Ill.; John MacDonald, Lockport, Ill.; and Maurice Quinn, Pittsburg, Kan.

Henry will be a nine-letter man, the first in a number of years at Illinois. He has won three letters each in basketball, baseball and football.

WASHINGTON U. WILL COMPETE IN PENN RELAYS NEXT SEASON

The Missouri Valley Conference will be represented next year at the Penn Relays by the champion Washington University track team, if present plans of Bear Coach Hudson Hellmich materialize.

The team was honored for its crowning achievement of this season—the first conference title won by a Washington team in 30 years of competition—at a dinner at the art school on the campus last night. "The boys haven't made an Eastern trip before," said Coach Hellmich, who has completed his second year as leader of the Washington track squad. "So I plan to take them to the Penn Relays next year."

The Kansas Relays will be dropped from the schedule. So will the Drake carnival, as it is held the same day as the Penn Relays.

Dual meets Hellmich has in mind include Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Cape Girardeau, Illinois Wesleyan and Southern Illinois Teachers. Lettermen on the squad who received gold track shoe awards were: Claude Beeler, Ernest Ohle, Butler Bushyhead, Lackland Bloom, Elmer Miller, Bill Brooks, Frank Wright, Evan Wright, 120 yd. runner, Jimmy Johnson, Fred Leyhe, Julius Friedrich, Reuben Gordon, Norman Tomlinson, Joe Bukant, Dick Lund and Bob Gerst.

They elected Frank Wright, distance runner, as captain for next year.

Johnson was retiring captain and others who are to graduate in a few days are Bloom, Waite and Friedrich.

JOHN BURTON LEADS VARIAPAPA 129 PINS

NEW YORK, May 27.—Nelson Burton of Dallas, Tex., came from behind last night to chalk up his third successive 10-game triumph in an eight-block match with Andy Variapapa, New York, defeating the trick shot artist, 2139 to 2128. Burton now leads by 129 pins with a total of 6377 to his opponent's 6248. Burton rolled 266 in the fourth game for his high, while Variapapa's best game was 259. The fourth block will be rolled here tonight, with the pair then moving on to Dallas to wind up the match.

Firestone TIRES

GIVE YOU GREATER PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING AND BLOWOUTS

YOU will know the minute you see this tire why car owners everywhere call it the greatest tire ever made to sell at these low prices. The deeper, wider, flatter non-skid tread made of tough, long wearing rubber will give you dependable service and protection against dangerous skidding.

But tires cannot be judged on tread alone. Under the tread of Firestone Standard Tires are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords. This Firestone patented construction feature binds the tread and cord body into one inseparable unit, provides greater strength and guards against punctures. Now examine the body of the tire. Every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply is saturated and coated with pure liquid rubber which counteracts the internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life. This Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping makes the tire stronger—gives greater protection against blowouts and is used only in Firestone Tires.

Don't risk your life on thin, worn tires when you can have new tires with all these extra values at such low cost. Come in and join the Firestone Save A Life Campaign today by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON THIN WORN TIRES

Above is a section cut from a smooth, worn tire, which shows the non-skid protection worn off. Tires in this condition are more liable to punctures, blowouts and skidding.

Above is section cut from a new Firestone Tire. Note the thick non-skid protection against skidding, blowouts and punctures. Come in today and see by actual demonstration.

Protect yourself and your family from the danger of driving on thin worn tires which may cause a serious accident.

DO YOU KNOW

THAT last year highway accidents cost the lives of more than 38,000 men, women and children?

THAT a million more were injured?

THAT more than 40,000 of these deaths and injuries were caused directly by punctures, blowouts and skidding due to unsafe tires?

OLIN EASES UP HIS TRAINING; LEWIS DISPLAYS A REAL WALLOP

By W. J. McGoogan

Bob Olin, challenger for John Henry Lewis' light heavyweight boxing crown, will take it easy today and tomorrow, laying off in his training grind for the title bout which is to be held at the Arena Thursday night, June 3.

Olin has come along so quickly in his training that he thinks rest will do him more good than anything else. He is satisfied with his condition now and weight gives him no concern, as he is down to the limit of 175 pounds.

Given Good Chance. He has been boxing and punching very well in his work at the Business Men's Gymnasium, and his punching has caused his followers to believe that he has a better chance than most observers give him to regain the title he lost to Lewis here in 1935.

Joe Parks, Kid Bandy's hope, is the latest to feel the sting of the new Olin wallop. Joe caught one of Bob's lefts to the chin during their session yesterday and Parks' knees buckled under him. He did not go to the floor, however. After he had finished two rounds with Parks, Olin took on Les Schulte for three blistering rounds and announced afterward that he was more than satisfied with his condition.

Not to be outdone in the matter of punching, the champion showed he carries some authority in his gloves, too, when he floored his sparring partner, Freddy Wilson of Pittsburgh, twice, during a two-round go at the West End gymnasium.

It was the first time that Lewis had done any boxing in preparation for the coming bout, because he has had nearly a dozen contests since the first of January, and his only problem is to keep the good condition edge he always has.

But John Henry didn't want anybody to get the idea that Olin had a monopoly on the art of knocking down sparring partners, so Lewis dropped Wilson just to show he could do it.

Lewis appeared ready for the test right now, although he is still a little over the weight limit. Built along the lines of a greyhound racer, Lewis went through his paces with the speed and finesse which has become familiar to St. Louis fans.

Into Heavy Ranks. Larry Amadeo, his trainer, who was associated with Jack Blackburn in the handling of Joe Louis until he decided to sever that connection to devote his time exclusively to John Henry, said that Lewis plans to invade the heavyweight ranks but not until he has had another championship bout after the Olin battle. The second likely will be in Europe, then Lewis will try his luck with the big boys.

It was noticed the first thing Amadeo did was to put a protective bandage over Lewis' right eye. That has always been a soft spot with the champion, and has been cut numerous times. Right now it is all right, but requires protection. John Henry will continue his work probably through Tuesday.

Braxton to Indianapolis
By the Associated Press.
MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 27.—The Milwaukee Brewers announced yesterday the release of Garland

Braxton, veteran left-handed pitcher, to Indianapolis for the waiver price of $2000. Braxton's sale made way for Newell Kimball, rookie pitcher obtained from the Chicago Cubs.

Good Fishing Forecast for Opening Day.

BARRING sudden and unexpected changes in the weather, thousands of piscatorial fans will depart tomorrow night and Saturday for the annual fight with game fish of Missouri, when the season opens at daybreak Sunday. A three-day vacation period is in store for many anglers since Monday has been declared a holiday by a majority of businesses.

Focusing attention upon the waters of the Ozarks, since most of the angling will be done in this area, reports seem to be favorable to good conditions. At this time the waters are much above the average for general clearing.

The Lake of the Ozarks, although at full reservoir stage for several weeks, has receded and at present anglers of the Eganell Dam district have little to worry about. The Big and Little Niangua and Grand Glaize arms of the Lake (in the Camden town vicinity) are also reported A-1. Crappie, channel cat, jack-salmon and goggle-eye may be taken in the branches while fishermen on the Lake proper will undoubtedly be trying for the fighting bass.

In the southwest portion of the state Lake Taneycomo, the White and the James Rivers are reported clear. Bass, crappie, goggle-eye, sunfish, channel cat and frogs may be taken in these waters.

Clear Waters Probable.

Carter, Ripley, Wayne and Butler counties in the south-central and southeastern part of the state which carry the major portion of the Current, Black and St. Francis Rivers should produce their share of bass, crappie, goggle-eye, channel cat and jack-salmon although at last report (early this week) the waters were still a bit murky. These swift flowing streams should be entirely clear by Sunday. Other waters in that area which were reported favorably, include the Buffalo, Logan, Cane, Beaver Dam and Big Creeks.

In Iron, Reynolds and Madison Counties crappie fishermen are advised to stay with the St. Francis and Lake Killarney while the former will also give its share of channel cat. Jack-salmon will be found in the Black River.

Bass, goggle-eye, channel cat and crappie are expected to be taken in the following rivers and counties: Eleven Points, Bryant Creek in Ozark and Oregon Counties; Establishment Creek in the vicinity of Bloomdale, the Saline Creek between Ste. Genevieve and St. Marys and the Aux Vases in Ste. Genevieve County; Iron Mountain Lake, a mile east of Iron Mountain; Big River, in the vicinity of Caledonia and Ironton and Location Creek on Highway 8 between Leadwood and Potosi in Washington County; in Gasconade and Franklin Counties the best streams are the Meramec, Gasconade, Bourbeuse, Indian Creek, Crooked Creek, the Huzzah, the Courtoise, Calvey Creek and First Creek; Osage, Maries and Cole County have the Osage, Gasconade, Brush Creek and Swan Creek, the Tavern, Big and Little Maries and Balles Creek.

In McDonald, Newton and Barry counties the reports are not so favorable as in other parts of the State, but the White, Elk Kings, Indian rivers and Shoal, Flat, Little and Big Sugar creeks usually come through with their share of the game fish.

In the northern part of the State the principal stream is the Salt River, which flows into the Mississippi just below Louisiana. Young's Creek and Long Branch Creek are the best tributaries of the Salt River, and these streams have been stocked in Audrain County. Farther north, in Monroe County, are Elk Fork, South Fork, North Fork and Middle Fork of the Salt River.

Trout Are Biting.

From all reports rainbow trout seem to be best at Roaring River, Hickory and Cedar creeks in Newton, McDonald and Barry counties. Other streams not mentioned are expected to be either fair or best suited for rough fishing and frogs. In Tennessee, Reelfoot Lake is reported to be in excellent condition and good catches are reported. The Meramec is in shape for fish.

MIDGET AUTO PROMOTER

HIMSELF ENTERS RACES
Announcement was made last night by Ralph Fello, the promoter, that he had entered the midget auto races which will be held Friday night at the Carondelet Softball Park track, 9900 South Broadway.

Fello, a popular winner here last season, is the owner of several cars. He will drive a Jap Special against the crack field of about 20 drivers. Most of the drivers in the approaching races are owners of new cars. They have been testing them all week at the Carondelet track and report them in first-class shape.

The South Side track, a one-sixth of a mile layout, has been completed for the past few days and is ready for regular races.

We think Otto's right, too. We've been in the brewing business a long time, our family has. Our 71-year old braumeister has been brewing most all his life. And we're staking our reputation that real beer drinkers want a dry, sparkling, fresh-tasting beer. So that's the way we make STAG... DRY... and BEER-Y! We want it to be as much like old-country beers as possible—beers that are made by real German formulas, centuries old.

Just try our Stag. We think you'll like it, too. Remember it's not sweet beer. It's dry!

Professor's Body Recovered.
By the Associated Press.
MADISON, Wis., May 27.—The body of Asa Clark, 40-year-old University of Wisconsin professor who disappeared from his island cottage more than two weeks ago, was recovered last night from Lake Mendota. Coroner Edward A. Fischer attributed the death to drowning while swimming. Clark, a French instructor, had last been seen May 12.

Private Utilities Appeal in Suit to Bar Aid to Publicly-Owned Plants.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 27.—Utility interests asked the Supreme Court today to rule on the constitutionality of Federal grants and loans for construction of publicly-owned power plants.

The question is one of several which President Roosevelt cited as undecided in explaining why he still wanted Congress to enact his court scheme.

Government counsel were expected to file a brief opposing the utilities' request late this afternoon or early tomorrow. They hastened their reply in the hope that the court will pass on the question at the regular conference Saturday and announce its decision on Tuesday, the last day of the term.

Clark Foreman, director of the PWA power division, said a denial of the request would in effect nullify injunctions against 40 municipal power projects for which more than $50,000,000 has been allotted. Suit appealed to Supreme Court.

The issue reached the court on appeal from the refusal of the United States Court of Appeals here to enjoin PWA from financing public plants in Alabama and Iowa.

The Alabama Power Co. and the Iowa City Light & Power Co. contended the creation of PWA represented unconstitutional delegation of power to the executive, that the contested grants were not justified by the general welfare clause, and that states rights were violated.

Justice Cardozo's decisions on the Security Act were quoted in a brief by Newton D. Baker and other utility lawyers.

"While the court has upheld that expenditures to relieve unemployment are for the general welfare," they said, "it has also stated that 'the line must still be drawn between one welfare and another, between the particular and the general.'"

The lawyers argued that the court should decide "whether an expenditure for an object admittedly local and particular can become general because of possible remote or collateral effects not supported by administrative findings of fact."

If the court should grant a review, the case would be argued next fall. Meanwhile, injunctions against similar projects would stand in force.

The Government will deny that PWA power grants violate the Constitution. Principal reliance, however, will be placed on the lower court ruling that even if this were so, the utilities have no legal right to an injunction.

The thing which affects their interests, the lower court said, is the contemplated competition by a public plant, and that is lawful.

The Tennessee Electric Power Co. and 18 other utilities urged the Supreme Court today to permit a speedy trial before the Eastern Tennessee United States District Court on their petition to limit TVA operations in eight states. The companies asked the Court to refuse to grant a TWA appeal from a ruling by the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals ordering a trial of the controversy before the Federal District Court. In taking that action the Circuit Court dissolved a temporary injunction halting expansion of TVA activities.

The Important Facts About the Difference in Gin

• The important facts are these: Gordon's Gin has Liqueur Quality and High Proof, 94.4. That means richer flavor—velvety smoothness—drinks that never taste thin. And that is why more and more thousands of people are insisting on Gordon's when buying by the bottle or by the drink!

PWA POWER GRANTS IN SUPREME COURT

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 27.—The proposed merger of five Illinois subsidiaries of the Union Electric Light & Power Co. of Missouri has been approved by the Securities and Exchange Commission. Details of the plan had been announced previously.

The companies to be merged are the Union Electric Light & Power Co. of Illinois, owner of the Cahokia and Venice power plants; Power Operating Co., which operates the two plants; East St. Louis Light & Power Co., Alton Light & Power Co. and Alton Gas Co.

Retiring President Delivers Warning at Meeting of Iron and Steel Institute.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 27.—Warning that mounting taxation, labor unrest and budgetary unbalance are threatening industrial recovery were delivered by two speakers before the annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute today.

Eugene G. Grace, retiring president of the institute, declared that "we have come to a point in national economics where Government expenditures are of grave concern to all, regardless of party, and where they threaten the progress of the country's economic advance."

George O. May, senior partner of the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse & Co., said, after attacking the Federal undistributed profits surtax, that "far more serious than the continuation of the elements of injustice in the tax structure is the fact that even at our present stage of recovery the budget is not balanced, and there is no immediate prospect of it being balanced."

Representative Wright Patman (Dem.), Texas, said large aggregations of capital were necessary in some industries, such as steel and communications, but condemned "absentee ownership" of banks and stores. Chain stores and branch banks, he said, will soon become "a thing of the past."

Virginia Lifts Sunday Beer Order.
By the Associated Press.
RICHMOND, Va., May 27.—The Sunday prohibition on beer and wine sales in Virginia, which would have been three months old tomorrow, was ordered lifted today by the State Liquor Control Board. Adopted Feb. 28, the State regulation will cease to exist May 29 because the board believes "the restriction has encouraged that type of antagonism on the part of a large number of citizens which leads inevitably to public disregard of law."

THE CHEAPEST THING ON YOUR CAR IS THE BEST TIRES YOU CAN BUY! COST PER 100 MILES

Charted here are average maintenance costs obtained from fleet owners operating hundreds of cases on Goodyear Tires. Note that a full set of Goodyear costs only about one-fifth as much as gas—from one-quarter to one-half as much as other routine expenses. Ratios may vary somewhat in your case depending upon roads, climate and how fast you drive, but these nation-wide records prove Goodyear costs least under any conditions.

MILLIONS SAY— "THE BEST TIRE!"

More people have bought Goodyear Tires than any other kind for 22 consecutive years—millions more—because they have found Goodyears best. Why not profit by their experience?

If you are puzzled by tire classifications and tire prices, here's a fact that will set you straight.

The nation's great fleet owners who watch operating expenses with a microscope, say from long experience, "The cheapest thing on your car is the best tires you can buy!"

And by that they mean Goodyear Tires, for their accurate records show that a full set of Goodyears costs only ONE-FIFTH as much per 100 miles as gasoline—one-fourth to one-half as much as other everyday expenses!

Mileage is the answer. The longer, tougher, safer mileage that millions have found is built into every Goodyear Tire.

Just choose your price class

Goodyear Tires are safer because they give you the greater grip of center traction... the quicker-stopping All-Weather type tread that protects you from skidding accidents... the surer blowout-protection of patented Supertwist Cord in every ply!

BALDWIN TO GIVE

TO CHAMBERLAINPresent Chancellor of Exchequer to Head New Government — Simon
May Get Financial Post.PREMIER HAS LAST CABINET MEETINGArchbishop of Canterbury, Chief Aid in Edward's

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, May 27. — Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin presided at his last Cabinet meeting yesterday and took formal leave of his colleagues. On Friday he is expected to return the seals of office to the King and retire to the House of Lords. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will succeed him, and it is strongly rumored that Sir John Simon will become Chancellor.

The Archbishop of Canterbury has the Prime Minister, who was his chief collaborator in the constitutional crisis of last December, send him in an address to the upper house of the convocation of Canterbury. Similar speeches were delivered at the Cabinet meeting.

The official list of Ministers of the Chamberlain Cabinet will not be issued until after Chamberlain has been called to Buckingham Palace following Baldwin's retirement, but political quarters freely predicted principal changes.

Runciman in Line.

Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, who recently visited President Roosevelt in Washington, was thought to be in line for a peerage with the title of Viscount. He then will leave the Board of Trade and probably become Lord Privy Seal in place of Viscount Halifax, who is to succeed former Premier Ramsay MacDonald as Lord President of the Privy Council.

Latest forecasts named Sir Kingsley Wood, the Health Minister, as the new Home Secretary. Leslie Hore-Belisha is expected to be the Minister of Transport for the Health Ministry.

The King summoned MacDonald to an audience this morning during which it was thought he would receive the coveted order of merit on his retirement as Lord President of the Council. MacDonald will not go to the House of Lords like his predecessor as Prime Minister, but will continue to sit in the House of Commons as member of Parliament for the Scottish universities.

The King offered MacDonald an honorarium, but MacDonald asked for permission to decline.

He preferred to remain plain James Ramsay MacDonald rather than endanger the political career of his son, Malcolm.

On the death of the elder MacDonald, now 70, were he to be named an earl, his son would move to his father's place in the house of peers. Malcolm is now Secretary for the Dominions and a National Labor member of Commons, positions he might be obliged to surrender were he to inherit an earldom.

Son of Joe Chamberlain.

Chamberlain gets his conservatism from his father, "Joe" Chamberlain, who held office in such governments as those of Gladstone, Salisbury and Balfour. Now the 68-year-old Chancellor has reached the Premiership, a post devoted both to his father and to his brother, the late Sir Austen Chamberlain who fathered the Lorton Treaty.

Neville Chamberlain entered national politics in 1916 when he was elected to Commons for the Ladywood division of Birmingham. In the fall of 1931 he took over the Treasury and the role of new tax center, two months after Great Britain went off the gold standard.

Japanese Minister of War

Warns Parties to Co-operate

Threat of Drastic Action Considered to Be Step Toward Semi-Dictatorship.

TOKYO, May 27.—Gen. Sugiyama, Minister of War, warned Japanese political parties opposed to the government today that drastic measures might be taken to carry out Governmental policies, if the parties did not co-operate.

Gen. Sugiyama's remarks were considered as indicating that the government might set up a semi-dictatorial regime with the help of the army.

Ward Quits Missouri U. Board

Chamberlain is expected to move into 10 Downing Street, his official quarters, freely predicted principal changes.

German Secret Police Forbids Issuance of 200 Catholic Papers

Official Announcement Says False Statements Were Made About Nazi Girls' League — Pope Accused of 'Objective Untruth.'

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 27.—Nazi Germany struck a new blow today at organs of Catholic publicity and the mouthpiece of Hitler's Black-shirted Schutz Staffel bodyguard accused the Pope of an "objective untruth."

The Gestapo (State secret police) forbade issuance until further notice of some 200 Catholic church papers printed by the Essener Kirchenblätter Co. of Essen. These papers correspond to current newspaper "patent insides" in the United States, and have the same text, with open space for local items.

Officially, it was stated the church papers made false statements about the Nazi Girls' League and generally vilified institutions of the Nazi state.

The "Schwarze Korps" (Black Corps), organ of the picked "SS" bodyguard, took exception to the Pope's remarks to German Catholic pilgrims on May 19, when he was quoted as saying: "I am happy to see you here, while at home there is raging a bitter, unjust and hostile fight against your religious conscience; a fight against God and your faith in Him."

Comment by Paper.

If the Catholic Church father once again charges the National Socialist State with being hostile to religion and supporting atheist propaganda, he does nothing different from what those he appointed as guardians for his children in Germany have been doing. He is speaking an objective untruth."

Meanwhile agents of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels were gathering as complete a version as possible of the speech of George Cardinal Mundelein, in Chicago, in which the Cardinal called Hitler "an Austrian paper hanger" and inveighed against "atrocious propaganda" in the Nazi press concerning trials of Catholic monks and lay brothers on immorality charges. Goebbels will deliver a speech Friday night in which it was announced he would answer Cardinal Mundelein.

Dr. Goebbels will deliver his speech in Deutschland Halle, which accommodates 20,000 persons, and a radio hookup will carry it to millions of German homes.

Protestant Leaders Held.

The fight of Protestant confessional churches against Nazi domination entered a new phase with the imprisonment by the Gestapo of all five members of the executive committee of the confessional's provisional church government. The five pastors, it was disclosed, were taken into custody Tuesday night but neither their names nor their whereabouts, whether in concentration camp or preliminary custody, were disclosed.

MUSSOLINI FOR HALTING ARMS RACE, SAYS ENVOY

Ambassador Informally Gives Views of Premier to State Department.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The Italian Ambassador, Fulvio Suvich, informally told Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles yesterday that a newspaper article, which said Mussolini advocated a halt in the arms race as a means of ending present political or economic ills, did in fact represent the official views of Mussolini.

Earlier Welles, speaking unofficially, had expressed great interest in the Italian Premier's statements, and had expressed a strong opinion that the head of another world Power is inclined toward the idea of arresting the present armament rivalry.

"I called merely to inform Mr. Welles," Suvich said. "I have received a cable from my Government telling me that the interview does in fact represent the complete views of the head of the Italian state."

JAPANESE WARSHIPS BACK UP PROTEST TO CHINA

Assemble Off Swatow After Arrest of Policeman Who Chinese Say, Started Fight.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, May 27.—Three Japanese destroyers and a cruiser were reported anchored in the harbor of Swatow, China, today, ready to back up a demand for "satisfaction" arising out of an alleged assault on a Japanese consular policeman in that city.

The officer, Kiyoshi Aoyama, was reported by Japanese sources to have been seized yesterday in his home, stripped and beaten and dragged through the street surrounded by 40 Chinese soldiers armed with pistols and machine guns.

Chinese authorities at Swatow rejected Japan's protest and charged Aoyama had first struck a Chinese policeman. A new protest was entered today.

LOPEZ INSISTS HE WILL QUIT

Colombia President adamant After Senate Refuses Resignation.

By the Associated Press.

BOGOTA, May 27.—President Alfonso Lopez insisted last night that his decision to step down as Colombia's Chief Executive was irrevocable although the Senate, to which he tendered his resignation, voted unanimously against its acceptance. The Senate adopted a resolution declaring its confidence in Lopez administration and sent a committee of five to the Palace to tell the President of its action. Lopez told the committee he would amplify his reasons for resigning in a message Friday.

The President, elected in 1934 as head of Colombia's first, of party government in 50 years, offered to step out when Congress voted against his currency program. Lopez' term does not expire until August, 1938. Labor unions throughout the country offered to strike to show their support of the President.

Morgenthau Reports on Tax Evasion.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau turned over to President Roosevelt today what he called additional "confidential information" on results of a field investigation of March income tax returns. He would not disclose details of the report, which he said covered total collections as well as "methods of evasion."

BRIBERY IN ARMS TRADE SUBJECT OF COMMONS DEBATE

Laborite Cites Evidence Salesmen Pay Foreign Officials to Get Munitions Contracts.

QUOTES REPORT OF ROYAL COMMISSION

War Minister Duff Cooper Says "The More These Hideous Facts Are Advertised the Better."

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 27.—A bitter debate over bribery in the international armaments trade continued in the House of Commons today.

Philip Noel-Baker, Laborite, took up the attack where Alfred Duff Cooper, Minister of War, left it yesterday in debate over a civil list bill granting departmental funds.

Noel-Baker cited evidence of bribery uncovered last September by a royal commission that investigated private manufacture and commerce in war implements.

"We unearthed a first class scandal—a bribe of £50,000 (£250,000)—which was to be offered to the head of a foreign Power in order to increase its armament orders," he declared.

"I am prepared to accept such evidence as the honorable member has produced—I am not acquainted with all the details—of these nefarious transactions and of a British firm offering bribes," Duff Cooper answered.

He declared that munitions salesmen approaching foreign customers "may find it quite impossible to get a contract unless they are prepared to give a substantial commission to a statesman, to sell the goods."

War Minister argued, however, that the practice was not anything new in "the irony of war."

"The commission is given to a corrupt statesman," he contended, "the foreign country has the goods it requires and the people of England are employed to make them."

"These things happened in Europe 100 years ago. No one was ashamed. . . . So far as the sordid, ugly fact exists that in the last war men were killed by bullets and slower schedules."

A brief announcement issued after a conference at the Ministry of Labor said the men would go back to work on the old eight-hour schedule "pending conclusion of a new agreement," which is still under negotiation.

A statement in which both the workers and the London Transport Board concurred said that men reporting for work Friday will be reinstated and that "the period of the strike shall not be deemed to be a break in their service."

Both the Transport Board and the Busmen's Union accepted an interim report of the court of inquiry appointed by the Government to investigate the workers' demands.

Ernest Bevin, general secretary of the workers' union, said it was "an honorable settlement."

ENGLISH COAL MINE STRIKE

AVERTED BY UNION MERGER

Agreement Reached on Absorption of Company Organization by Another Group.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 27.—A national coal strike in England was averted today by a provisional agreement for the merger of two mine unions. The Nottinghamshire Industrial Union, sponsored by mine owners, will be absorbed by the Nottinghamshire Miners' Association. Delegates to a conference of the Mine Workers' Federation approved the move. Strike notices were withdrawn in all districts.

Miners had voted overwhelmingly to walk out in protest against the refusal of owners of the Harworth Colliery in Nottinghamshire to hold collective bargaining negotiations with a local of the Mine Workers' Federation.

Today's agreement provides for re-employment of the Harworth Workers. This issue and that of company unionism were the only two involved.

FRENCH DEBATE TARIFF ACT

Premier Blum Seeks Free Hand in Regulation of Duties.

PARIS, May 27.—The Chamber of Deputies tariff committee approved in principle today a bill giving the Government full power to raise or lower duties.

Premier Leon Blum had asked a free hand to change tariff and negotiate accords similar to the Franco-American trade treaty. An opposition amendment would have permitted the Government only to raise tariffs was defeated, 10 to 9. The measure now goes to the chamber where a similar project previously was approved; later it was defeated in the Senate.

ROOSEVELT WANTS NEW PACT ON GREAT LAKES NAVIGATION

He Tells Congressman Conversations Are Under Way With Canada.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Representative Andrews (Dem.), New York, made public yesterday a letter from President Roosevelt which expressed hope of negotiating a new treaty with Canada for power and navigation development in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence River region.

Andrews had written the President about the possibility of a new Canadian treaty for construction work to preserve the beauty of Niagara Falls.

The President's reply stated that Canadian authorities have said they "would not be interested in entering an agreement regarding beautification of the Falls which did not at the same time include provision to permit the development of additional power."

"With regard to the broader question of the development of the whole Great Lakes-St. Lawrence basin for navigation and power purposes, including preservation of Niagara Falls," the President said, "I have had in mind for over a year a new approach to the Canadian authorities, whereby I hoped to provide for the construction of these various developments in a single treaty. I may add for your information, that, with this end in view, conversations have been held with the Canadian authorities from time to time, over the past six or eight months."

BYRD DEMANDS INQUIRY INTO RESETTLEMENT PROJECT

Announces Intention After Wallace Refuses to Abandon Shenandoah Plan.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Senator Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, said last night that he would ask the Senate Reorganization Committee to investigate expenditures on the Resettlement Administration's Shenandoah Park homestead project in Virginia. He announced this intention shortly after Secretary Wallace had refused his request that the project be abandoned.

Byrd, who complained that Shenandoah homestead represented "gross waste and inefficiency," received a letter from Wallace saying its cost had been reduced from $1,500,000 to $993,000. The Virginian told reporters he had been informed only Tuesday by the Budget Director that $1,300,884 was allocated to the project.

"I will ask the Reorganization Committee of the Senate to investigate and ascertain the true facts of these expenditures and the discrepancy between Budget Director Bell and Mr. Wallace," Byrd said. "I have received similar complaints of waste in many other states. All should be fully investigated."

DE SEVERSKY SELLS AMPHIBIAN PLANE RIGHTS TO RUSSIA

Soviet Government Pays Flier $880,000 for Two Ships and Plans.

DAYTON, O., May 27.—Maj. Alexander De Seversky, World War ace with the Czarist forces, announced today he had sold to the Russian Government manufacturing rights for his amphibian plane. For $880,000 the Russian Government acquires two Seversky amphibians and manufacturing rights on them and option exercisable within 60 days for two additional planes with complete tooling adequate for production at the rate of 10 a day.

The amphibian holds seven world's speed records and is capable of operating on land, water, ice and snow, and is said to be especially adapted for Russia's needs.

GOVERNOR TO SEE PRESIDENT ON PUERTO RICAN OUTBREAK

Leaves by Plane to Report on Disorder in Which 18 Persons Were Killed March 21.

By the Associated Press.

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, May 27. Gov. Elanton Winship left by plane for Washington today to report to President Roosevelt on the clash between Nationalists and police in Ponce last March 21 in which 18 persons were killed.

Gov. Winship said his visit to the capital was not prompted by an investigation of the outbreak which has been made by a Civil Liberties Committee headed by Arthur Garfield Hays, New York attorney. That committee's report, read in the Plaza Principal last Saturday night, charged "citizens were wantonly murdered" by police in the Ponce Palm Sunday riots.

The district court has summoned the Governor as a witness in a June 14 hearing on the Ponce outbreak set for June 14.

Dr. Ernest Gruening, Director of Territories, accompanied Gov. Winship to Washington. In conference there, the Governor is expected to insist on a full airing of the Government's side of the Ponce disorder.

MEXICO SEEKING U. S. LOAN

$12,500,000 Needed to Complete Highway to Southern Border.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Officials of the Export-Import Bank said today the possibility of a $12,500,000 credit to Mexico was discussed with the bank by Eduardo Suarez, Mexican Finance Minister, on a recent visit to Washington. They added that the conversations were "exploratory" and that the bank had made no promises.

Mexico wants a credit, Suarez was quoted as saying, to enable it to complete the Pan-American highway from Mexico, D. F., south to the border. (The Export-Import Bank was set up to aid American exporters by guaranteeing substantial percentages of credits which they may extend to purchases abroad.)

"We do not share any illusion about the efficacy of the Roosevelt plan to solve fundamental problems of the country," he said. "But the Liberty League and the Republican party, the chambers of commerce and the manufacturers' associations and Democrats who were on Mr. Roosevelt's side last summer are combining with the forces of Fascism and war to defeat it."

NAZIS DECISIVELY BEATEN IN HOLLAND

Government Coalition Headed by Premier Colijn Wins in Election.

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, May 27. — The Government coalition headed by Premier Hendrik Colijn was shown early today by final returns in yesterday's parliamentary election to have administered a sharp set-back to a Nazi challenge for power.

National Socialists under the leadership of Anton Adrian Mussert, had expected to capture 10 of the 100 Parliament seats at stake in the election. Final tabulations gave them four seats.

"Our people have thundered a decisive halt toward Nazism," Colijn told a meeting of supporters. "Tomorrow there begins a new task that demands everyone's effort."

The parties supporting his Cabinet emerged from the election with their strength enhanced by the capture of new seats. The final results gave Catholics three seats, a gain of three; Socialists 23 seats, a gain of one; anti-Revolutionaries 17 seats, a gain of three; Christian Democrats eight seats, a loss of two; Liberals four seats, a loss of three; Radicals six, unchanged; Communists three, a loss of one; Christian Democrats four seats, unchanged; and Nazis four.

COMMUNIST BROWDER PRAISES ROOSEVELT COURT PROPOSAL

Says It Is of Vital Interest to Farmers and Workers; "Splitting Democratic Party."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 27. — Earl Browder, general secretary of the communist party and its presidential candidate in the last election, said last night the Supreme Court issue is splitting the Democratic party "much more seriously than Al Smith split it last summer."

In his first public lecture since his return to the United States from Europe, Browder said the passage of President Roosevelt's judicial reform program "is of vital interest to the farmer and all the working interests of America and a step toward making fundamental American democracy work."

"We do not share any illusion about the efficacy of the Roosevelt plan to solve fundamental problems of the country," he said. "But the Liberty League and the Republican party, the chambers of commerce and the manufacturers' associations and Democrats who were on Mr. Roosevelt's side last summer are combining with the forces of Fascism and war to defeat it."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Telling Lorna Lisa About War.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

DEAR LORNA LISA KLEIN: Yes, Lorna Lisa, there is war. If you just ask your papa, he will tell you of many occasions when the only remaining argument was a poke on the jaw. If your papa is a great big man, he handed out the poke on the jaw, and if he is a little man, he probably took it. But don't let your little friends, or the grownups, either, tell you that there is no war. There is always war when arguments reach that point. You mustn't forget that wars are fought by men and not women, except that women naturally resent having their men taken from them. War is only papa's fight in the taproom greatly magnified. It is only a multiplication of the catty remarks you will make about your best friends when you grow up. It is only a street fight on a large scale. Maybe that will help you to understand better, but my papa says that little children should not read William Blake's books because of the pictures they have. I am a little boy 62 years old and my papa is 90. RALPH HERZBERGER.

For a Shuttle Service.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I SUGGEST that the Public Service Co. inaugurate a shuttle-bus service on Twelfth boulevard, from Franklin avenue to Spruce street, round trip. This would give a needed service to the Globe-Democrat, Star-Times, Jefferson Hotel, Union Electric Co., Post-Dispatch, Civil Courts, Federal Building, City Hall, Municipal Courts, Auditorium, Police Headquarters and Mart Building.

I suggest that tickets be sold at 10 for 25 cents, or round trip for 5 cents.

Tulip Trees in Tower Grove Park.

AN early morning walk in Tower Grove Park the other morning revealed to me a new glory—one I had never beheld. Tall, dark, heavily-leaved tulip trees were in abundant blossom. Lending their dainty fragrance to the sky were massed blooms of delicate shade from ivory to salmon pink. The sunlight caught their loveliness and enhanced it.

May all who can avail themselves of this sight. Never have I seen such an astonishing amount of blossoming beauty. In my long walks through Central Park in New York City, nothing as lovely as these flowering tulip trees ever stirred my vision. It is with a sense of pride in the horticultural development of my home town that I return briefly to such a beautiful spring.

May the memory of such philanthropic citizens as the late Henry Shaw long remain a revered and treasured thought to those who are privileged to enjoy their gifts.

Fruits of Organized Labor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHILE working on a P. W. A. project in University City, I had an opportunity to compare the value of organized labor.

My white union men were getting $1.50 per hour. Negro union men, 87 1/2 cents per hour. The unorganized men were getting about 40 cents per hour, less than half the Negro scale.

We were working 40 hours per week. The non-union men worked about 55 hours. So the value of unionism is very plain for people who want to make a decent living.

Cervantes and Immortality.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

"THE LIFE OF MIGUEL DE CERVANTES" is the caption of the book I have just laid aside. To the ordering of a kindly Providence does Andre Maurois, this latest biographer of Cervantes, ascribe the suffering and misfortunes out of which were distilled the "mellow, humane irony" so wittily and so eloquently the charm of "Don Quixote." Maybe so. One's heart goes out to Cervantes none the less.

Posthumous, too, in large part, was the fame of this Spanish satirist of three centuries ago. Nor is his fame yet at the peak. If he be literally, as well as figuratively, immortal, he is laughing at us now as we spend pity upon him.

Said someone to Thomas B. Reed, commenting on the statesmanship of a contemporary who was not popularly appreciated: "His name will go down in history." "Yes," agreed Reed, "but how benefits that the dead?" TEE EFF.

The Nazis and Religion.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NAZI policies seem to be alienating the sympathies of thoughtful, well-meaning people throughout the world. One cannot imagine why a literate, sensible people, wishing to improve their position and connections in the world, would intentionally revile and persecute members of two of the oldest and largest religious sects, thereby putting themselves on a par with the Communistic Governments, which originally adhered to similar policies. The latter have now gradually come to realize that religious habits of thought, customs and preferences in modes of worship cannot be interfered with.

Even though Hitler and Mussolini should be able to conquer all other nations (an obvious impossibility), their regime would never be complete and safe with these religious sects opposing them.

WILLIAM HENRY GRUEN.

CARDOZO AND THE CONSTITUTION.

A Constitution states, or ought to state, not rules for the passing hour, but principles for the expanding future. In so far as it deviates from that standard, and descends into details and particulars, it loses its flexibility, the scope of its interpretation contracts, the meaning hardens.

This wise and came-like definition of a constitution which appeared as long ago as 1921 in Benjamin N. Cardozo's brilliant book, "The Nature of the Judicial Process," comes to mind on a reflective reading of his far-reaching opinions in the social security cases, decided last Monday. For his findings as Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court accord in full with his mature conviction as Judge of the New York Court of Appeals: that needs change with the times and that constitution framers do not seek to foreclose the future. This was the view the late Justice Holmes so often expressed, and it is fitting that his philosophical as well as actual successor should be called upon to invoke it to sustain trail-blazing laws for the general welfare.

The Social Security Act rests on the constitutional authority of Congress to levy taxes for the general welfare. That there have been two schools of thought on how the Federal Government should exercise this power, Justice Cardozo and the concurring members did not attempt to hide. Referring to the broad conception of the spending power held by Alexander Hamilton and reinforced by Justice Joseph Story, on the one hand, and the restricted view of James Madison, on the other, the opinion giver announced simply: "We will not resurrect the contest. It is now settled by decision."

Here Justice Cardozo was referring to the A. A. A. ruling in which the power of Congress to tax for the general welfare was discussed as never before in the century and a half of the Supreme Court's existence. Both Justice Roberts, who spoke for the majority of six, which found A. A. A. an invasion of the reserved powers of the states, and Justice Stone, who wrote the dissent for three members, emphasized that Congress was clearly within its rights when it laid a tax for the general welfare. Since Justice Roberts spoke for the majority, his words of a year and a half ago are particularly significant:

"The Congress is expressly empowered to lay taxes to provide for the general welfare. . . . The necessary implication from the terms of the grant is that the public funds may be appropriated 'to provide for the general welfare of the United States.' These words cannot be meaningless, else they would have been used. The conclusion must be that they were intended to limit and define the granted power to raise and expend money."

Since the foundation of the nation, sharp differences of opinion have persisted as to the true interpretation of the phrase. . . . Each contention has had the support of those whose views are entitled to weight. This court has noticed the question, but has never found it necessary to decide which is the true construction. We shall not review the writings of public men and commentators or discuss the legislative practice. Study of all these leads us to conclude that the reading advocated by Mr. Justice Story is the correct one. While, therefore, the power to tax is not unlimited, its confines are set in the clause which confers it, and not in those of Section 8, which bestow and define the legislative powers of Congress. It results that the power of Congress to authorize expenditure of public moneys for public purposes is not limited by the direct grants of legislative power found in the Constitution.

Thus, while the Supreme Court found the A. A. A. particular use of the taxing power unconstitutional because it violated the tenth amendment's express guaranty of the reserved rights of the states, it was at the same time laying the foundation for sustaining the even more important Federal Social Security Act. The Roosevelt administration received the rejection of A. A. A. in January, 1936, as a blow to its program for the more abundant life; but even then there were those who saw the far-reaching implications of the court's endorsement of the Hamilton-Story view that the general welfare clause conferred a power separate and distinct from powers later enumerated.

This view of the real importance of the A. A. A. decision now stands justified by the social security decisions. The belief of Charles A. Beard and other historians that the general welfare clause was inserted in the Constitution because the framers wanted Congress to be able to meet, subject to certain other limitations, situations which they could not foresee has become constitutional law. While there obviously are limits beyond which no court of conscientious Judges could go, the Supreme Court has shown that it will give the legislative branch wide latitude for coping with its problems.

The deeper meaning of the recent decisions is that patience and a definite desire and attempt to obey the established rules have their reward in constitutional law as in everything else.

QUERY.

In a speech before a local architects' meeting, Superintendent Nagle of the Jefferson Memorial project intimated that the Federal Government would use the services of noted architects if and when the project begins to take form.

Perhaps Mr. Nagle would be good enough to explain what use could be made of architects in view of the fact that, barring legal obstacles, only $9,000,000 will be available. The major part of this sum would go to the present owners of the river-front property. The remainder is hardly likely to be more than sufficient to tear down the old buildings and sow the area in grass.

Since there is no prospect of another cent being allocated by the Federal Government, to supplement the money already set aside, is it not a little premature to talk about the employment of architects?

FOR EXPORT OF HELIUM.

President Roosevelt, acting to make helium readily available to other nations for commercial aeronautics, gives a new lease on life to development of dirigible transportation throughout the world. This country has a monopoly on the non-inflammable gas. German experts and officials agreed, after the Hindenburg disaster, that none of their dirigibles would fly again unless inflated with helium. Mr. Roosevelt, approving the report of a Cabinet committee, now has asked Congress to pass a law relaxing the present strict export regulations.

Some reckless critics have attributed the Hindenburg crash to "hogging" of helium by this country, which allegedly compelled the Germans to use inflammable hydrogen, with disastrous results. The charge is inaccurate. The United States has consistently offered to sell to Germany, but no bids were ever received. The Germans preferred hydrogen, for its cheapness and greater lifting power and because they had faith in their devices for preventing fire.

Since our Government has an ample supply of helium and itself uses little, no objection to its export can be raised except the possibility that it may be used for military purposes. The Cabinet committee finds that adequate safeguards against such use may be set up. The dirigible is, after all, far more useful in peace than in war. If the United States does not care to push its development just now, it can at least enable other countries to do so by selling them helium.

CALL THE CLERKS.

The Senate committee investigating railroad financing has been frequently bewildered by the twists and turns in the amazing affairs of the Van Sweringen brothers. The latest phenomenon encountered—a feat in bookkeeping—will be rated, we suppose, as accountancy's classic act of omission. The comptroller of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, E. M. Thomas, told about it.

For five consecutive years, the Chesapeake & Ohio had failed to report ownership of $50,000,000 worth of securities to the Interstate Commerce Commission. It was an inadvertence, Mr. Thomas said. "There was no attempt to deceive anybody," he hotly asserted. "I'm telling you under oath it was a plain error—made by clerks in my office, to be frank with you."

We take exception to Mr. Thomas' characterization of this achievement as a "plain error." As an error, it was not plain. It was extraordinary, prodigious, colossal. And though intent to deceive may have been wanting, it did deceive by withholding information from the Interstate Commerce Commission. For, through the ownership of those securities, and others, the Chesapeake & Ohio carried working control of two roads, the Erie and the Nickel Plate lines, an expansion which the Interstate Commerce Commission had forbidden.

It is a tall tale Mr. Thomas has told, but far be it from us to imply that he has, in the metaphor of diplomacy, drawn the long bow. Still, we should like to hear from those clerks in his office. Was it an individual performance, or did they mass their skill and energy in accomplishing this staggering deletion? And were they, as a staff, reprimanded for their negligence, or, if it was a one-man job, was the blunderer discharged, or was he given a bonus?

Truly, the Senate committee should call the clerks to whom Comptroller Thomas has passed on the disgrace or glory.

MR. FREUND ON PERMANENT REGISTRATION.

"In my opinion, it would not be possible to operate under the bill (for permanent registration, as rewritten) and have an honest election in St. Louis."

These are words worth heeding. They come from Arthur J. Freund, former member of a notably successful Election Board and member of Mayor Dickmann's special committee that drew up a model permanent registration bill for St. Louis. In an address yesterday, Mr. Freund spoke his mind on the way this bill had been "murdered in its sleep," and a substitute shorn of all safeguards had been introduced. The substitute bill, in this election authority's view, is even worse than existing measures.

St. Louis citizens want honest elections, and therefore they want a genuine permanent registration bill. They will accept Mr. Freund's opinion on the fake substitute as sound, and his further observation that "we have all taken too little interest in the qualifications of the men we send to the Legislature."

THE PARSNIP BLOOMS AGAIN.

The most forlorn of all the vegetables is the parsnip. Spinach excites violent and near-profanal denunciation, but calculating press-agency has persuaded many, against their better judgment, that, however revolting to the palate, the unspeakable atrocity possesses medicinal qualities of rare value. People have been deceived into thinking that, with a short course of spinach, one could speak French like Voltaire, play the piano like Paderewski, thatch a spreading bald spot with a luxuriant poll, run like Helen Stephens and simply electrify the party. Boloney, of course, as Alfred E. Smith would say, but notwithstanding the fuming and frothing of the anti-spinach has been projected into power and dominion.

Nobody has ever denounced the parsnip. That luckless root has been derided into oblivion. A Chicago columnist of much and deserved renown, the late B. L. T., led the official assault upon the parsnip. His words of contumely, by repetition and elaboration, swelled into a chorus of ridicule that finally accomplished its murderous purpose. So it seemed.

But New York State's Department of Agriculture and Markets, through its Consumers' Information Service, speaks the parsnip fair. Here, happily blended, are vitamins A and B, along with calcium, phosphorus and iron. A wholesome and toothsome incident when strictly on its own, without garnish or artifice. But it reaches apogee, we are told, when immolated on an altar of flaming rum.

Something was bound to come along to liberate us from the coils of broccoli, and it might as well be the parsnip.

FOOTNOTE ON THE PACKING PLAN.

In urging Federal wage-and-hour and child-labor laws, Mr. Roosevelt went for the main thread of his argument to the dissenting opinion of the late Justice Holmes in the child-labor case of 1918. He said that although Justice Holmes at that occasion spoke for a minority of the court (four of the nine members), "he spoke for the majority of the American people."

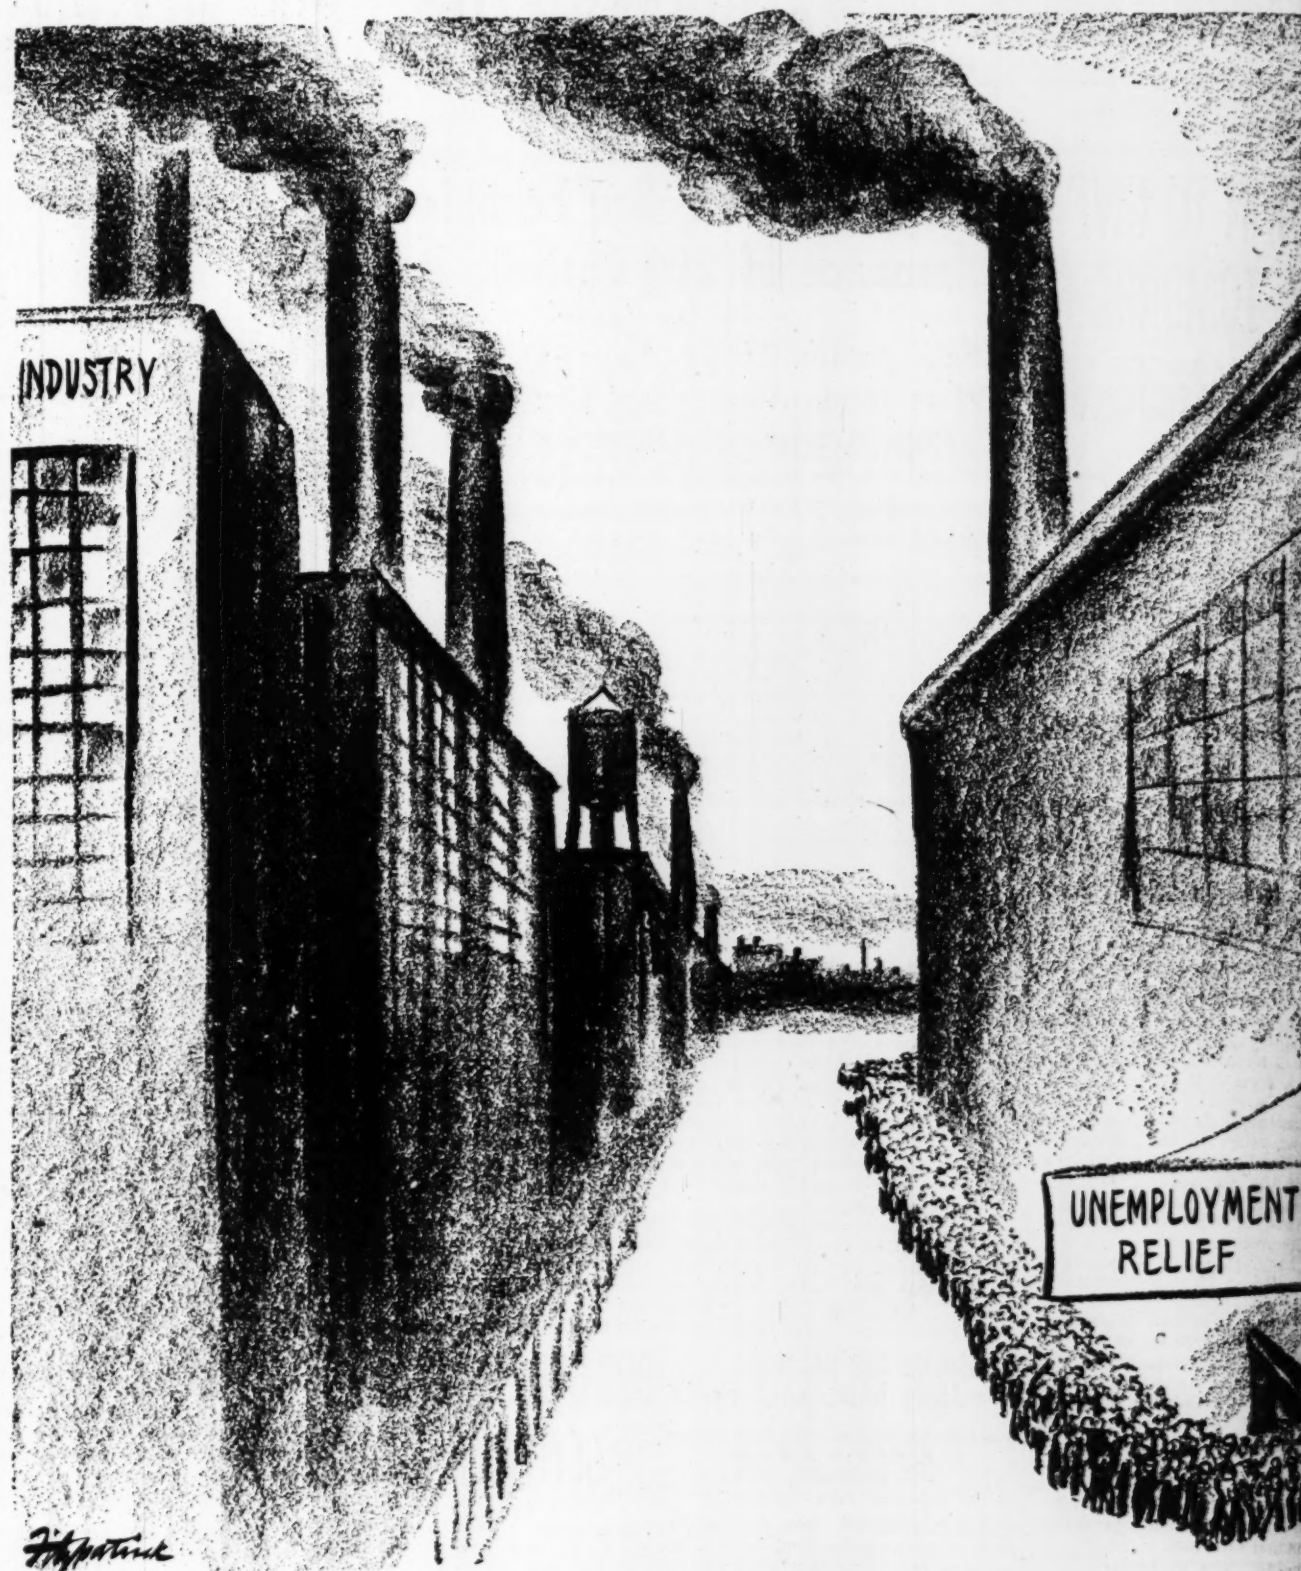

When Justice Holmes gave that opinion, he was 77 years old.

REQUIRED READING.

We suggest as required reading for the Legislature and the State Board of Pharmacy the interview with Louis Greengard, published in the Post-Dispatch yesterday. Mr. Greengard, a druggist of 33 years' experience, has been compelled to discharge about 20 State-registered pharmacists for incompetency in less than three years. He tells about a woman who died in agony because a drug clerk misread a physician's prescription, and about other cases in which alleged pharmacists showed woeful ignorance and carelessness in the life-and-death business of filling prescriptions.

Finally, Mr. Greengard pays his respects to a licensing bill now pending in the Legislature which, while requiring graduation from a school of pharmacy, contains a provision by which a license might be granted, without examination, to an applicant who has had 10 years' experience in a drug store. Would that make eligible the chap who sweeps out, the soda jerker and the man who sells alarm clocks and rubber sponges?

Six-week cram courses and wholesale cheating at examinations are releasing in Missouri a horde of drug clerks who are a menace to the community.

BOTH GOING STRONG.

Facing the Realities of Relief

Public must discard many outworn notions in considering relief problems, Community Council director says; assails theory that needy persons are inherently lazy, and that rolls can be reduced by imposing harsh conditions; citing present crisis in St. Louis, due to lack of funds, he urges adequate, permanent and humane system.

From a Radio Address by Peter Kasius, Director of the St. Louis Community Council.

IT is time we faced the realities of the relief problem. To do this sensibly, we shall have to rid ourselves of a lot of outworn notions.

The depression may be over for those who measure what prosperity we have in terms of the stock market and bank clearings, but the tragic experience of not only the past six years but of the past two decades has left its mark upon millions who will never again be able to take up life on a normal self-supporting basis. This is a hard fact to accept, particularly in the face of the tradition that America is the land of opportunity and at one time gave promise of banishing poverty from within its borders.

Whatever may have been the promise of American life 30 or more years ago, the fact is that today opportunity for employment is limited pretty largely by economic forces beyond the control of the average individual. If he fits into the needs of our highly mechanized and highly impersonalized form of economic life, then for him there is security of a kind. But if he doesn't fit, what then?

He may be too old, and by age we don't mean 65 or 70. Thousands of men, who at 35 and 40 were thrown out of work at the beginning of the depression, now find their old jobs—or new ones—being taken by younger men, and these men, who six short years ago may have thought that for them life was just beginning, are now brought to a tragic realization that life is behind them.

But age is not the only handicap. Men with certain skills now find that these skills are no longer in demand and, in the absence of any real program of retraining, are left stranded, with relief as their only form of security. And what of the countless number who have lost their grip on life through worry and anxiety, through physical and mental breakdown, through disabling accidents, impairment of vision, loss of limbs and the many other types of disability that render them comparatively useless in our intensely competitive economic order?

One might logically ask, haven't people always suffered from handicaps and disabilities? The answer, of course, is Yes. But in earlier periods, these people found some degree of security within the family unit, which was larger and more cohesive than today. They found security in neighborliness, a condition practically non-existent in our larger cities today. They found security in old jobs, and in the performance of simple tasks that were rewarded not only in money but in the satisfaction of being usefully occupied.

To a large extent, these older sources of security are gone, but we have not yet developed sufficient social ingenuity to provide suitable substitutes. Until we do, there is no alternative to providing relief in one form or another.

Too many of us would still rather think that persons who need relief are inherently shiftless and lazy. We don't like to admit that the changes that have taken place in our way of life are really responsible for the distressed condition of most of those who seek help. Living as they must in congested areas, in the midst of squalor and denied the simple decencies that our modern civilization could so easily provide, the wonder is that so many still have the courage and faith to hold on to what little there is to sustain them.

It is easier to condemn than to plan. It is simpler to say that the threat of hunger is the only incentive that will keep people from moral decay. It requires little social imagination to hold that only by making relief as unpalatable and as humiliating as possible will people be saved from the dangers of pauperization.

These are all old notions, and they die hard. They have come down to us from the days of Elizabeth and they fitted very nicely into our social economy when we were still engaged in subduing the frontier and in exploiting every advantage that a country rich in natural resources had to offer.

But the truth of the matter is that cruelty begets cruelty. The harsher we are the more aggravated our relief problem will become. On the other hand, if we adopt a humane point of view, and insist that people who are in need, regardless of the cause of their need, are entitled to be treated with decency and respect, we will find the relief problem gradually receding.

Today, St. Louis is in the midst of another relief crisis. Thousands have recently been dropped from the relief rolls because of shortage of funds.

If you were to be told that in a certain house on a certain street lived a certain family with no food in the house, with children unable to go to school and with the threat of eviction hanging over their heads, there would be response from hundreds of generous people ready to give a lift. But when we read in the press that there are thousands of such instances, we are more likely to let our feelings be repressed by the thought that—well, maybe if these people were more thrifty, they wouldn't be in this sort of jam. Such a thought may ease the consciences of some, but the relief problem will never be solved by moral superiority on the part of the more fortunate.

It will be solved only by frankly facing the facts. The problem is real, it is with us now and will be for some time to come. Adequate funds will have to be provided jointly by the city and State and a permanent organization set up, staffed by persons who are trained to deal with people in distress. These are primary considerations, but by no means the end of the problem.

Relief, to be sure, is not a way of life, but there can be no effective and constructive rehabilitation of those who are dependent unless we are equipped first to see that the essentials of life are not denied them. There is a challenge facing us today that will test not so much our generosity as individuals as our social intelligence as citizens. What we cannot do alone or as neighbors, we can do together by insisting that the administration of relief be placed upon an adequate, humane and permanent basis.

HOW CONNOTATIONS CHANGE!

From the Dayton (O.) News.

A few years ago, if a man had mentioned the "Nine Old Men," people would have thought he was referring to the Cincinnati Reds.

Is Farming an 'Infant' Industry?

From the Christian Science Monitor.

THE new farm-relief program just formulated in Washington by leaders of farm organizations in consultation with members of Congress illustrates how quickly a distress group born of emergency becomes a permanent pressure group in quest of economic advantages.

Four or five years ago, there was good reason for emergency measures in support of farm prices, which were then in the depths, with resultant suffering to the thousands of rural families. Today, those prices are in many instances above the so-called parity with industrial prices based on the relationship from 1909 to 1914. Wheat, for example, is now about $1.35 a bushel, compared with a "parity" of $1.20.

It is understandable that farm leaders should wish if possible to prevent a repetition of the kind of debacle that took place from 1930 to 1932, when accumulated surpluses went far beyond any ability of markets to absorb. But the program they have outlined, of crop loans at almost the parity value of the product, and of a prohibitive tax on farmers who refuse to curtail production, is a program favoring more of "scarcity economics" than of abundance.

A third point of the program, the automatic increase or reduction of import duties on farm products to keep domestic prices from going unreasonably low or unreasonably high, has something to commend it, even other industries as well as agriculture, and summing it really works both ways and solely on the tariff-raising side.

But the fact that the proposals are estimated to cost from $700,000,000 to $800,000,000 a year in benefits to farmers who are largely displacing the present soil conservation program is an indication that in the rural lobby, which began in a cause of preservation, has already begun to evolve into the form of the well-known industrial tariff lobby of Mark Hanna and Joseph Grundy. In fact, the farmers have already done their share of insisting on tariff protection. The current drive for economic protection, whether in the form of tariffs or benefit payments, begins to place on agriculture the earmarks of an "infant industry." As Americans have seen in the case of a host of other industries—steel, sugar, woolen goods, cotton textiles, glass, pottery, cutlery, paper, manganese, butter and so on—this infant industry is not a matter of age or size, where exemption from the free play of competition is concerned.

Industries whose leaders preach of individualism and laissez-faire in other respects may show all the signs of babyhood, if not babyishness, when it is suggested that those doctrines be applied in reduction of tariffs. Another of the characteristics of infant industry is never to know when one has enough. Let it be hoped that American agriculture will be proud to prove that it has grown up, and will expand markets and absorb production rather than plans stifling production is a program to be recommended to all branches of industry, agriculture included.

EVERYONE has been so much interested in the Supreme Court that little attention has been paid to the remainder of the President's bill. Indeed, it has been generally assumed that the sections dealing with the lower Federal courts were acceptable, perhaps desirable. But, on the analysis, it soon appears that here, too, the same indirect and the effort to enlarge the President's personal power.

The bill were enacted now, the President would be assured the appointment of 44 Judges of the lower Federal courts over and above the 100 already in office. The President would appoint at once 10 Judges in the Circuit Court of Appeals and in the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia. He would appoint, also, 13 Judges of the district courts. It is interesting to examine the bill in which the bill distributes the appointments. Last October, the annual meeting of the 10 Circuit Judges, the problem of the judges in the courts was considered by the Judges, the Attorney General and the Solicitor-General. It was found that except in one circuit, the Ninth, the courts were not overworked. A committee was appointed to consider the request for more Judges in the Ninth Circuit.

Under the President's bill, no additional Judges can be appointed in the Ninth Circuit. The Judges there are not old enough. But there is an extra Judge in the First circuit, two in the Third and one in the Tenth. Yet the Judges and Roosevelt's own law officers agreed in October that no extra Judges were needed in those circuits.

In the District Courts, of which there are 85, the Judicial Conference found serious delays of over months in 18 districts. The President recommended four additional District Judges, one each in Georgia, Louisiana, Texas and Virginia.

Under the President's bill, 13 additional Judges will be appointed in the Ninth Circuit. According to the report of the committee of the Bar Association of New York City, all but one of these additional Judges will be appointed in districts other than where they are needed, and where they will be appointed, if I understand.

CHARLES E. ZELLE ESTATE ESTIMATED AT $1,000,000

Inventory Filed for Probate at Clayton Gives Only Nominal Value for Stocks.

The estate of Charles E. Zelle, real estate department manager for the International Shoe Co., who died March 31, was listed at $177,026 in inventory filed for probate at Clayton yesterday. But the estate was estimated to have a market value of $1,000,000, of which $600,000 was in International Shoe stock. However, in many cases, the value of a share was given for a share and 400 shares of International Shoe stock, which has a market value of $400, which have a value of $160,000. The estate was listed at $48,723, insurance policies, $13,920, notes, $17,000 and bonds and coupons, $22,500, and summing it really works both ways and solely on the tariff-raising side.

EVERYONE has been so much interested in the Supreme Court that little attention has been paid to the remainder of the President's bill. But, on the analysis, it soon appears that here, too, the same indirectness and the same effort to enlarge the President's personal power.

He would appoint at once Judges in the Circuit Court of Appeals and in the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, would appoint, also, 13 Judges in the district courts. During the remainder of Mr. Roosevelt's term, he would appoint 25 more Judges. The ingenious men who devised the plan had evidently studied the list of all the Judges. They fixed total number of appointments, adding those to the Supreme Court at 50 Judges. By a happy coincidence, it happens that there are just 50 Judges who would be the age of 70, before the end of Mr. Roosevelt's term.

"I LIVE HERE..."

for more than twenty-four hours with my cap off"

Yes, you can leave an opened bottle of Canada Dry's Sparkling Water in a refrigerator for more than twenty-four hours with the cap off and come back to find it still sparkling with life. That test, more than anything else, will show you why a highball mixed with Canada Dry's Sparkling Water will keep its fresh tang down to the last sip. Or, if you'd rather judge it as experts do, pour Canada Dry's Water into a champagne glass and notice its lively, continuous "Champagne" Sparkle. ARMY OF EX-GENERALS

'RULED' BY PRIVATE

Officers of Once-Proud Regiments Serve as Extras in Movie.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 27.—Soldiers snapped to attention whenever their presence was announced—Commanding armies, they could order one man or a regiment of men to their deaths and receive unswerving obedience.

In Hollywood the picture changes. These same men are now the ones who snap to attention—at the command of a leather-jungled and assistant director. They stand in line when they're told, they can't leave the set without asking permission, and they must keep quiet between scenes. They are the generals, the colonels, the commanders, the captains and lieutenants whose business has been ruined by peace or European revolution and who are working as Hollywood extras between wars. One can find many of them on the huge cathedral set of the coronation sequence for "The Prisoner of the Zenda" which is now in process of being filmed here.

There is Gen. Wacheslav Savitzky, commander of a White brigade during the Russian revolution. The fortunes of war dumped him in Hollywood, by way of St. Petersburg and China, and now he makes $10 a day (when he can get it) playing general, diplomat, or even a Russian peasant.

Standing beside Gen. Savitzky in the coronation scene is a Russian dressed in a military uniform, with head closely shaved for the part. He is Commander George Blagoy of the Imperial Russian Navy, now a Hollywood extra. Before the revolution, Commander Blagoy brought a visiting Russian warship into Los Angeles harbor and was met by the local dignitaries including the Mayor, in top hats and striped trousers and given the keys to the city. In the same group is Maj. Peter Seal, who headed a battalion on the wrong side during the Russian revolution.

Stand-in an Ex-General. The stand-in for C. Aubrey Smith, one of the featured players, is Gen. Reginald Napier Raikes, now retired. Gen. Raikes commanded a brigade on the Nigerian front during the World War and was previously Governor of a district embracing 10,000 square miles of African territory. He also serves who only stands and waits—that is the General's job at present. He stands before the lights and waits until they are lined up for the proper photographing of Smith. The General, being the same height, weight and general coloring, was hired to absorb the fatigue that would otherwise be Smith's if he had to spend long periods under the baking studio lights.

Also on "The Prisoner of Zenda" set is Capt. Richard Von Opel, late of the Austrian Imperial Army. In a way, Capt. Von Opel is still giving orders. He commands a private army of professional movie soldiers which he rents to producers for just such scenes as these. He maintains precise military discipline among his charges, and he in turn gets his order from Director John Cromwell.

Not all of the ex-military men are foreigners. Wearing a foreign uniform for the picture is Col. Starrett Ford, formerly commander of the Fourteenth Field Artillery at Fort Still, Ok.

The pictures have promoted George W. Jimenez. He is playing a general's part but before he entered the movie he was a lieutenant of the homicide squad of the New York police department. Previously he was Chief of Police of the Republic of Panama.

Prince Aids Colonel. Not in the extra ranks, but among the military men recruited for the movie is Col. Ivar Enghorn, late of the Swedish army, who, with Prince Sigvard Bernadotte of the Swedish royal family, is acting as technical director of the picture. Col. Enghorn raises avocados now, when there are no pictures to be given away from Europe. During the Russian revolution he led a regiment of Finnish artillery against the Reds. Between pictures, the colonel retires to his avocado estate, the location of which is known only to his closest friends.

The man in the film to whom obedience is paid by these generals, colonels, captains and lieutenants, is naturally the star of the picture, Ronald Colman, who portrays the King of the country. During the war, he was a private.

PULITZER PRIZE WINNER
REVELS IN MISNOMERS

"You Can't Take It With You" Thrives Anyway; to Be Filmed Next Year.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Regardless of the fact that "You Can't Take It With You," the Pulitzer prize play now in its sixth month at the Booth Theater in New York, is sold out for weeks in advance, a very large percentage of those desiring to buy tickets are still a little bemused as to its exact title. Somehow or other, about every fourth person who mentions the name gets it wrong.

"You Can't Get Away With It" seems to be the most popular misnomer. The runner-up is "Come and Take It," though "You Can't Happen Here" has a number of ardent devotees. Here are some other wrong titles listed by one of the box-office attendants as having been mentioned by prospective patrons: "You Can't Take It With Me," "You Can't Happen With Me," "You Can't Take It Away," "Take It Away With You."

Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, the authors of this slightly ludicrous whimsy, were at a loss themselves for a proper title when the play was finished. Mr. Kaufman came east with a completed manuscript which bore the banal inscription, "They Loved Each Other."

"It won't do, of course," he explained at the time, "but we had to call it something. We had a dandy title a few weeks ago, but Mrs. Kaufman threatened to call in a psychiatrist if we persisted in using it, so we let it drop. We wanted to call it 'Grandpa's Other Snake.' Of course, it didn't mean anything, but who cares?"

"You Can't Take It With You" was finally selected after a serious consideration of such alternative titles as "Moon Over Grandpa," "The Sycamore Tree," "What of It?" and "Not Worth the Candle."

Screen rights to the play were purchased last January by Columbia, after spirited bidding by several producers had pushed the price up near $200,000, said to be a record high. Filming has been deferred, however, since the purchase agreement stipulates that the movie version must not be released till 1938.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
EDIBLE PLACE CARDS MAKE THE PARTY

Birthday parties are nothing without place cards that are different. Here are some you can make yourself.

Flower Pots. Melt one-half pound sweetened dipping chocolate and blend with one-half pound of peanut butter. Fill eight tiny paper nut cups with this mixture to make the flower pots. Set in a cool place to harden. When almost firm stick small artificial flowers or small wired gum drop flowers in the center. When thoroughly chilled and firm tear away the paper molds. Names may be traced on the flower pots in the butter icing or the flower pots may be set on place cards.

To Loosen Screw. To remove screws, apply a little vinegar to the screw and in a few minutes it will loosen easily with the aid of a screw driver.

VEGETABLE TURNOVERS GOOD WAY TO SERVE THIS MUNCH NEEDED FOOD

Vegetable turnovers are a very good way to serve vegetables at any season of the year, but right now vegetables seem especially good fixed up a little in a fancy manner. It is an ideal way to use various leftover vegetables, because they can be mixed together and served in the turnovers.

If you can recall the Banbury tarts you used to take on picnics, you will be able to visualize the vegetable turnovers, because the vegetables are folded inside of baking powder biscuit dough in the same way that the filling was folded inside of rich pastry in the Banbury tarts.

In case there are no vegetables left over to use, the simplest way to start is with a can of mixed vegetables. Make tender baking powder biscuit dough, roll it out quite thin and cut it into rounds or squares. On each piece place about one-fourth to one-third cup of vegetables, sprinkle with salt and pepper and add half a teaspoon of butter. Wet the edges of the crust, fold over, and press tightly together. Pierce the top with a fork to allow the steam to escape. Arrange on a baking sheet and bake about 15 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees). The tops can be brushed with milk to give a glaze and a deeper brown.

Serve these turnovers with some kind of sauce, such as cheese tomato sauce, a cream cheese sauce, a Spanish sauce or a meat gravy. Tomato sauce and meat gravy come in cans.

Instead of using the mixed vegetables, try using corn, mushrooms and carrots, or the combination of cooked green beans with carrots and celery is good. You also may combine the vegetables with some Vienna sausage or deviled ham that comes prepared in cans. Salmon, tuna fish and minced clams are fish that taste good combined with vegetables and baked in turnovers.

The appearance of the turnover on the plate is attractive and the crusty crunch of the biscuit is a pleasing contrast to the vegetables and meat inside. Serve a mixed green salad with this, to which are added some canned grapefruit and pineapple.

SAUSAGE AND NOODLES Two pounds bulk sausage. One package medium egg noodles, or two cups homemade noodles. One small onion, finely diced. One cup tomatoes.

Salt. Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Pile into a greased casserole and mix with finely diced onion. Make sausage into patties and brown. Place on top of noodles. Pour tomatoes over all, cover and cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 20 minutes.

One-half cup honey
One and one-half cups evaporated milk

soaking. Then force through coarse sieve. Mix puree thoroughly with sugar and honey. Heat milk to boiling point, remove from stove and add gelatin which has been softened in cold water. Stir until dissolved. Set in refrigerator until milk thickens, then beat with rotary beater until light and fluffy. Beat apricot mixture into milk a small portion at a time. Pour into refrigerator tray and place in freezing unit until thoroughly chilled (one and a half to two hours). Does not need to be frozen.

CHEER UP APPETITES WITH TOMATOES

This Mineral and Vitamin Rich Food Makes Colorful Dishes.

The tomato season will soon be in full swing. Shipped tomatoes have been on the markets for the past months but the home-grown kinds will not arrive until late June and July. Meanwhile the cheerful red brightens our spring meals and does little tricks with the lazy appetite.

The tomato, which originated in Peru, according to first historical mention, was first thought poisonous and was grown for ornamental purposes. It is said that an Italian painter immigrated to America and started his friends and neighbors by serving tomatoes thus adding another item rich in minerals and vitamins to our food list. Here are some new and interesting ways of serving the once taboo "love-apple."

Stuffed Tomatoes.
Chill and peel tomatoes, hollow out and use the pulp chopped finely and mixed with cream or cottage cheese, seasoned with a little pepper and salt, for filling. Garnish on top with olive slices and pimentos. Serve very cold.

Tomato Jelly Salad.
Three tablespoons gelatin
One-half cup cold water
One quart tomatoes, canned or fresh
Two or three slices onion
One and one-half teaspoons salt
One teaspoon sugar
One tablespoon green pepper (chopped)
Two tablespoons celery (chopped)
One tablespoon parsley (chopped)
One cup cabbage, shredded
Soak in gelatin in the cold water for five minutes. Boil the tomatoes and onion for five minutes, strain through a fine sieve, pour the hot tomato juice over the softened gelatin, and stir until it is dissolved. Add the salt and sugar and chill. When the gelatin mixture is partly set, add the finely chopped vegetables, and mix well. Add more salt if needed. If the mixture is not tart enough, add a little lemon juice or vinegar. Pour into wet custard cups and place in a cold place until set, turn out on crisp lettuce leaves, and serve with salad dressing.

Scalloped Tomatoes.
Place a thick layer of freshly made breadcrumbs on bottom of baking dish and cover with a layer of breadcrumbs and sliced tomato, and sprinkle top with grated cheese and melted butter, and bake in a medium hot oven for three-fourths hour or until done.

Tomato Gumbo.
Braise the following in a covered saucepan for several minutes, with butter: One stalk celery, one small onion and one small green pepper, all cut into small squares. Add three tablespoons rice and saute for another two minutes, stirring slowly. Then add eight cups of water or meatstock and three okra, cut into small pieces, and cook for 15 minutes; next add one pound peeled and cut up tomatoes, cooking for an additional 10 minutes, and season to taste. Six servings.

Fried Green Tomatoes.
The tomatoes may be put to the white stage before ripening or have partly turned red. Remove the hard portion at the stem end. Cut into slices one-fourth inch or a little less in thickness. Season with salt and pepper if desired. Roll each slice in flour or cornmeal and fry in enough hot fat to cover the bottom of a skillet. When brown on one side turn and let brown on the other. Ladle substitute or meat "drippings" may be used as the fat. If the tomatoes are in the "turning ripe" stage they will hold their shape better during cooking if they are dipped in egg which has been beaten and diluted with water (two tablespoons of water to one egg) before coating with the flour or meal.

JELLIED CRABMEAT COCKTAIL.
Two teaspoons unflavored gelatin.
One egg white, beaten stiff.
One-half cup mayonnaise.
One-fourth cup tomato catsup.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.
One cup flaked crabmeat.
One egg white, beaten stiff.
Soak the gelatin in the cold water, then melt over hot water. Mix with mayonnaise, catsup, lemon juice, salt, and Worcestershire sauce. Add the flaked fish, then fold in the beaten egg white. Let set in a cold place. Cut into cubes and serve in lettuce cups in cocktail glasses. Serves six.

NORWEGIAN CROWNS
One-half cup butter.
Two hard-cooked egg yolks.
One-fourth cup sugar.
One cup sifted flour.
One-fourth teaspoon almond extract.
Cream butter thoroughly; put egg yolks through sieve and add to creamed butter; mix thoroughly. Gradually add sugar and continue creaming until well blended. Add sifted flour and mix well. Force dough through cookie press, using Norwegian Crown plate. Place on aluminum cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) for 10 minutes.

SALADS AND DESSERTS GIVE PARTY SPIRIT

Food Must Carry the Tone Set by Table Decorations but Must Be Substantial.

Parties know no season! From the buffet suppers of mid-winter to the picnics of June, each type of party has its own special charms, and its own particularly appropriate refreshments.

But few parties are more fun to plan, or more decorative to behold than the spring party. Table linens as well as garden blossoms so gaily that the foodstuffs which go on the table must carry the same light-hearted tone. But they have a much more weighty duty to perform at the same time. Though they look delicate, they must be worthy of satisfying the inner man completely.

Such a party refreshment—at its gayest and most substantial best—is the salmon salad mould. Here's a recipe which has a sense of humor, moulded in lifelike leaping fish guise.

Salmon Salad Mould.
One table on top of cold water.
One-quarter cup cold water.
Two and one-half tablespoons lemon juice.
One cup flaked salmon (one small can).
One-half cup mayonnaise.
One-half cup chopped celery.
Two tablespoons chopped green pepper.
One-half teaspoon chopped onion.
Salt, pepper.
Stuffed olive.
Watercress.

Salad Dressing.
Soften the gelatin in cold water; dissolve over hot water. When cool, add it to the lemon juice, salmon mayonnaise, chopped vegetables and seasonings to taste. Pour into a fish mould and chill until firm. In mould, place a slice of stuffed olive on it to represent the eye, and garnish the platter with watercress. Serve with salad dressing.

A good salad warrants a good dessert. Here are two from which you may choose.
Peanut Butter Ice Cream.
Soak two tablespoons plain gelatin in half a cup of cold water for five minutes. Heat two cups of milk, one cup sugar and one cup dark syrup until they come to the boiling point. Four over the gelatin and set aside to cool. Add six cups thin cream (one and one-half quarts) and two-thirds cup peanut butter. Blend thoroughly. Turn into a freezer and freeze.

Frozen Crumb Cake.
Two cups cake crumbs.
One egg white.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One-quarter cup finely chopped nuts.
One-quarter cup finely chopped canned fruit.
Dash salt.
Beat egg white until stiff, add sugar to make a meringue. Whip the cream until barely thick and add egg whites with the crumbed cake, fruit and nuts. Fold all together and freeze in narrow freezing tray. Freeze without stirring. Serves four to six.

To Tenderize Meat.
A rather tough piece of meat may be tenderized by marinating it overnight in tomato juice. Four enough tomato juice over the meat to cover. The next day drain off the tomato juice, brown the meat, add the tomato juice, cover tightly, and bake about 1 1/2 to 3 hours, depending upon the thickness of the meat.

So Good!
... so easy to use

HOME-OWNED MARKETS

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT Publication (Consumer's Guide) SAYS:
"UNITED STATES INSPECTION MARKS ON MEATS SIGNIFY NOTHING CONCERNING THE TENDERNESS OR FLAVOR OF THE MEAT!"

You're Right! UNCLE SAM!
BUT, AT A JIM REMLEY MARKET YOU CAN TELL ABOUT THE TENDERNESS AND FLAVOR OF MEATS BECAUSE, WE HAVE ONLY THE BEST.

A meal is only as good as the meat that is served. For that reason I feature only meats that are good enough to grace ANY MAN'S TABLE.

Note: On page 14 of the "Consumer's Guide" published recently by the United States Government appears the following statement:—
"The approved stamps and other marks of inspection to show that the article has been United States Inspected and Passed are a guarantee of wholesomeness. They signify nothing concerning the tenderness or flavor of the meat."

Cooked noodles
Grated cheese, if desired
Cook onion in the fat until yellow. Add the chicken, paprika, sugar and water to barely cover. Cover tightly and let simmer until tender. Add one teaspoon salt when done. Blend flour with cream and stir into the chicken. Stir until thickened and then simmer about 15 minutes longer. Taste and add more seasoning, if desired. Serve with noodles cooked in salted water. Grated cheese may be sprinkled over the noodles. Or stir the cheese into the hot, drained noodles and heat just long enough to partially melt the cheese. The quantities of seasoning are sufficient for one small chicken.

Orange Sponge Squares.
One cup sifted flour
One tablespoon baking powder
One-eighth teaspoon salt
Three eggs
One cup sugar
Two tablespoons lemon juice
Six tablespoons hot milk
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Beat eggs until very thick and light and nearly white (10 minutes). Add sugar gradually, beating constantly. Add lemon juice. Fold in flour, a small amount at a time. Add milk, mixing quickly until batter is smooth. Bake in two lightly greased 8x8x2-inch pans in moderate oven (350 degrees) 25 minutes, or until done. Cut in squares and serve with fresh berry topping, raspberry jam topping, or apricot topping.

Raisin Salad Medley.
One-half cup seedless raisins.
One cup diced canned peaches.
One cup diced pineapple.
One-half cup finely cut green sweet pepper.
One-half cup sliced celery.
Lettuce.
Dressing.
Three-ounce package cream cheese.
One-third cup mayonnaise.
Two tablespoons pineapple juice.
Few drops Tabasco sauce.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon paprika.
Rinse raisins in hot water; drain and cool. Combine with peaches, pineapple, green pepper and celery, and blend. Chill. Dressing: Combine all ingredients and blend. Arrange salad on lettuce garnished salad plates and top with dressing just before serving. Serves six.

Creamed Green Beans With Mashed Potato Border.
One and one-half pounds green beans.
Four tablespoons butter.
Four tablespoons flour.
One-half cup bean liquor.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Few grains pepper.
Mashed potatoes.
Two cups milk.
Wash and string beans and cut or break into short pieces. Cook uncovered in boiling salted water until tender. Melt the butter in a double boiler, add the flour and mix well. Add the milk and bean liquor gradually and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Add salt, pepper and the drained beans. Pour into a shallow baking dish and garnish with a border of fluffy mashed potatoes. Brown lightly under the broiler. Serves six.

Spanish Lima Beans.
One No. 2 can Lima beans or two cups cooked Limas.
One five-ounce jar dried beef.
Two tablespoons butter.
Grated American cheese.
Heat Lima beans in skillet to evaporate juices. Place on baking platter. Top with dried beef which has been fried in butter. Sprinkle with grated cheese and brown in oven. Time for making, 15 minutes. Temperature for making, 350 degrees. Amount, serve six.

Salmon and Macaroni au Gratin.
One cup macaroni.
One No. 1 can salmon.
Two and one-half cups medium white sauce.
One-half cup cheese, grated.
One-half cup buttered cracker crumbs.
Cook macaroni in boiling salted water. Place layer of salmon in buttered baking dish. Add one-third of white sauce in which cheese is melted. Add cooked and drained macaroni and more sauce. Add remaining salmon and sauce. Top with crumbs and bake. Time for baking, 375 degrees. Amount, serves six.

RECIPES TO END CONSTIPATION

Every woman can protect her family from common constipation by careful menu planning. Often the cause of illness from constipation is lack of "bulk" in the diet. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies this "bulk" in generous quantity. You can use ALL-BRAN in so many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with a milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Or make delicious bran muffins and breads—put it into griddle cakes, salads or soups, or over other cereals. Just be sure each member of your family gets two tablespoonsfuls every day—and forget the illness caused by constipation. Serve three times daily, in severe cases. You can also forget pills and drugs that nobody likes to take—and that so often fail unless the dose is constantly increased. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B to help tone the intestines, and iron for the blood. Sold by all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Fine Strawberry Crop Is Promised Housewives

Local Berries Should Be on Market This Week With Shipped Crop Continuing Until July.

Strawberries are having their inning this year. Boxes of the bright red berries in their green caps now line the market shelves and grace the counters of the street vendors. And prospects are fine for their continuing to be available throughout much of the country up to July. So the person who is fond of this fruit should be able to eat it this year to his heart's content.

Florida began the season by raising about 20 per cent more strawberries than last year. Louisiana followed a bit tardily because of frosts but rallied to the tune of 500 to 800 cars of berries a week — which brought that State's total up a shade above normal.

With the advent of May came strawberries from Alabama, California, Arizona, and then North Carolina. And now as the crop from those States is tapering off come berries from Arkansas, Tennessee and Virginia, though Arkansas is figuring as prominently in the strawberry picture as she usually does.

And here's advice for the woman who wants to put up some strawberry preserves and jam. The time to buy for such purposes is when picking in the nearest strawberry area is the heaviest.

As the season in any given section opens, inevitably quite a few green berries are picked. And as the crop dwindles, boxes will have some that are overripe, the tail-end of the supply. Eat the berries raw during these two periods.

Peak of Season.

Then watch for prices of local berries to come down. When the supply is heaviest they often sag to between $2 and $2.50 for a 24-quart crate. If your State isn't a strawberry State, watch the shipping ments from the nearest producing areas. Prices for you, of course, probably won't get quite so low.

The Eastern and Mid-Western trade will be ushered in the last of this month, maybe earlier if weather is warm enough and the rains are encouraging. The states which come to the shipping front then will be Maryland, Delaware, Kentucky, New Jersey, Missouri and Southern Indiana and Illinois. For the late supplies, in June and early July, we must look to the Western and North Central states; Oregon and Washington, New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, and Ohio. The West coast states grow enough for themselves right along, beginning almost as soon as the Florida shipping season does and continuing through July.

After mid-July all any section will get will be fruit from local patches of ever-bearing plants, berries picked for a more or less select trade and selling at fairly high prices. Such strawberries are now grown from coast to coast, mostly near metropolitan centers, and can be found on the market straight through into October.

How to Wash Berries.

In washing strawberries don't let the water from the faucet play on them. They are too tender to stand such treatment. Instead, put them into a bowl of water and then lift them out of the water with fingers somewhat apart to act as a strainer. The sand and soil on the berries will settle to the bottom of the container. For that reason don't pour the water off the berries. Unless they are quite dirty, two such rinses are usually sufficient.

Put them into a colander or some such utensil to drain. Then remove the caps. It's true that particles of dirt lodge underneath the cap, clinging more persistently than they do elsewhere. But it's better to rinse an extra time than to remove the cap first.

Above all things, don't let strawberries stand in water to lose color and flavor. If you want to sweeten the berries before serving them, cut them in halves, or chop rather than crush them so as to keep them as attractive as possible.

Americans need few suggestions as to ways of serving strawberries. This fruit has so long been a favorite that each family has its own pet dishes. For breakfast there may be a ring of the freshly washed, uncapped berries around a little cone of powdered sugar. Or the berries may grace the morning dish of cereal. For lunch perhaps they are in a fruit salad with bananas or fresh pineapple. For desserts—in gelatin, ice creams, ices, Bavarian cream, custard, or folded into whipped cream, or sweetened and used for a cake sauce. Just plain strawberries and cream are most satisfying to some people.

Strawberry short cake is a perennial favorite, of course. Another delicious pastry is fresh strawberry pie or tarts—a flaky crust filled with large, selected uncooked berries, and a clear strawberry sauce poured over them. To make the sauce, cook up small berries and strain them through cheese cloth. Sweeten, then thicken the juice slightly with corn starch, not flour. Flour would make it cloudy. Add some butter to give a brilliant, glazed look to the sauce, and a pinch of salt. Then there's strawberry chiffon pie!

The season's surplus can be used for preserves and jam, the finest berries for preserves, the smaller for jam.

Best Preserving Results.

Heat is the arch enemy of color and flavor in strawberries; so preserving methods use the minimum of cooking. The Bureau of Home Economics suggests three different processes. For all methods eight pounds of prepared fruit at a time is about the maximum for best results.

Proceeding according to Method 1 you would use a pound of sugar for each pound of the berries, and combine the two in alternate layers.

then let them stand 8 to 10 hours before cooking. No water should be added, as the sugar draws enough liquid out of the fruit. As soon as they are ready boil them rapidly 15 or 20 minutes or until the syrup is rather thick. You'll need to stir it occasionally but carefully so as not to break the berries.

Method 2 utilizes small berries for juice to pour over the choice fruit. Crush these small berries and cook them about three minutes, stirring constantly. Strain. For each pound of the big berries take one-fourth cup of this juice and one pound of sugar. Heat the sugar and the juice slowly until the sugar dissolves, then drop the large berries into the syrup and simmer 3 to 5 minutes. Then boil rapidly 10 to 15 minutes or until the fruit is somewhat clear. Remove the scum and let the preserves stand over night in the kettle. The next morning fill hot sterilized jars three-fourths full of the drained berries, without re-heating them. Then pour the syrup rapidly until it is fairly thick, pour over the berries, and seal.

Method 3, sun preserving, can't be satisfactorily used unless the sunshine is hot enough to cause rapid evaporation. For each pound of choice berries take one pound of sugar and one teaspoon lemon juice. Prepare a strawberry syrup from smaller fruits and sugar as in Method 2, add the berries and simmer three to five minutes. Then drain off the syrup and put the berries on shallow enameled pans or china platters. Boil the syrup 10 minutes, until it is fairly thick, remove the scum, add the lemon juice, and pour the syrup over the berries. Cover with a window glass propped up one-fourth inch from the plate. Sun for two or three days, until the syrup has jelled, turning the berries over every day. Without re-heating, put the preserves into hot sterilized jars, and seal.

For jams, strawberry and rhubarb make a fine combination, using equal weights of the two. Strawberry and fresh pineapple together also make a delicious jam, with half as much pineapple as strawberries. The pineapple should be boiled 10 minutes with an equal weight of sugar, before the strawberries and their quota of sugar are added.

The dietitian is interested in the strawberry chiefly as a source of vitamin C. It ranks along with the citrus fruits—among the important sources of this essential vitamin.

Soup Stock.

Save the water in which fresh vegetables are boiled. It makes excellent stock for soup.

ARE FIT FOR A KING

Raspberry, Strawberry and Pineapple Jellies in Paper-Crowned Glasses for Winter

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" is an ancient superstition that never yet applied to the firm halo of paraffin that must adorn each glass of perfect jelly. And in thear of gala doings and regal splendor, the smartest shortages of them all wear a frilly paper bonnet to top the paraffin... a crown held in place as snugly as can be by that utilitarian gem, a rubber band!

All jelly is not worthy of a coronation—for perfect jelly only may be admitted to the royal family of the pantry shelf. It's modern, short-boil recipes like these that, followed exactly, crown your cooking efforts with success:

Red Raspberry Jelly.
Three and one-half cups (1½ lbs.)
juice
Four and one-half cups (two lbs.)
sugar
One box powdered fruit pectin.
To prepare juice, grind or crush thoroughly about 2½ quarts fully ripe berries. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice.
(If there is a slight shortage of juice, add a small amount of water to pulp in jelly cloth and squeeze again).

Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure juice into a three to four quart saucepan and place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil.
At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard one-half minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 8 glasses (six fluid ounces each).

Blackberry and Sour Cherry Jelly.
Four cups (two pounds) juice
Seven cups (three pounds) sugar
One bottle fruit pectin.
To prepare juice, stem (do not pit) and crush about two pounds fully ripe cherries. Add one-fourth cup water, bring to a boil, cover and simmer 10 minutes. Crush thoroughly or grind about one and one-half quarts fully ripe blackberries. Combine fruit, place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice.
Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire.
Boil hard four minutes, stirring constantly. Add bottled fruit pec-tin; then bring again to a full rolling boil and boil hard one-half minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once.
Makes about 11 glasses (six fluid ounces each).

Strawberry Jelly.
Five cups (2½ pounds) juice.
Seven cups (3 pounds) sugar.
Two boxes powdered fruit pectin.
To prepare juice, crush thoroughly or grind about three and one-half quarts fully ripe berries. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. (If there is a slight shortage of juice, add small amount of water to pulp in jelly cloth and squeeze again.)
Measure sugar into dry dish and
set aside until needed. Measure juice into a five to six-quart saucepan and place over hottest fire.
Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard one-half minute. Remove from fire,
skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 12 glasses (six fluid ounces each).

Ripe Pineapple Jelly.
Three cups (1½ pounds) juice.
Six and one-half cups (2½ pounds) sugar.
One box fruit pectin.
To prepare juice, pare two medium, fully ripe pineapples. Chop very fine or grind. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice.
Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard one-half minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about nine glasses (six fluid ounces each).

Rhubarb and Strawberry Jam.
Three cups (1½ pounds) prepared fruit.
Four and one-half cups (2 pounds) sugar.
Two boxes powdered fruit pec-tin.
To prepare fruit, trim and slice fine (do not peel) about one-half pound small red-stalked rhubarb.
Grind about one quart fully ripe strawberries, or crush completely one layer at a time so that each berry is reduced to a pulp. Combine fruits.
Measure sugar into dry dish and
set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a five-to-six-quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary; place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, one-fourth teaspoon butter may be added). Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard one minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly.
Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about seven glasses (six fluid ounces each).

Sardine Snaps.
Combine four hard cooked egg yolks minced fine with one can of mashed sardines. Add one tablespoon lemon juice, two tablespoons mayonnaise and one tablespoon garlic-flavored French dressing.
Spread on crackers or thin-cut strips of buttered toast or bread.

SANDWICHES MEET ALL PICNIC REQUIREMENTS

Meat Filling and Salad Provide Substantial Main Course for Outing.

Warm spring weather entices us to the open road at every opportunity. And since Memorial day this year comes on a week-end, it offers a splendid opportunity for that jaunt to the country and the picnic at your favorite spot beside the lake or stream.

The picnic lunch is not hard to prepare, but it does require a little planning, in order to have foods which ride well and at the same time are satisfying to hearty appetites. Sandwiches are the first thought because they meet both requirements, and so, it is a wise idea to have a number of different sandwich fillings in mind, so that you will have a choice for the picnic on Memorial day, and thereafter, regardless of how many nice warm days there are when the picnic is the "thing."

Meat sandwiches are delicious and satisfying, and there is almost no limit to the number of meat combinations for hearty sandwiches. Any kind of cold cooked meat may be used. If there happens to be left-over pot-roast, baked ham, roast beef, veal, pork, or lamb in your refrigerator, use it by all means.

Ham and Chopped Beef Sandwich. Mix equal parts of chopped boiled ham, chipped dried beef, and sweet pickles. Combine with enough mayonnaise to moisten, but not enough to soak the bread.

Spread between slices of buttered bread.
Pork and Nut Sandwich. One and one-half pounds lean pork.
One-half cup nuts, chopped.
One-half cup celery, chopped.
One-half cup sweet pickle, chopped.
Salad dressing to moisten.
Let pork simmer in hot water until tender. Grind it or chop it very fine. When cool, add nuts, celery and pickles. Add enough salad dressing to slightly moisten. Spread on slices of buttered bread.

Chef's Salad Bowl.
One quart potatoes.
One Spanish onion, chopped.
One-half to three-fourths cup sliced cold cooked ham.
One-eighth teaspoon paprika.
One teaspoon salt.
Three teaspoons lemon juice.
One cup mayonnaise.
Three hard-cooked eggs.
Pickles.

Boil potatoes until done, but not too soft. Cube them when cool. Toss gently together with salad fork and spoon; potatoes, onion, sliced ham, paprika, salt and lemon juice with real mayonnaise. More real mayonnaise may be added if you desire. Place in refrigerator to absorb some of the real mayonnaise and to become chilled. Arrange on crisp salad greens in salad bowl. Garnish with slices of hard-cooked eggs and pickles.

Deviled Ham and Egg Sandwiches. Three-fourths cup chopped cooked ham.
Four tablespoons mayonnaise.
One and one-third tablespoons prepared mustard with horseradish.
Four chopped hard-cooked eggs.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
Bread.
Cream the ham, real mayonnaise and prepared mustard with horseradish together. Lastly add eggs and salt. Make the mixture of the desired consistency to spread. Makes one and one-half cups filling.

Use a layer of filling between slices of bread. Makes eight whole sandwiches.

Creole Sandwiches.
Four tablespoons mayonnaise.
One-half teaspoon finely minced onion.
One-half cup finely flaked canned shrimp.
One teaspoon lemon juice.
One-half teaspoon prepared mustard with horseradish.
Two tablespoons finely chopped stone green olives.
Bread.
Cream together real mayonnaise, onion, shrimp, lemon juice, prepared mustard with horseradish and olives. Salt may be added if needed. Makes three-fourths cup filling. Use a layer of filling between slices of bread. Makes four whole sandwiches.

RASPBERRY CREAM PIE
Two tablespoons flour.
One tablespoonful cornstarch.
One-half teaspoonful salt.
Two cupfuls milk.
Three-fourths cupful sugar.
One-half tablespoonful butter.
Three cupfuls raspberries.
Mix flour, cornstarch and salt with a little of the cold milk. Add sugar and remaining milk. Cook in top of double boiler until thick. Add the butter. When mixture is quite cold, stir in the raspberries. Put in baked pastry shell and cover with whipped cream, if desired.

Distinctive Flavor.
A touch of pineapple juice adds a distinctive flavor to apple pie.

HITS THE SPOT ON HAMBURGER
A-1 SAUCE

Stuffed Tomatoes.
Six fresh tomatoes, two cups finely shredded cabbage, three tablespoons vinegar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one finely chopped green pepper, one-half cup mayonnaise, dash of paprika, dash of pepper.
Cut off thin slice from stem end of each tomato and remove pulp. Salt inside, invert and chill 30 minutes. Crisp cabbage by allowing it to stand in ice water. Drain and dry. Add vinegar and seasoning 10 minutes, before serving. Drain again. Toss lightly together with green pepper, cubed pulp of tomatoes and mayonnaise. Pile lightly into tomato cups. Garnish with green pepper rings. Serve on crisp lettuce. Serves six.

HE DIDN'T SAY A WORD BUT WE BOTH KNEW MY PARTY WAS A FAILURE

I wanted so much to do something nice for Bob—so I invited all the boys over for a stag party one night. I worked all afternoon fixing fancy little sandwiches for them.

I was so proud of my refreshments—but the only thing they seemed to like was the coffee. They just nibbled and dabbled. They were very polite about it, but I could have cried. I'd tried so hard.

"No use kidding myself," I said to Bob the next morning. "My party was a fizzle...but why?" He grinned and said: "Well, maybe one of the reasons it wasn't a wow was those sandwiches—too fancy and the bread wasn't the usual kind."

PROVE IT YOURSELF... by the world's easiest bread test PUT BOND BREAD AND ANY OTHER BREAD ON THE SAME PLATE, SERVE AT MEAL TIME AND SEE WHICH DISAPPEARS FIRST!

"BOND TASTES SO GOOD EVERYTHING IT'S MADE WITH MUST BE GOOD"
SAYS Emmett E. Williams
Mr. Williams lives at 3204 Dodder Street. He's been eating Bond Bread for more than ten years and says that the longer he eats it the better he likes it.

BOND is the kind of bread men prefer...substantial, full of flavor. And women like Bond, too...they feel safe when they buy it. They know Bond Bakers print Bond's complete list of ingredients right on the wrapper of every loaf. No substitutes are ever used in Bond Bread. Only prime, first-class ingredients. These, plus extra-careful baking, are why Bond tastes so good—why it has a genuinely rich, home-like flavor.

The easy taste-test described above will convince you of Bond's superiority. If you desire additional proof, compare Bond toast with any other. Next time say "Bond" instead of just "bread" to your food store man.

SAUCES GOOD DISGUISE FOR FAMILIAR DISHES

Vegetables, Meats and Desserts
Lose Prosaic Quality Served
With Proper Sauce.

Vegetables, reheated meats and even desserts have a way of going prosaic when they are served too often in the same way. American cooks have never taken very kindly to sauces. Perhaps foreigners are right when they say that we do not take enough time with our food preparation. A French cook will spend half a morning on one dish
which will be a simple watercresspepper. Where the American cook will put together a sauce in 10 minutes, a French cook will require at least half an hour, turning out over very slow heat a sauce that is a miracle of smoothness, seasoning as she goes along.

While we do not advocate spending all one's time in the kitchen,
we do advocate the use of sauces
occasionally for dishes that are in danger of being worn threadbare.

Orange Sauce.
(With Asparagus and Beets.)
Two egg yolks, beaten.
Two tablespoons butter.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon paprika.
One-third cup orange juice.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
Grated rind one orange.

Cook egg yolks, butter and seasonings over a hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens.
Add fruit juices and rind. Mix well and serve over hot asparagus or boiled and baked beets.

Cheese Sauce.
Three tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One and one-half cups milk.
One-third pound American cheese, grated or diced.

Melt butter, blend in flour and salt, and add milk, gradually stirring vigorously. Cook directly over heat, stirring constantly, until sauce boils, then lower heat and simmer for five minutes or place

over boiling water. Remove from burner, add cheese, and heat until cheese is melted. Reheat until warm enough to serve. Serve with green beans, broccoli, asparagus,
cauliflower, broiled tomatoes.

Chutney Sauce.
One-half cup sugar.
Four tablespoons chutney.
Four tablespoons water.
Put all ingredients into a saucepan and heat to the boiling point for about two minutes. Serve on sliced ham.

Almond Sauce.
One-fourth pound almonds,
blanched and chopped.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
One teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One pint thin cream.

Melt the butter in a saucepan
and brown the almonds, then add
the flour and seasoning and stir
in the cream slowly. Heat to boiling point. Serve on sliced chicken.

Drawn Butter Sauce.
Six tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
One and one-half cups hot water
or fish stock.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One teaspoon lemon juice.

Melt half the butter and add the flour with the seasoning. Pour hot water on gradually and boil for five minutes and add remaining butter.
Serve as a sauce for fish. One-half cleansed shrimp may be added while the sauce is heating.

Fruit Syrup Sauce.
Four tablespoons sugar.
One-half teaspoon flour.
One-half cup fruit syrup drained
from fruit.
One egg yolk.
One-half teaspoon lemon juice.

Mix together in a saucepan the sugar, flour and fruit syrup. Simmer for 10 minutes. Mix egg yolk with the lemon juice, stir in fruit juice. Return to saucepan and cook for one minute. This is a good dessert sauce.

Vanilla Sauce.
One cup sugar, one tablespoon flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one cup boiling water, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon vanilla. Blend the sugar, flour and salt. Add the boiling water and stir until smooth.
Boil three minutes. Add the but-

WELL FILLED COOKIE JAR HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY

Make Them Up in Quantity and Store Well to Insure Freshness.

This time of year a well-filled cookie jar is practically a household necessity, what with the children dashing in simply ravenous after their outdoor romping, impromptu picnics at the office and all. Homemade cookies just about hit the spot, and incidentally save mother interrupting her busy schedule to prepare something special.

Of course cookie-making can be pretty bothersome but cookies can be made up in quantity and kept fresh until the last one is eaten.
Currants and raisins need not dry out either or get hard.

Bishops' Delight.
One cup seeded raisins, chopped.
One and one-fourth cups flour
One teaspoon baking powder
Two eggs.
One cup sugar.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.
Two teaspoons glycerine.

Rub raisins with one teaspoon of glycerine and chop; then mix with chopped raisins with remaining teaspoon glycerine. Chop almonds and mix with raisins. Sift flour and baking powder together. Add fruit and nuts. Beat eggs until thick and light-colored; add sugar gradually. Add salt and cinnamon. Add egg mixture to fruit and flour.
Bake in greased pan, lined with waxed paper in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 25 minutes. Cool on wire racks before removing from pan. Make into squares.

Boston Cookies.
One cup shortening.
One and one-half cups sugar.
Three eggs.
One teaspoon soda.
One and one-half tablespoon hot water.
Three and one-fourth cups flour.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
One cup chopped nut meats.
One-half cup currants.
One-half cup raisins, chopped.
Cream shortening and add sugar gradually. Beat until mixture is creamed well. Sift flour with salt and cinnamon. Dissolve soda in hot water and add to creamed mixture. Add sifted dry ingredients, currants, raisins and nuts to mixture. Drop by spoonful one inch apart on cookie sheet well greased.
Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 15 minutes or until done.

Butterscotch Crisps.
One-half cup butter.
One cup brown sugar.
One egg.
Two cups flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-half cup walnuts.
Two tablespoons glycerine.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.
Cream butter and sugar and add egg and beat thoroughly. Sift flour, measure and re-sift with baking powder and salt, and add to first mixture. Rub walnuts with glycerine and add to cookie mixture with vanilla. Turn onto slightly floured board and shape into a roll two inches in diameter.
Chill over night. To bake: Slice in one-eighth inch slices, place on cookie sheet which has been rubbed with glycerine and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for eight to 10 minutes.

Southern Cookies.
One-third cup shortening.
Two-thirds cup sugar.
One egg, well beaten.
One-fourth teaspoon baking soda.
One and two-thirds cup sifted flour.
One teaspoon baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-third cup thick sour cream.
Bake in greased pan, lined with
waxed paper in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 15 minutes or until done.

Vegetables, Meats and Desserts
Lose Prosaic Quality Served
With Proper Sauce.

Vegetables, reheated meats and
even desserts have a way of going prosaic when they are served too
often in the same way. American cooks have never taken very kindly
to sauces. Perhaps foreigners are right when they say that we do not take enough time with our food preparation. A French cook will spend half a morning on one dish
which will be a simple watercresspepper. Where the American cook will put together a sauce in 10 minutes, a French cook will require at least half an hour, turning out over very slow heat a sauce that is a miracle
of smoothness, seasoning as she goes along.

While we do not advocate spending all one's time in the kitchen,
we do advocate the use of sauces
occasionally for dishes that are in danger of being worn threadbare.

Orange Sauce.
(With Asparagus and Beets.)
Two egg yolks, beaten.
Two tablespoons butter.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon paprika.
One-third cup orange juice.
One tablespoon lemon juice.
Grated rind one orange.

Cook egg yolks, butter and seasonings over a hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens.
Add fruit juices and rind. Mix well
and serve over hot asparagus or boiled and baked beets.

Cheese Sauce.
Three tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One and one-half cups milk.
One-third pound American cheese,
grated or diced.

Melt butter, blend in flour and
salt, and add milk, gradually stirring vigorously. Cook directly over heat, stirring constantly, until sauce boils, then lower heat and
simmer for five minutes or place

over boiling water. Remove from burner, add cheese, and heat until cheese is melted. Reheat until warm enough to serve. Serve with green beans, broccoli, asparagus,
cauliflower, broiled tomatoes.

Chutney Sauce.
One-half cup sugar.
Four tablespoons chutney.
Four tablespoons water.
Put all ingredients into a sauce-
pan and heat to the boiling point
for about two minutes. Serve on sliced ham.

Almond Sauce.
One-fourth pound almonds,
blanched and chopped.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.
One teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One pint thin cream.

Melt the butter in a saucepan
and brown the almonds, then add
the flour and seasoning and stir
in the cream slowly. Heat to boiling point. Serve on sliced chicken.

Drawn Butter Sauce.
Six tablespoons butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
One and one-half cups hot water
or fish stock.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
One teaspoon lemon juice.

Melt half the butter and add the flour with the seasoning. Pour hot water on gradually and boil for five minutes and add remaining butter.
Serve as a sauce for fish. One-half cleansed shrimp may be added while
the sauce is heating.

Fruit Syrup Sauce.
Four tablespoons sugar.
One-half teaspoon flour.
One-half cup fruit syrup drained
from fruit.
One egg yolk.
One-half teaspoon lemon juice.

Mix together in a saucepan the sugar, flour and fruit syrup. Simmer for 10 minutes. Mix egg yolk
with the lemon juice, stir in fruit
juice. Return to saucepan and cook
for one minute. This is a good dessert sauce.

Vanilla Sauce.
One cup sugar, one tablespoon
flour, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one
cup boiling water, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon vanilla. Blend
the sugar, flour and salt. Add the boiling water and stir until smooth.

Hauptmann Lawyer Prosecutor.
FLEMINGTON, N. J., May 27.—C. Lloyd Fisher, the chief legal defender of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, next week will become Prosecuting Attorney for Hunterdon County, where Hauptmann was tried and sentenced to die. Fisher, 38 years old, laughed at reports his appointment heralded a reopening of the case. A special act of the Legislature enabled Gov. Hoffman to appoint Fisher by exempting counties such as Hunterdon from the requirement that the Prosecutor must be a counselor—one who has passed a special legal examination.

WOMEN'S WAGE BILL SHELVED IN SENATE

Sent Back to Committee So Unnamed St. Louisian May Be Heard on It.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 27.—The women's minimum wage bill, reported favorably for passage yesterday by the Senate Committee on Retrenchment and Reform, encountered further legislative manipulation as soon as it reached the floor of the Senate, and is again buried in the committee, from which it is not likely to emerge again in time for consideration on the floor, if at all.

The bill, which is opposed by lobbyists representing employers of women, has been met by all the legislative tricks since it reached the Senate committee more than a month ago and has been prevented from coming to a vote.

Although it had been considered dead in the committee, Senator Paul C. Jones of Kennett, the chairman, forced action on it Tuesday night, and it went to the Senate late yesterday.

Sent Back to Committee.

Immediately, Senator Briggs of Macon asked that it be referred to the committee, saying that an unnamed friend in St. Louis had asked that he be heard on it. The bill had been in the committee a month without a request from its opponents for a hearing.

Chairman Jones suggested that if the bill was to go back to a committee it should go to the Committee on Labor, the proper place for it originally, but Lieutenant-Governor Harris ruled that on Briggs' motion it could go only to the committee which had had it. Jones said that for a month it had been impossible to obtain the presence of a quorum at any meeting of his committee until Tuesday night and that he had no hope that a majority of the members would attend any future meeting.

Briggs promised that his unnamed friend would appear at a meeting tonight and present his objections to the bill. Briggs' motion to refer was adopted by an unrecorded vote of 22 to 8, the Senators thus getting rid of the bill without being forced to go on record against it.

Lobby Effective Behind Scenes.

The measure has the active support of organized labor and of the League of Women Voters, and while each has considerable influence in legislation if a bill can be

BALLOT FRAUD CHARGED IN BROOKLYN, ILL., ELECTION

Former Village President Moves to Compel Proceedings Against Present Officials.

Charges of fraud and ballot box stuffing were made yesterday by Edward M. Green, former village president of Brooklyn, Ill., a Negro community, in a mandamus action to compel State's Attorney Louis P. Zerweck to start quo warranto proceedings against the town's present officials.

Green's petition related that 82 of the 1263 ballots reported by election clerks were fraudulent, enough to swing the election to William Terry, who assumed office as president May 5. It was asserted that the number of voters exceeded the registration, and that in one ballot box several ballots were found folded together.

The action, if successful, would force village officials to show their right to hold office. Zerweck told a reporter he had advised Green that a contest of the election was the only course open.

SALESWOMAN IS INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

Suffers Fractured Skull When Thrown From Car; One Driver Slightly Injured, Other Unhurt.

A door-to-door saleswoman suffered a fractured skull today when the automobile in which she was riding collided with another car at Rock Hill and Laclede Station roads, St. Louis County. She is in County Hospital.

Clarence Morris, 3913 Page boulevard, who was with her, said he knew her as Rose and gave her address as 4038 Olive street. Hospital authorities were told that address her name was Miss Rose Pappen. Both she and Morris were thrown from the car by the force of the impact. He was only slightly hurt. The other driver, Charles Scharnhorst, 300 Edgar road, Webster Grove, was unhurt.

brought out into the open, the business lobby has a much greater influence behind the scenes and is effective in preventing bills, which would embarrass members with the labor organizations, from getting on to the floor, where it would be necessary for Senators to go on record.

If by any chance the minimum wage bill should get out of the committee, it would take its place at the foot of the Senate calendar, too far down to be reached before adjournment.

The probability, however, is that there will not be a quorum present at the meeting tonight or at any future meeting which may be called.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

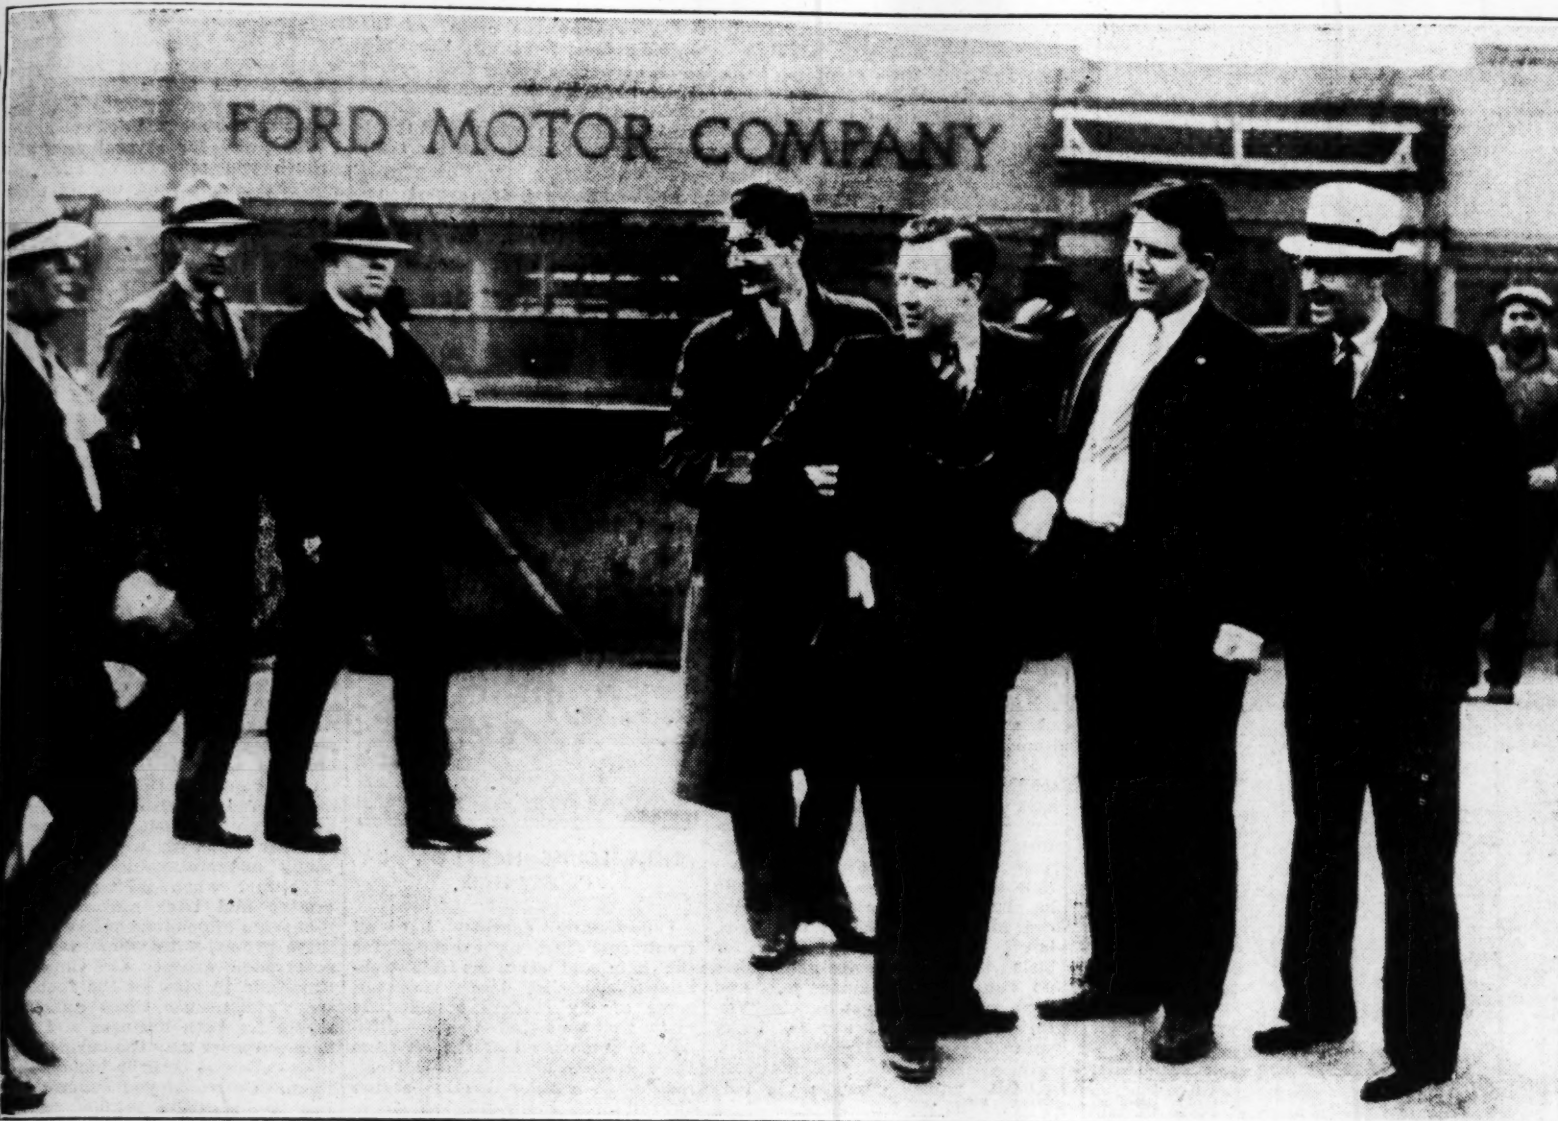

SUPPOSE I'm just like all the other country boys. After I've been in the city a while, I like to get my country relatives out here so I can show off a little bit. When Grandpaw Snazzy came out here to visit me, I couldn't wait to get him up to one of these fashionable night-clubs, so he could see some of these modern dances. I knew he had never gone to anything but the square dances back home and I thought he'd open his eyes in wonder when he saw these new steps they're doin' nowadays. Well sir, he sat there and watched 'em for a couple of dances and then he turned to me and says, "I'd like to get a girl—I'd like to get out there and dance." I says, "Grandpaw, you don't know anything about these modern dances," and he says, "Well, there ain't a thing in the world to it—all you got to do is keep turnin' around and wipin' your feet!"

The Smother Play

By Ely Culbertson

(Copyright, 1937.)

ONE OF the rarest and most difficult plays at bridge is the so-called "smother play," in which a defender has an apparently certain trump trick snatched away from him.

One of my most prolific and astute correspondents describes just such a play in the following letter. "Dear Mr. Culbertson: A rather unusual hand came up at a pair tournament recently in which one of my opponents, holding two apparently certain trump tricks, lost one of them by failing to cash it when given an opportunity. The hand follows:

East, dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

♠ K 10
♥ Q 9
♦ A K 10 8 6 3
♣ A K 10

♠ A 4
♥ J 6
♦ Q 9 7 5 4 2
♣ 9 2

♠ 8
♥ K 10 8 4 3 2
♦ J
♣ Q 7 7 4 3

♠ 9 7 6 5 3 2
♥ A 7 5
♦ None
♣ 8 6 5

The bidding:

East South West North

Pass Pass Pass 1 diamond

Pass 1 spade Pass 3 diamonds

Pass 3 spades Pass 4 spades

Pass Pass Pass

"I was South and allowed the opening lead of the diamond deuce to ride to a ruff and led a low spade, which West ducked, for reasons best known to himself. I tried the 10, and when it didn't bring out the ace, resigned myself to the loss of two trump tricks. The diamond suit proved sour, so I considered the possibility of finding West with two doubletons, throwing him in with a trump at the tenth trick and forcing a lead away from the heart king, but abandoned the idea after a little thought, as it was obvious that he would have opened the bidding in a match point game if he had held that card in addition to the other stuff with which he was marked. Then came the dawn. If West had doubletons in hearts and clubs, five odd was a cinch anyway. As nothing could be lost by trying, I entered dummy with a club for the third ruff of a diamond, cashed my heart ace, got to dummy again with the other high club, discarded my two small hearts on the high diamonds, ruffed the heart queen and led my last club. East won, and when his return lead smothered the trump queen, West threw his cards on the floor, and East, having sensed what was coming, was ready with a ruff bit of sarcasm as to West's carrying his notorious fondness for the society of the fair sex somewhat to extremes.

"Yours very truly,

"F. H. RICHMOND,

"Birmingham, Ala."

Mr. Richmond's analysis covers all the vital points. Of course, the trick stolen would not have been very important in rubber bridge, but since this was match point duplicate, I have no doubt that it earned him a top on the board.

West's first round duck of the spade appears silly in the light of what happened later, but actually, how many players, if any, in West's position could dream that it made any difference? The last thing in the world that you, I or West could foresee would be that our queen of spades could be taken from us after dummy was down to the blank king.

DAILY MAGAZINE

HER CAREER IS TAKING CHANCES

Faye Lucille Cox, Parachute Jumper, Has "Bailed Out" 319 Times

FAYE LUCILLE COX IN HER JUMPING OUTFIT. AT RIGHT, WITH "BIG BOY," HER AIR-MINDED PET.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN

WHAT is she like, the lady parachute jumper, when she comes down to earth? The girl who steps out on the wings of a plane 10,000 feet up in the air, leaps, drops 9000 feet, down, down, faster and faster, trailing a comet tail of smoke, then, 600 feet above the ground, opens her Japanese silk umbrella, drifts and settles as lightly as a thistle down upon the earth?

That is, she lands lightly if all goes well. But suppose everything doesn't go well? Suppose the umbrella doesn't open? Why, WHY, does she want to wait until she is just about to crash before she pulls her ripcord?

That's to give you the maximum thrill, my dears. That's so, while you are watching her plummeting, you'll have a long time to catch your breath and hold it and agonize and shudder and shiver and shriek and get ready to swoon—if she doesn't land lightly. That's the delayed opening, and that's parachute jumping refined to its most exciting degree of danger and suspense.

Faye Lucille Cox has made 319 of these jumps. She is the foremost woman exponent of the delayed opening, rated No. 1 American woman parachute jumper by the American Aeronautic Association, holder of four world's records, among them, altitude, jumping from 18,256, low opening at 200 feet above ground and the Irvin air-chute trophy for spot landing at Buffalo last year. She has come to test her skill at the Aerobatics meet at Lambert Field this weekend, against some of the best men in the profession. Particularly she wants to beat Roger Don Rae, champion of spot landing, that is, aiming and landing in a given 150-foot circular goal.

Anybody, it seems, can bail out in the clouds, pull a handy ripcord with plenty of time to spare and enjoy a nice, long, serene float to earth. But to step out into space, knowing the earth is coming toward you at a speed of 135 miles per hour, wait until you have attained maximum velocity, which is within 1800 feet, then wait until you judge you are 1000 feet above ground before you pull the ripcord, that takes courage with power, judgment. Skill, too, for after you've pulled the cord, you've got to spread your arm, reach up and balance the risers to steady the chute, stop any oscillation caused by wind and the jerk of the shrouds as the chute, with a report like a pistol shot, snaps open. Otherwise, you may go into a twist or a spin that'll land you any way but right side up.

IT WASN'T Faye Lucille who told me of her record, the intricacies and dangers of the spectacle she puts on. It took her husband, Merlyn Cox, to do that. Pacing excitedly, talking above the clatter waiters were making with dishes preparing for a luncheon in a private dining room to which we had repaired for an interview to escape the seething activity in the air meet headquarters next door in the Mayfair Hotel, Cox extolled his wife's performance as the star of his aerial circus. He is a stunter, too, does cut-to-plane changes, wing walking and parachute jumping, from balloons as well as planes.

"But Faye is the colorful one of our troupe," he insisted. "You should see her fire jumps, setting off red flares and fireworks. That's a pretty sight with the chute illuminated all around her. She won't be able to do that here. They're not having any night shows. And her center wing cut, where she sits on the top wing held by no artificial supports or safety devices, only by centrifugal force, while the plane rolls, loops and spins. 'Is her show. The Faye Lucille Cox Aerial Dare Devils, we call it."

"Then let her talk." It was a shame to choke off so much enthusiasm, but thus far Faye Lucille, sitting there demurely in her trim little tailored suit and beige gloves and slacks and jauntily perched overseas cap, might almost as well not have been present. Ups and downs of the show business all over the country were interesting but I was not finding out about the ups and downs of a lady parachute jumper.

Abashed the proud husband retired from the room. Then I learned about Big Boy, the air-minded fox, terrier, her "only family," who is more at home in a plane than anywhere else and sneaks and steals air rides whether he is invited or not. About the trailer house they live in on tours. About the broken right arm, just out of bandages, still a little stiff, "but I can pull the ripcord with my left hand." About the accident Easter Sunday at Brookhaven, Miss., when she landed on the limb of a tree and it broke and let her fall on her wrist. About this longest enforced vacation she has had in seven years of parachute jumping and her regret at having to miss an air meet date in Canada which would have given her a chance to see "those darling Dionne babies." And how old she is. "You guess," she requested. I looked her over, from the crown of her cropped auburn curls, down her slender curves, back to her face with its fair skin, but somewhat freckled snub nose, into her hazel eyes and at her soft, babyish mouth, and I guessed, "About 24."

"I'm 28," she announced triumphantly. "I worry about my age more than anything. Nobody'll want to see an old lady parachute jumper. I dread those birthdays."

BEFORE this Merlyn was back. "You won't have to worry after this year," he said protectively. "This is her last year of jumping. I'm determined about that. During the depression with the show business what it was, it was necessary. But this year we'll clean up and we'll settle down, honey."

"I've had some close calls in the air," she recalled. "Once I jumped with a foot in a plaster cast. But that was nothing like so cumbersome as the extra chute the Department of Commerce makes us carry."

FRANCE A MONTH AGO," added Mr. Cox.

"He knows I am afraid of cows because once I landed straight out of a cow," explained Faye. "That poor cow! She was so surprised, she galloped across the field, then she turned and stared at me and did I take to my heels! But the horse I scared to death, live in on tours. About the broken right arm, just out of bandages, still a little stiff, "but I can pull the ripcord with my left hand." About the accident Easter Sunday at Brookhaven, Miss., when she landed on the limb of a tree and it broke and let her fall on her wrist. "I'm 28," she announced triumphantly. "I worry about my age more than anything. Nobody'll want to see an old lady parachute jumper. I dread those birthdays."

BEFORE this Merlyn was back. "You won't have to worry after this year," he said protectively. "This is her last year of jumping. I'm determined about that. During the depression with the show business what it was, it was necessary. But this year we'll clean up and we'll settle down, honey."

"Let him talk," said his wife resignedly. "He really made me what I am. He took me up and pushed me off. He had told me what I was to do and I remembered to do it. That was all there was to it."

"That's right," agreed Merlyn. "left to herself she'd be just an ordinary woman, afraid of cows, of mice, of grasshoppers, of snakes."

Helen Hayes To Close Hit On Saturday

"Victoria Regina" Will End for Season With 517th Performance.

By Alice Hughes

(Copyright, 1937.)

NEW YORK, May 26. — "ELL" our little gladiator of the theater, Helen Hayes, drops the curtain on the local run of "Victoria Regina" next Saturday evening, and retires to her much-loved country home at near-Nyack to restore her tissues and be with her husband, her little girl and her birds and flowers.

This fascinating collection of scenes from the life of Queen Victoria is the greatest hit the little Brown girl from Washington has ever had. It wasn't a mere run—it was a marathon. Next Saturday's final show will mark her 517th performance of the exacting part on Broadway, and the nearest she had ever come to that resounding figure was her 386 local showing of "Coquette," that emotion-rouser of nearly a decade ago. "Victoria" was a socko from its very first unveiling, and so terrifically did it draw by word-of-mouth praise that its press agent only sent out publicity material by special request—an extraordinary happening in show business! As for selling seats, there weren't any to sell, and the man at the wicket was concerned only with the number of stanzas the fire ladders allowed to enter!

Helen tells us: she'll spend a month rustivating at Nyack. She says she's fit enough, but that the run seemed about as long as Victoria's reign. In July she'll go west with spouse Charlie MacArthur to keep an eye on him while he slaves at scenario writing. She can make a picture, if she likes, but I doubt that she'll like. For Helen hates the movies and makes no bones about saying so. And next season you'll get her in "Victoria." And all I say is, lucky you!

FOR name changes via holy matrimony, let me point out, in a genteel way, to Donna Luciana del Balbo di Caprigliano who has just arrived from Italy to visit her mama here. She used to be Frances Miller. I'll bet there's a girl that has out-sized calling cards, hey?

Well, Anne Nicholas duly opened her revival of "Abie's Irish Rose" here, for the reason I still can't fathom. And it was a fair treat, mates, to watch our drama critics skate gracefully over the thin ice! Fifteen years ago the town's reviewers leaped upon poor old "Abie" and beat it to death—only to have it come to life and run five years on Broadway! Some of the boys are still eating the brutal adjectives they wrote so long ago.

A child-whisper got his come-uppance here the other day, and one of our jurists set a legal rate for whip lashes laid about a small boy who tramples a neighbor's garden. Three weeks about the legs of Robert Pfeffer, 9, were assessed at $5 apiece by Judge De Andrea. What do you think of such a tariff?

I hear from Rome that Mrs. John Lodge, who used to be Frances Braggiotti of our big tribe of Glamorous Braggiottis, is in a fair way to become the Dietrich of Italy, working in Il Duce's movies, and is said to be plotting an assault on the Hollywood film-canisters. A stunning crowd, those Braggiottis! all beautiful and all implicated in one art or another.

I always learn something by studying the other walls of the deep courtyard which my window faces. Yesterday I saw that a neighbor had covered her dinette window with what looks like yellow cellophane—no doubt to give her the illusion of sunlight while munching her morning toast. Poor New Yorkers! Yellow cellophane sunlight in a court where real sunlight never comes!

Individual pastry cases should be reheated before they are served. After they have been stored a day or so they are likely to absorb a little moisture which tends to make them tough. Heating remedies the toughness.

Hot Oil and Glossy Hair

By Gladys Glad

IT IS my contention that every woman should give her hair extra care at the close of the winter season, for during this time, so many women suffer from severe colds, nerve strain, influenza and like illnesses. And in the spring such illnesses begin to reflect themselves in the condition of the scalp and hair.

A well-known hair expert recently reported his belief that practically every type of hair can be subjected to reconditioning hot oil treatments with great profit.

ANITA LOUISE HAS LOVELY, GLOSSY HAIR.

I personally consider hot oil treatments just as excellent for the hair and scalp as this well-known specialist does. However, some of my readers occasionally claim that they find it rather difficult to remove all of the oil from their tresses after such a treatment. As a rule, this is because they do not know how to shampoo their locks properly after such a treatment.

In the first place, when shampooing the hair after a hot castor oil treatment, a liquid soap should be used, and not soap in cake form. And in the second place, warm water should be used, and not hot water. In the actual shampooing, the hair should not first be moistened with hot water, for such a procedure would tend to set the oil and make it difficult to eradicate.

A good liquid soap should be applied directly to the hair before the hair is moistened at all, and a good lather should be raised. This makes it possible for the soap to act directly upon the oil. Then the hair should be rinsed with lukewarm water. Such soapings and rinsings should be continued until every bit of the oil has been removed from the hair. Then rinse your hair thoroughly with clear water until all soapy lather has been removed. Last, in the last rinse water dissolve a teaspoon of baking soda. This will make possible the removal of any remaining oil, and will leave your hair beautifully soft and fluffy.

Correct Form For Several Announcements

Making Public the Adoption of a Baby—Change of Business Address.

By Emily Post

(Copyright, 1937.)

Dear Mrs. Post: I AM sorry to be so bothersome but may I ask again that you print the wording of a form announcing the adoption of our baby? I was away for several days and believe you must have answered my first request on one of these days.

Answer: I am very glad to reprint this, which I wrote for you: Mr. and Mrs. John Kindhart, have the happiness to announce the adoption of Mary Lou, aged four months.

It seems to me that an indication of the happiness you were feeling in welcoming her was important not only because it expressed your point of view, but because it might some day—if you keep it to show her—help to prevent a misinterpretation of the word "adopted" which might at some time make even your precious Mary Lou unhappy.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am moving my offices into the city, which is about 50 miles from this town. I would like very much to send announcements of this change of business address. May these be sent not only to the customers on my records but also to people who are potential business prospects? Another thing, my wife and I have many acquaintances whom we have met when taking various cruises and trips abroad. Could this same announcement be sent to these people, with whom we never correspond except at Christmas time, and who don't know where we want to use these announcements for both business and private purposes may the business and house address both be included in them. Or would you suggest having two separate announcements printed? Please give the form for the combined announcement or for separate cards.

Answer: I don't think that you could possibly combine both purposes. Your business cards may be sent to everybody in the telephone directory anywhere, whether you want to use these announcements for both business and private purposes may the business and house address both be included in them. Or would you suggest having two separate announcements printed? Please give the form for the combined announcement or for separate cards.

The between-meals lunch is advisable for underweight or fast-growing children. It may include graham crackers and milk, fruit, simple cookies and fruit juices. In summer, fresh fruits or eggs and milk drinks are suitable.

My dear Mrs. Carr: I HAVE been told all my young life that it would be so nice to marry and have a husband to take care of me. He would shoulder all the burden and be a sturdy arm in which I could lean, and a protecting arm in the approach of trouble.

Well, my sturdy oak, and so-called protecting arm, has turned out to be a grown-up baby, who thinks the world owes it to him to take care of him. He would shoulder all the burden and be a sturdy arm in which I could lean, and a protecting arm in the approach of trouble.

I know very well it isn't the fault. His mother gave him the service of a valet and the clothing of a babe in long clothes. He wishes always to come first and mother thought nobody was good enough for her tootles wooties. Now he is sure of this.

Well, my husband will bear the brunt of his coddling all his life and I am likely to bear the scars. I am the vampire who takes his blood and money. The honeymoon had hardly begun, when I discovered that he knew about as much about a husband's responsibilities as Willie-in-knee-breeches.

I have grown indifferent to being thoughtless devotee than mother, less capable and less loyal. Will mothers ever learn Mrs. Carr, that boys as well as girls need training for the great responsibility of matrimony? There is not much evidence of hope so far. HANDICAP.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr: A MIGHTY 16 years old and I have been going steady with a boy for six months. He is 19 and a gentleman in every respect.

As I haven't many sure ways of going places with respectable boys, my mother wanted me to go with this one. She likes him just fine. The trouble is that I have begun to like him a great deal and now she has told me he loves me and I am sure he means it. He has said that when he is 22 and I am 19 he wanted to marry me.

Mrs. Carr, I didn't answer this, because I didn't know exactly how to say what I wanted to say. I think we should not see too much of each other—should separate and go with others some. But he is awfully easily touched and I am afraid if I mention it, his feelings will be hurt and I will lose him forever. And that would be terribly hard for me to take.

And now I want to ask you something about my summer wardrobe. Tell me if you think navy blue, a winey violet color and medium bright green are too dark for summer? I have a dress of each color, and as I can wear very few dresses, I wondered if I could wear them. Isn't there some way I could trim them with touches of white or another color?

BROWN EYES. Your intuition is exactly right and, as you have shown by your nice feeling for the boy and consideration of his probable reaction, you know that it will require tact to let him know your views. Without doubt, it is best not to see too much of each other. The result of this mistake is the evident in the heartaches and disappointment of young people who are too headlong at first.

You could say to him, perhaps, that you feel the conditions are so ideal that you do not want to take a chance of losing him by overdoing the association in the beginning. That a little experience in the general association with other young people will only make you surer of each other and surer that in the future, both before and after marriage, you will be convinced that you could have made no other choice. And here try to make him see that your faith in each other will be proved without question, in this way. You will have no regrets.

You have not told me, in asking advice about these frocks, about the mistake you made in wearing them in summer, will depend upon weight than color. You can always add summery touches, such as white satin and fine lace lingerie. And this year it is the easiest thing in the world to make a wardrobe harmonizing, but in a pretty contrasting shade. Then there are the printed silks and chiffons for wash or bolero or scarf. Two and even three colors are so much the vogue. You should have no trouble in giving these frocks a summery look.

Without doubt, it is best not to see too much of each other. The result of this mistake is too often evident in the heartaches and disappointment of young people who are too headstrong at first.

And here try to make him see that your faith in each other will be proved without question, in this way. You will have no regrets.

You have not told me, in asking advice about these frocks, about the materials used. Your wearing them in summer, will depend more upon weight than color. You can always add summery touches, such as white tulle and fine lacy lingerie. And the year it is the easiest thing in the world to add a corsage flower, harmonizing, but in a pretty contrasting shade. Then there are the printed silks and chiffons for bath or bolero or scarf. My dear Mrs. Carr: I HAVE been told all my young life that it would be so nice to marry and have a husband to take care of me. He would shoulder all the burden and be a sturdy man on which I could lean, and a protecting arm in the approach of trouble.

Well, my sturdy oak, and so-called protecting arm, has turned out to be a grown-up baby, who thinks the world owes it to him to let that he has a right arm out all the time to catch him, if he so much as stumbles and to look after him every whim. He always expects to keep his cake and eat it too.

I know very well it isn't his fault. His mother gave him the service of a valet and the code of a babe in long clothes. He wishes always came first and mother thought nobody was good enough for her tootie wootie. Now he is sure of this.

Well, my husband will bear the burden of his coddling all his life and I am likely to bear the scars of the vampire who takes his food and money. The honeymoon had hardly begun, when I discovered that he knew about as much about a husband's responsibilities as Willie-in-knee-breeches.

I have grown indifferent to being thought less devoted than mother, less capable and less loyal. Will mothers ever learn from Carr, that boys as well as girls need training for the great responsibility of matrimony? There is not much evidence or hope so far. HANDICAP.

There is no reason why girls so often should have to fight against mother's lack of penetration. There is no reason why an intelligent mother should not see the trouble she is piling up for her child, and there is absolutely no reason why any woman should not realize that she is brewing trouble for her son, as well as for the man he marries by such shortsightedness.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

ONE day there was a gathering of men somewhere near the oil regions, and when I came to the hotel, which was full of oil men, I saw this name writ large on the register:

He was a young and enthusiastic fellow, so full of his subject that he added his slogan "$400 a Bbl." after his signature on the register,

WHAT JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER WROTE ABOUT HIMSELF

By John D. Rockefeller.

PROBABLY in the life of every one there comes a time when he is inclined to go over again the events, great and small, which have made up the incidents of his work and pleasure, and I am tempted to become a garrulous old man, and tell some stories of men and things which have happened in an active life.

In some measure I have been associated with the most interesting people our country has produced, especially in business—men who have helped largely to build up the commerce of the United States, and who have made known its products all over the world. These incidents which come to my mind to speak of seemed vitally important to me when they happened, and they still stand out distinctly in my memory.

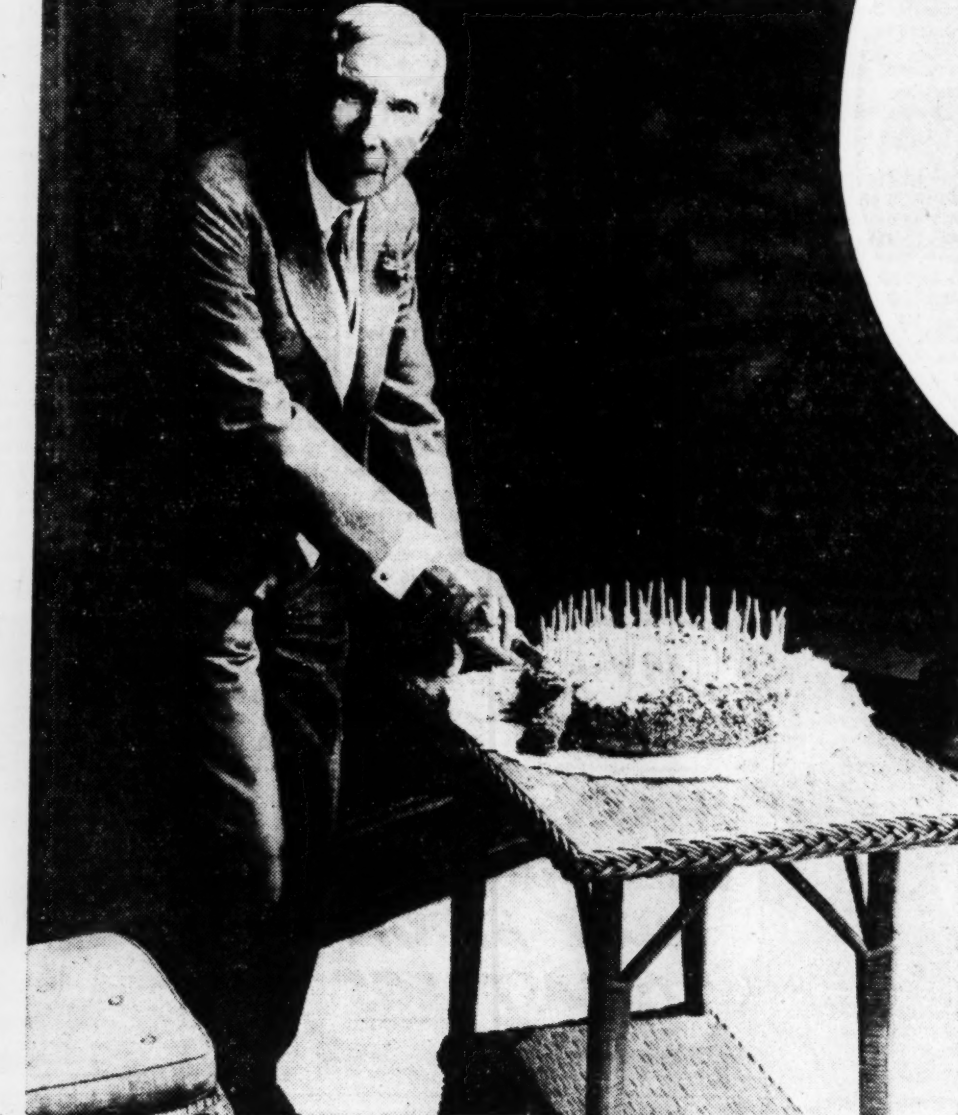

Just how far anyone is justified in keeping what he regards as his own private affairs from the public, or in defending himself from attacks, is a mooted point.

If one talks about one's experiences, there is a natural temptation to charge one with traveling the easy road to egotism; if one keeps silence, the inference of wrong-doing is sometimes even more difficult to meet, as it would then be said that there is no valid defense to be offered.

It has not been my custom to press my affairs forward into public gaze, but I have come to see that if my family and friends want some record of things which might shed light on matters that have been somewhat discussed, it is right that I should yield to their advice, and in this informal way go over again some of the events which have made life interesting to me.

Since these reminiscences are really what they profess to be, random and informal, I hope I may be pardoned for setting down so many small things.

In looking back over my life, the impressions which come most vividly to my mind are mental pictures of my old associates.

It is not always possible to remember just how one first met an old friend or what one's impressions were, but I shall never forget my first meeting with John D. Archibald, a vice-president of the Standard Oil Co.

At that time I was traveling about the country visiting the point where something was happening, talking with producers, the refiners, the agents, and actually getting acquainted.

"John D. Archibald, $400 a Bbl."

He was a young and enthusiastic fellow, so full of his subject that he added his slogan "$400 a Bbl." after his signature on the register,

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER EARLY IN HIS CAREER. AT TOP, MR. ROCKEFELLER (WITH CANE) AND FRIENDS ON HIS CLEVELAND GOLF COURSE IN 1912.

be made—as I said before, it was essential. Yet we could not quarrel with our old partner, but a minority of us had made up our minds that we must try to get him to yield, and we resolved to try another line of argument, and said to him:

"You say that we do not need to spend this money?"

"No," he replied, "it will probably prove to be many years before such a sum must be spent. There is no present need for these facilities you want to create, and the works are doing well as they are—let's let well enough alone."

NOW our partner was a very wise and experienced man, older and more familiar with the subject than some of us, and all this we admitted to him; but we had made up our minds, as I have said, to carry out this idea if we could possibly get his approval, and we were willing to wait until then.

As soon as the argument calmed down, and when the heat of our discussion had passed, the subject was brought up again. I had thought of a new way to approach it. I said:

"I'll take it, and supply this capital myself. If the expenditure turns out to be profitable the company can repay me; and, if it goes wrong, I'll stand the loss."

That was the argument that touched him. All his reserve disappeared and the matter was settled when he said:

"If that's the way you feel about it, we'll go to it together. I guess I can take the risk if you can."

It is always, I presume, a question in every business just how fast it is wise to go, and we went pretty rapidly in those days, building and expanding in all directions.

The part played by one of my earliest partners, Mr. H. M. Flagler, was always an inspiration to me. He invariably wanted to go ahead and accomplish great projects of all kinds, he was always on the active side of every question, and to his wonderful energy is due much of the rapid progress of the company in the early days.

It was to be expected of such a man that he should fulfill his destiny by working out some great problems at a time when most men want to retire to a comfortable life of ease. This would not appeal to my old friend.

He undertook, single-handed, the task of building up the east coast of Florida. He was not satisfied to plan a railroad from St. Augustine to Key West—a distance of more than 600 miles, which would have been regarded as an undertaking large enough for almost any one man—but in addition he built a chain of superb hotels to induce tourists to go to this newly-developed country.

I first knew Mr. Flagler as a young man who consigned produce to Clark & Rockefeller. He was a bright and active young fellow full of vim and push.

Naturally, I came to see more of him. The business relations which began with the handling of produce he consigned to our old firm grew into a business partnership, because people who lived in a comparatively small place, as Cleveland was then, were thrown together much more often than in such a place as New York.

When the oil business was developing and we needed more help, I at once thought of Mr. Flagler as a possible partner, and made him an offer to come with us and give up his commission business.

This offer he accepted, and so began that life-long friendship which has never had a moment's interruption. It was a friendship founded on business, which Mr. Flagler used to say was a good idea better than a business founded on friendship, and my experience leads me to agree with him.

But these old men's tales can hardly be interesting to the present generation, though perhaps they will not be useless if even tireless stories make young people realize now, above all other possessions, is the value of a friend in every department of life without any exception whatsoever.

How many different kinds of friends there are! They should all be held close at any cost; for, although some are better than others, perhaps, a friend of whatever kind is important; and this one learns as one grows older.

There is the kind that when you need help has a good reason just at the moment, of course, why it is impossible to extend it.

"I can't endorse your note," he says, "because I have an agreement with my partners not to."

"I'd like to oblige you, but I can't explain why at this moment," etc., etc.

I do not mean to criticize this sort of friendship; for sometimes it is a matter of temperament; and sometimes the real necessities are such that the friend cannot do as he would like to do.

AS I look back over my friends, I can remember only a few of this kind and a good many of the more capable sort. One special friend I had. His name was S. V. Harkness, and from the first of our acquaintance he seemed to have every confidence in me.

One day our oil warehouses and refinery burned to the ground in a few hours—they were absolutely annihilated. Though they were insured for many thousands of dollars, of course, we were apprehensive about collecting such a large amount of insurance, and feared it might take some time to arrange.

That plant had to be rebuilt right away and it was necessary to lay the financial plans. Mr. Harkness was interested with us in the business, and I said to him:

"I may want to call upon you for the use of some money. I don't know that we shall need it, but I thought I'd speak to you in advance about it."

He took in the situation without much explaining on my part. He simply heard what I had to say and I was a man of very few words.

"All right, J. D., I'll give you all I've got."

That was all he said, but I went home that night relieved of anxiety. As it turned out, we received the insurance company's check for the full amount before the builders required the payments; and while we didn't need his money, I never shall forget the whole-souled way in which he offered it.

And this sort of experience was not, I am grateful to say, rare with me. I was always a great borrower in my early days; the business was active and growing fast, and the banks seemed very willing to loan me the money.

But I fear I am telling too much about banks and money and business. I know of nothing more depreciable and pathetic than a man who devotes all the waking hours of the day to making money for money's sake.

If I were 40 years younger, I should like to go into business again, for the association with interesting and quick-minded men was always a great pleasure. But I have no dearth of interests to fill my days, and so long as I live I expect to go on and develop the plans which have been my inspiration for a lifetime.

During all the long period of work, which lasted from the time I was 16 years old until I retired from active business when I was 55, I must admit that I managed to get a good many vacations of one kind or another, because of the willingness of my most efficient associates to assume the burdens of the business which they were so eminently qualified to conduct. Of detail work, I feel I have

Exercises for The Different Parts of Body

Various Ones Are Necessary to Include All Groups of Muscles.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

THOSE WHO wish to develop all the muscles in the body systematically and equally, will probably not go in very much for games or sports. Games or sports develop the body generally, but not every group of muscles is brought into play in any one exercise.

Muscle groups of the body are those of: (1) the neck; (2) the shoulder girdle; (3) the upper arm; (4) the lower arm; (5) the back; (6) the abdomen; (7) the upper leg, and (8) the lower leg. Exercises which will do something to every one of these groups are as follows:

- (1) The Neck: Standing erect, bend the head forward and backward; as far to the left side as possible and then as far to the right side as possible. Then rotate, looking first to the right and then to the left.
- (2) The Shoulder Girdle: Standing erect with the arms straight out from the sides, move them in a circular fashion, so that the tips of the fingers describe a circle. Standing erect with the arms at the sides of the body, move them in a wide circle until they meet over the top of the head.
- (3) The Upper Arm: With the arms extended in front of the body, bend the elbow 20 times. Repeat with the arms extended straight out to the side from the shoulders.
- (4) The Forearm: With the arms extended, move the hands up and down, 20 to 40 times, and then allow the hands to describe a circle, 20 times.
- (5) The Back: Standing erect, lean over and touch your toes with your fingers, 20 times. With the back in the erect position, lean to the side until your finger tips touch the knee, on each side 20 times. Lie down on the floor, face down, and raise yourself on your hands, up and down, 20 times.
- (6) The Abdomen: Lie on the back, raise the head so that it looks at the toes, 20 times. Then raise the feet, with the knees stiff, until they point toward the ceiling, 20 times. Bend the knees so that the thighs touch the abdomen, 20 times.
- (7) The Upper Leg: Stand erect, rise on your toes, and then squat on your heels, 20 times.
- (8) The Lower Leg: Stand erect, rise on your toes, 20 times. Stand erect, rise on your heels, 20 times.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

For Friday, May 25.

THIS day has everything but your co-operation—and with that anything can be accomplished. Well, that is, the line is cleared for going after and getting what you want out of what you deserve, if you're willing to work.

How to Understand Causes.

When educators and leaders go about the study of history properly, they will treat it as a matter of cause and effect—the causes being far deeper than the acts and thoughts of men. They will be studying and understanding the causes behind what the men thought and did, and they will be finding them in the only place where they can be found; in the influence of planets.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead lessens occupational problems, and brings more opportunity generally from Dec. 25 on. New ways to break down limitations will come, if you are alert. Danger: Dec. 24 to Feb. 3; and from April 19.

If chocolate is to be added to frosting it should be cooled and then stirred into the frosting just before it is spread on the cake. Warm chocolate thins frosting. It also "cooks" egg whites in sauces and frostings in which both are used—producing a flecked appearance.

LIFE IS LIKE THIS—AND THAT.

YOU like coffee
And I like tea;
You like Liederkrantz,
I like Brie;
You like to walk,
And I'd rather dance;
You read McFadden,
To my Anatole France.

You like reason
And I like rhyme;
You like the home fires,
I like a time;
You like Sousa,
And I like Bach;
You cry Skoll
To my Erin go bragh!

Your life is orderly,
Your life is quiet;
Mine is a ragtag,
Mine is a riot.
How inconvenient!
What idiosyncrasy,
That I like you,
And you like me!

AND A VERY LOGICAL WON-

Mrs. C. O. Bradshaw, formerly for the last 10 years, in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw have as their friends some well known New in the life that streams past on the streets of the greatest metropolis of the world, is intrigued with the present insecure and tectery situation of things, not only in the world at large, but in this country itself, and frankly wonders what next.

And a lot of us, it may comfort
Mrs. Bradshaw to know, are pretty frank about our wondering what next.

We just throw cautions to the winds and wonder what next.
And it usually does.

EXPLANATION OF TODAY'S CARTOON
JOHN BROWN'S BODY—The Union forces sang "John Brown's body lies a mouldering in the grave, but his soul goes marching on" throughout the fraternal conflict of the Civil War. Thus John Brown of Ossawatimie became the incarnation of the cause that started the war. He was born in 1800, the son of Owen Brown, who worked in a tannery of Jesse Root Grant (father of General Grant, of Civil War fame) at Deerfield, Ohio. Thus the father of the man who started the Civil War by his attack on Harper's Ferry, worked for the father of the man who finished it. Brown was hanged in 1859, after being captured by Colonel Robert E. Lee, who was later to play his historical part against General Grant.

jewel-like days, in which to enjoy all these things—and no enjoyment. No happiness, no triumph. The first time in his successful life—no success!

It was a tribute to his personality, his aplomb, that not one of his friends asked more than the most conventional questions about the disappearance of a bride.

And it was a comment on Bellane, that no one of those friends risked offering more than the most conventional interest or curiosity when hearing the news of young Mrs. Jim Bellane's loss of her father; and of her flight to that mother's side, at some Continental health resort.

In short, people had merely an idea of a honeymoon, a first year of marriage saddened by fate, and cautiously left the matter there.

"I'm lucky in my friends," Jim Bellane said to himself, as he sat on his terrace in the July evenings and the August evenings, and then in the September evenings, while his excellent butler brought him his aperitif.

"I'm lucky in my friends," he

The Big Way
To View Life
For Happiness

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

"LIFE is a very big thing, Ladies, and we must have a big way of looking at it," said an old man to a young minister; and the young man never forgot those wise words.

Life does not always appear a big thing. Often enough it is not only shallow but mean. Our cynical novelists rob it of all its divine meaning and value, making it petty and putrid.

But the great lives tell another story. Men in high and humble lot paying "the last full measure of devotion" to truth, the love of the Brownings, the shining figure of St. Francis, restore our faith.

To be sure, these are the lofty ones, "hiding their faces in a cloud of stars," but we must be kind to them in some degree, else they would not move us so deeply by their heroic loveliness.

The saints are our inheritance, and the lyrics of all the poets singing and dancing, in their measure, in the humblest heart. They play upon our hearts as the bow upon the violin.

What is the big way of looking at life? It is to have faith in its value and possibilities, to trust those overtones and undertones which the great lives make us feel and hear.

Most of us most of the time, life is made up of little things, but we dare not let life itself become a little thing. Else we may live it in a little way, and lose its glory.

Death will seem a little thing if we think of life in a big way. There is a little in which "the blows do not slay but create," and that battle each of us can win if we have faith.

of the city acquaintances who, in his revised estimation, were not quite friends, "perhaps you will join the usual three of us for our week's shooting."

"Dear Mr. Bellane," or "Dear Jim," according to the former stage of intimacy, wrote more than one comfortable country hostess, "I hear that I have to postpone the pleasure of meeting your wife, but perhaps, since you are so unlucky in garcon, you would weekend with us..." And so on.

Jim Bellane would have given much to have found himself able to shoot with "the usual three"; or to have been there in those houses where, up till now, he had played comfortably the role of a very desirable guest. But his heart wasn't in it, his spirit failed, and not only his spirit, but his pride.

His pride was a shaken fortress. He talked of the die and trust himself to make the excuses to tell the necessary lies to people who, cause, although he thought, for consolation, of Helen Forrest, his image did not truly assuage his hunger for Doris.

done my full share. As I began my business life as a bookkeeper, I learned to have great respect for figures and facts, no matter how small they were.

When there was a matter of accounting to be done in connection with any plan with which I was associated in the earlier years, I usually found that I was selected to undertake it. I had a passion for detail which afterward I was forced to strive to modify.

At Pocantico Hills, New York, where I have spent portions of my time for many years in an old house where the fine views invite the soul and where we can live simply and quietly, I have spent many delightful hours, studying the beautiful views, the trees, and the fine landscape effects of that very interesting section of the Hudson River, and this happened in the days when I seemed to need every minute for the absorbing demands of business.

So I fear after I got well started, I was not what might be called a diligent business man.

This phrase, "diligent in business," reminds me of an old friend of mine in Cleveland who was devoted to his work.

I talked to him and no doubt bored him unappealingly, on my special hobby, which always has been what some people call landscape gardening, but which with me is the art of laying out roads and paths and work of that kind.

This friend of 35 years ago plainly disapproved of a man in business wasting his time on what he looked upon as mere foolishness.

One superb spring day I suggested to him that he should spend the afternoon with me (a most unusual and reckless suggestion for a business man to make in those days) and see some beautiful paths through the woods on my place which I had been planning and had about completed. I went so far as to tell him that I would give him a real treat.

"I cannot do it, John," he said, "I have an important matter of business on hand this afternoon."

"That may all be," I urged, "but it will give you no such pleasure as you'll get when you see these paths—the big trees on each side and—"

"Go on, John, with your talk about trees and paths. I tell you I've got an ore ship coming in and our mills are waiting for her."

He rubbed his hands with satisfaction. "I'd miss seeing her come in for all the wood paths in Christendom."

He was then getting $120 to $130 a ton for bessemer steel rails, and if his mill stopped a minute waiting for ore, he felt he was missing his life's chance.

Perhaps it was this same man who often gazed out into the lake with every nerve stretched to try to see an ore ship, approaching.

One day one of his friends asked him if he could see the boat.

"No-o, no-o," he reluctantly admitted, "but she's most in sight."

All this reminds me of my experiences in the ore business, but I shall come to that later. I want to say something about landscape gardening, to which I have devoted a great deal of time for more than 30 years.

LIKE my old friend, others may be surprised at my claim to be an amateur landscape architect in a small way, and my family have been known to employ a great landscape man to make quite sure that I did not ruin the place.

The problem was, just where to put the new home at Pocantico Hills. I thought I had the advantage of knowing every foot of the land, all the big old trees and the views of any given point.

I had studied them hundreds of times; and after this great landscape architect had laid out his plans and had driven his lines of stakes, I asked if I might see what I could do with the job.

In a few days I had worked out a plan so devised that the roads caught just the best views at just the angles where in driving up the hill you came upon the impressive outlooks, and at the ending was the final burst of river, hill, cloud and great sweep of country to tower the whole; and here I fixed my stakes to show where I suggested that the roads should run, and finally the exact place where the house should be.

"Look it all over," I said, "and decide which plan is best." It was a proud moment when this real authority accepted my suggestions as bringing about the most favored spots for views and agreed upon the site of the house.

How many miles of roads I laid out in my time, I can hardly compute, but I have often kept it in my mind.

While surveying roads, I have run the lines until darkness made it impossible to see the little stakes and flags. It is all very vain of me to tell of these landscape enterprises, but perhaps they will set the business talks which occupy so much of my story.

SHIPS AND PASSENGERS

By Bruno Lessing

ON BOARD M. S. CHICHIBU MARU, May 26.

THIS is a craft of 17,500 tons, about 600 feet long, roomy, comfy and up to date. The Japanese can build ships. If it were ever worth their while to build a 2000-foot ship I'm sure they'd build a 2000-foot ship. They're a very surprising people.

There are many Japanese on board and they get all the Nizakana, Shioyaki, Uman, Sashimi and other Japanese messes they can eat. Most of the passengers, however, are Americans and Europeans, and for them there is the whole gamut between Coney Island clam chowder, chicken bouillon, and fried sandab, roast beef, chicken, duck and venison, with caviar, dill pickles and pigs' knuckles thrown in. All you have to do is to order.

Including the officers, crew, first, second and third cabin passengers, there are 1000 people on board but you'd never suspect it. There are so many decks and public rooms and so many nooks and corners for reading or snoozing or holding hands that you frequently wonder where all the people are.

On the second day out we had a typhoon and the Chichibu Maru did some tail rolling under the impact of that terrific wind, but I'm sure that even the Rock of Gibraltar would have been tossed about a lot before those angry waves permitted it to sink to the peaceful depths. In an ordinary storm she has a gentle, reassuring motion as she plunges along at 18 knots an hour, which minimizes sea-sickness and allays fear.

THE passengers represent the usual cross-section of traveling humanity. Religion, law, medicine, big business, little business, art, music, society and professional world-trotters are all represented. There's a Japanese newspaper man on board. He and I represent journalism, but we're keeping away from each other because we don't feel like talking shop. Rich people, poor people, young people, elderly people, genial people, snooty people. There's a wealthy Filipino with his wife, son and three daughters, on a trip around the world. There are some good-looking American and English girls, but if I were called upon to play the role of Paris and award the apple, I'd bestow it upon one of those three Filipino girls. They appear to be between 16 and 21 years old. All have coal-black hair, wonderful dreamy eyes, a cupid's bow for a mouth and snowy teeth that gleam when they smile. A clear olive-tinted complexion that needs no rouge. And when, on festive nights, they're doled up in Filipino costumes—well, if I had Paris' job, I'd sneak down to the storeroom and get two more apples.

They do not flirt with the young lads because Papa and Mama are alert. All I know about them, aside from their appearance, is what the Captain told me: they are well-educated, speak several languages and have been brought up in an atmosphere of refinement. I wish them happiness.

There is a good-looking, youngish woman with dyed hair, who loves Singapore gin slings. I overheard a man in the smoking room commenting on the subject of refinement to her and she replied, "Ah, g'wan! You and your refinement! I learned as much about refinement as anyone."

THERE is only one passenger whom I dislike. You cannot spend a week or more on a ship without taking an instinctive dislike to some fellow-passenger even without talking to him. Sometimes you discover, afterward, that your judgment was all wrong and you and the object of your momentary dislike become pals. I'm sure, however, that I would never like this bete noire of mine, even if we were thrown together on a desert island for 20 years.

He struts into the dining room in shorts, with the flaps of his loose shirt opened wide, exposing a forest of hair. On the first occasion men and women gasped. After that they merely referred to him as Tarzan. I don't know whether he's proud of his masculinity or whether it's just bad taste on his part. Even if it's pride it's bad taste. It's easier to cure smallpox or Asiatic cholera than bad taste.

They have the same amusements and diversions on board that the big Atlantic liners provide. Movies and talkies, swimming-pool, dancing, costume parties, trap-shooting, tennis tournaments and all that sort of thing which you can get ashore. But there are forms of entertainment which are unknown upon the Atlantic.

Wonderful displays of fireworks—"Willow Leaves and Splitting Stars," "Silvery Dancing Stars on Chrysanthemums," "Flying Rubies," etc. On the Atlantic Ocean, which is so much smaller, and so crowded with shipping, such a display might readily lead mariners to suspect that a ship is in distress. But on the vast Pacific, where the practice is recognized and causes no alarm, this display, mingling with the starry sky is an unforgettable spectacle.

New Fall Colors
NEW YORK—Tweed coats for school wear will be made up in a new set of colors. Bright red is slated to replace wine. A new light brown, with more red in it than last fall's brown, is also planned.

Frozen Fruit Salad
Two-third cup diced pineapple.
One-half cup pears.
One-half cup apricots.
One-half cup diced celery.
One teaspoon lemon juice.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One-half cup salad dressing.
One-third cup whipped cream.
Mix the ingredients and freeze four hours in tray in mechanical refrigerator. Serve on lettuce and top with more dressing.
(This salad may be frozen by packing tightly in a covered mold and burying four hours in five parts of chopped ice to one part coarse salt.)

Matching Pastels
NEW YORK—Pastel sweater and tweed costumes in matching shades are popular for sports wear. Several shops offer tweeds dyed to match the sweaters. Others match skirts of wool to pastel skirts for the home knitter.

For Collegians
NEW YORK—College girls have adopted bodily a type of box jacket popular on men's campuses. They have retained even the left-hand buttoning. The jacket material is heavy white cotton. Large patch pockets are handy for students.

Shoes Go Gay
NEW YORK—Race track fashions indicate great interest in shoes of bright-colored leather. Copper and rust shades are particular favorites and bright red and wine are popular. All four provide gay accents for beige costumes.

OH DEAR! THESE STOCKINGS MAKE MY LEGS LOOK TERRIBLE -- I'VE ONLY WASHED THEM TWICE AND THEY'RE ALL COTTONY-LOOKING!

THERE'S A FRIEND OF MINE, ANN CARTER, COME ON, TOM, I WANT YOU TO MEET HER.

NOT ON YOUR LIFE, SIS. I JUST CAN'T STAND A GIRL WITH UGLY LOOKING LEGS AND ANKLES.

IT'S ANN'S STOCKINGS THAT MAKE HER LEGS LOOK SO BAD. THEY'RE ALL SOAP-STREAKED AND "COTTONY". I THINK I'LL TELL HER ABOUT DREFT.

HERE YOU ARE, ANN. IT'S A PRESENT. THE MOST MARVELOUS SUDS YOU EVER HEARD OF! MIND YOU, MAKE THAT DREFT TEST I'VE TOLD YOU ABOUT.

THANKS A THOUSAND! I'D DO ANYTHING FOR BETTER-LOOKING LEGS.

OH, DARLING, I'M SO GRATEFUL YOU TOLD ME ABOUT—YOU KNOW WHAT!

SIS, WHO'S THAT GIRL WITH THE STUNNING LEGS? I WANT TO MEET HER!

WHY, TOM, YOU'RE IMPOSSIBLE! THAT'S ANN CARTER. I'VE BEEN WANTING YOU TO MEET HER FOR WEEKS.

HER LEGS DO LOOK A LOT BETTER NOW SHE'S WASHING HER STOCKINGS IN DREFT!

NEW SUDS GIVES STOCKINGS OVER 100% LONGER LIFE, says Miss Lottinville

Women say Drest makes their fine things newer, "younger," better looking. Makes them wear longer, too!

"I found that my stockings washed in Drest lasted 120% longer than when washed in soap flakes," testifies Miss Ellen Lottinville of 6106 Ellis Ave., Chicago. "And it was marvelous how much better they looked."

Here's why Drest is so different: 1. Drest gives five times more suds than any soap flakes in hardest water. 2. It never forms soap scum—leaves no "ring around the washbasin." 3. It instantly and completely dissolves in cool water.

Anything safe in water is safe in Drest. Ask your dealer for Drest, today! Procter & Gamble.

WHAT THE DREFT TEST IS—
Take a pair of "clean" soap-washed stockings. Wash just one of them in Drest. Then compare. The Drest-washed stocking will look "younger" and richer. The other will seem old, gray and "cottony" looking in comparison.

Decoration Day Picnic Menu With Recipes

Suggestions for Barbecued Chicken Luncheon for Outdoor Holiday.

By Gladys T. Lang

SPICED BOUILLON
BARBECUED CHICKEN
COLE SLAW POTATO CHIPS
BUTTERED ROLLS
CUT UP FRUIT
MOCHA LAYER CAKE COFFEE

Spiced Bouillon
One large can of tomatoes.
Eight cloves.
One bay leaf.
One dozen whole black peppers.
One stalk celery.
One sliced onion.
Two cans of bouillon.
Simmer slowly for one hour.
Strain through a fine cheese cloth, season with salt and pour piping hot in a thermos previously heated with hot water.

Barbecued Chicken
Split broiling chickens in halves, salt and pepper and wrap in oiled paper. When ready to cook lightly grease a grill placed over charcoal embers. Place the chickens, bone side down and brown slowly; then turn. Wrap a stick with a clean cloth, dip into the sauce which has been prepared at home, and as the chicken is cooking, swap frequently.
When chicken is cooked pour remaining sauce over each serving.

Barbecue Sauce
One large bottle of catsup.
One-third cup vinegar.
One teaspoon of tobacco.
One-fourth pound of butter.
One teaspoon salt.
One cup of water.
Heat all together.

Cole Slaw
Shred one 2-pound head of solid cabbage and place in cold water for an hour. Drain and wipe between towels. Cut one-fourth cup of pimentoes in small pieces and mix with the cabbage. Blend thoroughly with the following dressing:
Beat the yolks of two eggs with two teaspoons of sugar, one tablespoon of melted butter, two-thirds cup of milk, one-fourth cup of vinegar, two teaspoons of salt, two teaspoons of cornstarch dissolved in a little of the milk, two teaspoons of dry mustard and a dash of cayenne. Cook all in a double boiler until thickened then remove from fire and fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Cool and mix thoroughly the cabbage. Pack in a chilled container.

Cut Up Fruit
Cut a ripe peach into chunks, add strawberries, black cherries and any other fresh fruits in season.
Sugar and place in a large mason jar.

Mocha Layer Cake.
Three-fourths cup of butter
Two cups sugar
One tablespoon vanilla
One and one-fourth cups milk
Three and one-fourth cups of cake flour measured after sifting Six level teaspoons of baking powder
Eight egg whites
Pinch of salt
Cream the butter until very light, add the sugar gradually, creaming all the while until light and frothy, then add the vanilla. Sift the flour and baking powder together four or five times. Add the flour and milk alternately to the butter and sugar mixture and beat hard. Fold in the egg whites beaten stiff with a pinch of salt. Butter and flour cake pans and in each put two rounded tablespoons of the cake batter. Spread evenly over bottom and bake in a 375 oven for about 10 minutes. Remove immediately to board and stack as they are baked.
This amount of dough will make about 12 layers.

Filling
Three ounces of bitter chocolate
Two cups of strong coffee
One cup of cream
Cook in the double boiler until the chocolate is melted. Beat together six egg yolks and two whole eggs with a pinch of salt. Add two and a half cups of sugar gradually to the eggs and beat well. Pour into the double boiler, add one tablespoon of cornstarch stirred smooth in a little cold coffee and cook all together, stirring frequently until thickened. Cool and spread thickly between layers and cover top and sides. This cake is better made the day before using. Slice and wrap each piece in oiled paper before packing.

White for Evening
PARIS—Ladys Mond has ordered several evening dresses from London, all in white. One model is of white and silver brocade with a full skirt. Saw-tooth edging borders the décolleté and small peplum. A white crepe dress and jacket ensemble is embroidered in mother-of-pearl. Gold and jewel-colored stones highlight the third gown, also in crepe. The latter has a tailleur jacket studded with jewels and embroidered in gold.

Summer Informalities PARIS—Among "Don't-dress-for-dinner" dresses, those informal evening frocks launched by Molyneux, are several of sheer wool crepe. By a special twist of the yarns these summer wools are rendered un-crushable. The same twist prevents them from clinging with unwelcome closeness on warm summer days. One afternoon ensemble is made of grey-colored angora wool, faintly shadow-striped.
